If War Did Come.
The Prince's Malaria.
Ask Mussolini.
Oh! Man, Full of Guile.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AN AIRPLANE hurried to the Prince of Wales' hunting camp in Africa, supposed to carry important news concerning affairs of state.

It turns out that the Prince has malaria. The airplane, probably, was taking a doctor, or, perhaps, only quinine. Little things are more dangerous than big ones sometimes. The Prince went to kill lions and elephants, and did both safely. A small mosquito, planting the malaria germ in his blood, makes him a sick man.

Fortunately, quinine, taken internally or injected into the blood stream, cures malaria, being one of the few specifics that men possess.

IT IS amazing to recall what happened when Jesuit missionaries, 300 years ago, learned in South America the value of "Peruvian bark." They brought it back to Europe and named it quinine, for the Countess of Cinchon. "Good Protestants" refused to use it, calling it "an invention of the devil," because it came from the Roman Catholic Church.

The Protestant Prince, nevertheless, will use it now.

CHICAGO gathered in, over the week-end, 814 more alleged gangsters. Some, caught with pistols, will go to jail, others, aliens, will be deported. A majority will break through the net.

Chicago shows energy, but will not end gang rule and racketeering by mild methods. A commission might be sent to ask Mussolini what he would do, and how he dealt with the Mafia in Sicily.

THAT Mafia organization would have made Chicago's racketeers, most of them, jump out of their shoes, as gentlemen do in the comic pictures. Mussolini brought them into court, chained together in an iron cage. The Mafia was eliminated.

ON ONE occasion Chicago had 4,000 of its gangsters locked up.

Mussolini, who believes in action, would very likely have closed doors and windows carefully and turned on the gas. At the least he would have made each of the 4,000 drink a quart of castor oil.

Very cruel, but it would have reduced Chicago's gang population considerably.

GEN. ELY, commanding the Second Corps area, has a plan to defend New York City in war. He would "mobilize the civilian services."

If modern war came, the civilian services would mobilize themselves. And with them the six million population of New York, as many as survived the first gas and bomb attack, would mobilize themselves by scattering through the country, abandoning the city as rats leave a ship when it is sinking.

IN CASE of an attack by airplane, which would be the first sort of attack in a new war, it would not be necessary for Gen. Ely to worry about his suggestion for "guarding the water supply."

After the first half hour, there wouldn't be anybody left in New York to drink water. The dead couldn't drink it and all the living would have left the city.

MR. SYKES, who has talent, makes a picture of the Farm Board as an anxious old father walking the floor with two heavy babies, "Wheat" and "Cotton."

The Farm Board decides to stop the carrying. No more buying up wheat sometimes at 15 cents above the market price.

MAN is full of guile. The Farm Board discovers with horror, that when it pays in the country more than the market price of wheat in the city "slick" city men actually ship their wheat back to the country and sell it to the innocent farm board.

ONE gentleman in the Senate wants "an end of secrecy" in regard to our London Naval Limitations Conference.

Washington also would like an end to secrecy. So far, other countries haven't told us any secrets.

They take our delegates to see where Samuel Johnson made a greasy mark on the back of a wall, in the old Cheshire Cheese, and show them interesting graves in and out of Westminster Abbey.

But not France, Japan nor Britain has let any American delegate know anything that is really planned.

We are there not to suggest, but to be told.

WE HAVE among us a FOUR BILLION DOLLAR CONCERN named A. T. & T., otherwise the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

It is the biggest private business in the world, its total assets being more than four billion two hundred twenty-eight millions.

DAVIS READY TO ANNOUNCE FOR SENATE

Vare Expected to Withdraw And Back Labor Secretary, With Brown for Governor

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is expected by some of his closest political friends to announce in Pittsburgh before the end of the week his candidacy for United States Senator.

Although the secretary continued today to maintain silence, he was said by some of his associates to be preparing a statement which in a large measure will be his campaign platform. For sentimental reasons, he is expected to issue it from Pittsburgh, his home town.

VARE MAY QUIT

William S. Vare, Republican leader of Philadelphia, recently denied a Senate seat because of campaign expenditures, and Joseph R. Grundy, appointed senator by the Pennsylvania governor, already are candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Davis, also a Republican, has been secretary of labor since 1921.

Some Pennsylvania politicians here believe that if Davis definitely gets into the race for the Republican nomination, Vare will get out.

VARE BACKING SEEN

The determination to run for the Senate was reached, it was said on this authority following a conference last night in Philadelphia, which was attended, in

PROHIBITION HELD PERIL TO SANITY

Demands for Repeal Brand Dry Laws as Menace to Thinking, Morals, Progress

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Prohibition was denounced as "the greatest menace to sane, constructive thinking in this country;" as the breeder of bribery, corruption and crime, and as destructive of public and political morality, as demands for its repeal were voiced today at another field day for the anti-prohibitionists before the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering modification legislation.

The witnesses ranged from specialists in mental diseases to Congressmen who for years have been periodically attacking prohibition in the House.

INSANITY CITED

Dr. Stewart aPton, an expert in mental diseases from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, declared that the "sanity and progress of the whole people" are menaced by the prohibitive attitude embraced in the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead law. Citing the enormous growth in insanity, Dr. Paton said:

"As a result of this amendment this country is suffering from prohibition shock. It

TAFT NEAR END AT MILESTONE

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(INS.)—The twenty-first anniversary of his elevation to the presidency, on a blizzardy Fourth of March in 1909, found William Howard Taft grimly withstanding today the approach of death, which his physicians say is inevitable and only a matter of days.

The physicians' bulletin at noon stated:

"The condition of the former chief justice is unaltered since yesterday. He continues to take a moderate amount of nourishment."

The fight the weakened ex-president is making for life is a source of constant surprise to his doctors. He drifts in and out of coma-like sleep, apparently only partly conscious or aware of what goes on about him in the sickroom.

Occasionally he rouses sufficiently to recognize the doctors or members of the family. This morning when Dr. Francis R. Hagner finished the usual examination, Taft mumbled "goodby" to him.

Swedish Queen, Ill At Rome, in Relapse

ROME, March 4.—(AP.)—Queen Victoria, of Sweden, who is ill at the royal villa here, after a few days' betterment, has suddenly grown worse and her condition is again grave. Her personal physician, Dr. Axel Munthe, who had been accorded a brief rest, was summoned hastily and administered oxygen.

The Italian royalties are keeping informed as to her condition, while a direct telephone to Stockholm has been installed at the Villa Svezia, where her majesty is confined.

Two Die, 100 Escape As Train Hits Truck

SAYRE, Pa., March 4.—(INS.)—Two men were killed, a passenger train on the Erie Railroad was derailed and a hundred passengers narrowly escaped injury when a milk truck was struck by the train at the Chemung (N. Y.) crossing near here today.

Reds Enlist Grade School Pupils for Parade Here

The Communists today urged school children to join the Thursday demonstration of unemployed, which has been banned by Police Supt. Walsh.

Literature was distributed to the pupils of the Bedford School at South Tenth and Bingham streets as they left school at noon.

"Stay out of school on Thursday . . . fight for the working class . . . down with the Boy Scouts . . . parade with your parents." These were excerpts from the literature which seemed to puzzle the youngsters.

The distributors, described as Communists by police, departed before the law arrived. They are presumably the same Communists who have been handing out literature to workmen at the steel plants.

In banning the parade, Walsh said no permit has been asked, and that if the request is made it will be refused.

Pat Devine, district organizer of the Communist party, announced the workers would meet at Pennsylvania station at 11 a. m. Thursday.

RECEIVES $25,000 IN MOORE WILL

JACQUELINE — MRS. DOROTHY BENJAMIN CARUSO — GLORIA CARUSO

Mrs. Caruso, widow of the famous tenor, and her two children. Mrs. Caruso, under the terms of the late Ambassador Moore's will, is to receive a $25,000 bequest.

DOROTHY RUSSELL CALVIT

Reported to have received only $1,000 in the will of the late Ambassador Moore, Dorothy Russell Calvit, his stepdaughter and daughter of Lillian Russell, has announced that she will seek one-third of the estate. She said she's the nearest kin.

2 CONTESTS PLANNED BY STEP-DAUGHTER AND KIN IN WEST

(Copyright, 1930, by the Sun-Telegraph).

In addition to his bequest of $100,000 to Queen Victoria of Spain for her charities, Alexander P. Moore willed a legacy of $25,000 to Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the noted Italian tenor.

This became known today to the Sun-Telegraph, along with other provisions of the late ambassador's will, which now is about ready for probate.

Coincident with the revelations as to the principal contents of the will, word reached Pittsburgh today that two contests already are threatened—one by Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Ambassador Moore's wife, the late Lillian Russell; and the other by a relative residing in the west.

The ambassador's bequest of $25,000 to Mrs. Caruso is not a surprise to his many friends in Pittsburgh, New York, Paris and Madrid, as it was known that for a number of years they were close friends.

Mrs. Caruso, before her marriage to the singer, was Miss Dorothy Benjamin, daughter of the late Park Benjamin, New York millionaire and society man and scion of a long line of Knickerbocker and New England ancestors.

Following the death of Caruso, whom she had married against her father's wishes, Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, in London in 1923, was married to Capt. E. A. Ingram, of the British Army. This romance proved unhappy and ended in a divorce.

OTHER BEQUESTS

Mrs. Caruso has a daughter by each of these marriages—little Gloria Caruso and Jacqueline Ingram. Ambassador Moore was known by his friends to have been greatly interested in these children.

Aside from the legacy left to Mrs. Caruso (she dropped the use of the name Ingram after her divorce) Ambassador Moore made the following bequests to relatives and friends in Pittsburgh and elsewhere:

The Queen of Spain, $100,000 for her charities.

Mrs. Enrico Caruso, $25,000.

Paul Alexander Livermore, namesake of the Ambassodor and son of Jesse Livermore, New York financier and Wall street operator, $10,000.

Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of Lillian Russell and stepdaughter of the Ambassador, $1,000.

Miss Jesse Sutherland, for many years secretary to Ambassador Moore, $10,000 outright and $100 a month.

Mrs. Sue M. Addy, sister of the Ambassador, $300 a month, and her present home in Knoxville for the remainder of her life.

Mrs. Mildred A. Martin, niece of the Ambassador, $400 a month for the remainder of her life.

John K. Emge, former editor of the old Pittsburgh Leader, and close friend of the Ambassador, who was with Mr. Moore when he died in California and who escorted the body to Pittsburgh for burial, $5,000.

J. Albert Grant, former general manager of the old Pittsburgh Leader and for many years close business and editorial representative of Mr.

WILL SURPRISES MRS. CARUSO

NEW YORK, March 4.—Surprise mingled with gratification was expressed today by Mrs. Dorothy Benjamin Caruso when she was informed she had been named a beneficiary in the will of the late Alexander P. Moore.

From Pittsburgh came the information that Mr. Moore's will, which has not been filed, provided $25,000 was to go to the widow of the late Metropolitan Opera tenor, Enrico Caruso.

"PLEASANT SURPRISE"

From her home, No. 126 East Sixty-fourth street, Mrs. Caruso said:

"This news is a very pleasant surprise for me. Mr. Moore was a dear to thus remember me. While we had been very close friends for a number of years, I hadn't known that he intended to remember me in his will. That's all I can say now. Any further statement must come

Bomb Lets Go Under Rumanian Express

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 4.—(AP.)—The Ploesti-Bucharest Express today exploded a bomb which had been laid on the rails between Buda and Prahova stations. There were numerous minor injuries among the thousand or more persons on the train. The bomb was alleged to be of Communistic origin.

PITT MAN HELD IN PURSE THEFT

Robert Harding, 20, of Bradford, Pa., dental student at the University of Pittsburgh, was held for further hearing by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today when he admitted stealing three purses containing about $90 from rooms in a fraternity house at 249 North Dithridge street.

"I was broke and needed the money," was Harding's only plea.

Following Harding's arrest, detectives in his room found two rolls each containing 500 two-cent stamps. Harding denied gambling or drinking.

Mexico's Minister To Italy Resigns

MEXICO CITY, March 4.—(AP.)—The resignation of Bernardo Gastelum, Mexican minister to Italy, was announced here. His successor has not been named.

Wales, Nearing Recovery, Will Resume Hunt

LONDON, March 4.—(INS.)—The Prince of Wales will resume his hunting expedition in the African jungles as soon as he has recovered from his attack of malaria, it was officially stated by a member of his household at his London residence, York House, St. James' Palace, today.

"The prince does not regard his attack as sufficient cause for him to forego any of his plans," the official told International News Service.

"He intends to continue his tour as scheduled, returning to England by the route and time previously arranged."

According to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Nairobi, East Africa, the prince is now so near full recovery from his illness that he expects to leave for the Uganda district on March 9.

The King and Queen are in constant touch with physicians attending the prince, but are not anxious regarding his condition, as his illness was described as mild.

LONDON, March 4.—(AP.)—For the first time since his recovery from his serious illness of a year ago King George today held an investiture in the Throne Room of Buckingham Palace. More than a hundred recipients of honors in the New Year's list received the insignia of their orders and their decorations. Last year the Prince of Wales deputized for the ill king.

A. P. MOORE WILLS $25,000 TO ENRICO CARUSO'S WIDOW

Moore in his publications, $5,000.

Susanne Westford Allen, sister-in-law, $3,000.

Lena Chapman, maid to Lillian Russell, $1,000.

Arthur Hecker, a former Leader employe, $1,000.

The interest on the balance of the estate is to be divided at the end of the trusts established above into three equal parts for Judge George V. Moore, distinguished Pittsburgh jurist and judge of the Court of Common Pleas, a nephew of the Ambassador; and for Jean Moore, a niece, and Jean Moore Davies, a daughter of another niece, Alice Moore Davies.

While Ambassador Moore's will has not yet been placed on file for probate, the bequests contained therein and the heirs were so scattered that it was necessary to make a number of copies for the preliminary work in having it proven and probated.

It is likely that the document will be filed here in Pittsburgh within the next few days.

STEP-DAUGHTER FIGHTS

Dispatches from New York city today quoted Dorothy Russell Calvit, step-daughter of the Ambassador, as having retained a lawyer and preparing to bring an immediate contest.

It is understood her first step will be a demand on the officers of the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh for a copy of the will and that she will demand one-third share of the estate. Mrs. Calvit, in an interview, charged that the late Ambassador's "mind had been poisoned against her." Her interview indicated her unfriendly feeling for Mrs. Martin, a niece of the Ambassador, who inherits $400 a month, whereas Mrs. Calvit receives only $1,000 outright.

WANTS MOTHER'S JEWELS

Mrs. Calvit, who received an income of $50 a week under the will of Lillian Russell, also says she will demand from the Union Trust Company the proceeds of the sale of Miss Russell's jewelry, which was held at the American Art Galleries in New York, and certain other personal belongings of her mother, including a portrait [illegible] Russell by Howard Chandler Christy.

[illegible] could be learned in Pittsburgh today of the reported second contest by a relative of the Ambassador residing in the West.

CONTENTS SECRET

Carroll Davis, trust officer of the Union Trust Company, told the Sun-Telegraph he knew of no proposed contests of the will and that he could not give any statement of any nature concerning the will until it had been formally offered for probate.

Several friends of Ambassador Moore in Pittsburgh were of the opinion that in the event a contest is made the will is so drawn as to easily withstand any attack against it in the courts.

"CONTEST UNGRATEFUL"

"Should Dorothy Russell contest Mr. Moore's will, it would be a very ungrateful act on her part," said Mrs. Mildred Martin, niece of the late ambassador and hostess at the American embassy at Madrid when he was stationed there, today when informed that Mrs. Calvit contemplated such action.

"She was no blood relation to Mr. Moore, but throughout the time he knew Mrs. Calvit he was extremely good to her. He treated her very kindly and provided for her to a marked degree.

"I am grateful to my uncle for what he did for me, and I am sure all those he remembered in his will feel likewise," she ventured.

HIGHLY REGARDED IN SPAIN

Since first publication of the news that Ambassador Moore had willed $10[illegible],000 to Queen Victoria of Spain for her many charities and hospital work, only one [illegible]h has come from Madrid, stated the reported bequest caused great interest in Spanish court circles and also reflected the high esteem and fondness the King and Queen held for the late American ambassador.

It was stated further that while there is a tradition against the Spanish royal family accepting such bequests this tradition sometimes is overlook or violated in special cases.

Aside from the comment of Mrs. Martin, none of the relatives or beneficiaries of the ambassador would make any statement.

Socialists Oust 2 In Tardieu Cabinet

PARIS, March 4.—(AP.)—The continued opposition of the Radical-Socialists to Tardieu's new ministry was demonstrated again today when their parliamentary group, after a short discussion, expelled J. L. Dumesnil and Henri Falcoz, who accepted posts in the cabinet. Dumesnil is minister of marine, while Falcoz is undersecretary of state for public works.

Despite this action, the Radical-Socialists, although opposing Tardieu, predicted he would have from 20 to 30 votes majority after he presents his ministerial declaration to the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow.

DAVIS IS READY TO JOIN RACE

addition to Davis, by State Senator S. W. Salus and Recorder of Deeds J. M. Hazlett, both Vare lieutenants.

The Philadelphia representatives, who are in Washington today, while not conceding outright that Davis had been accepted by their faction as the running mate of Francis Shunk Brown, Vare faction candidate for governor, each emphasized Davis' availability and strength in fraternal and labor circles.

Other members of the delegation who have heard of Davis' present plans recall that for the last six months he has been criticizing the precedent of geographical allotment of candidates and has insisted that the voters in Pennsylvania are more concerned about the qualifications of candidates than they are about residence. This has been regarded by some as a preface to his senatorial announcement since Senator David A. Reed, the senior senator, is a resident of Pittsburgh.

POINT LABOR RECORD

Both Vare and Grundy congressmen are inclined to believe that Davis is planning to enter the campaign for the primary purpose of giving battle to the Republican State Committee, which it is said has never fully admitted him to its inner council membership. To Pennsylvania representatives and to newspapermen Davis has in the past pointed out that any candidate who would oppose Senator Grundy should have a good labor record, and as a member of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tinplate Workers, and as secretary of labor he believes he possesses a qualification which Grundy as a manufacturer does not have.

In the meanwhile the forces back of Senator Grundy, who are supporting Samuel S. Lewis, of York, for governor, are saying little.

Former Governor Gifford Pinchot, who recently stated that he was undecided as to whether he would enter the primary campaign and thus make it a three-cornered battle either for senator or governor, also was in Philadelphia yesterday, but declined to talk politics.

"I am a barren fig tree so far as any political announcement goes," Pinchot declared. "I don't know that I will have anything to say in the near future."

Gen. Butler Declines To Run for Governor

WEST CHESTER, Pa., March 4.—(AP.)—Fred S. Wood, chairman of the Butler-For-Governor Club, which has been back of a movement to bring out Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler as a candidate for governor, announced today that Gen. Butler has definitely declined to enter the gubernatorial race in Pennsylvania. In a telegram to Wood, Gen. Butler gave no specific reason for refusing to run.

Beck Refuses to Run; Throws Support to Vare

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Representative James M. Beck, of Philadelphia, in a letter to Raymond Pitcairn, of that city, made public here today, said he would not be available as a senatorial candidate in the Pennsylvania primaries so long as William S. Vare remained in the race and that he would soppurt Vare "by voice and vote."

WINTERS TAKEN TO SANITARIUM

City Controller Daniel Winters, who has been a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital for several weeks, left the hospital shortly before 10 o'clock for Cleveland to enter a private sanitarium.

He was accompanied by his personal physician and friend, Dr. James P. Kerr, and his sister, Mrs. A. J. Brooks, of Coral Gables, Fla. Dr. A. H. Kraft and several others accompanied the controller to the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Station.

Controller Winters smiled when he emerged from the side entrance of the hospital and entered a waiting automobile. He had been taken from his room on a wheel chair. He walked down the outside steps to the waiting car, assisted by Dr. Kerr, Charles Sable and others. He appeared to be in a weakened condition, although he said he was feeling better.

Wilkinsburg Tax Rate Raised One Mill

Wilkinsburg borough council, at its regular monthly meeting last night, passed the 1930 budget for $482,301, and placed the tax millage for this year at 12½ per cent, an increase of one mill over last year's rate. John H. Rhodes, council president, was in charge of the session.

DAVIS OPPOSES JOBLESS DOLE OF $50,000,000

Secretary Urges Use of Fund For U. S. Building Program As Unemployment Relief

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Opposition to Senator Brookhart's bill to appropriate $50,000,000 for unemployment relief by the dole method was expressed today by Secretary of Labor Davis.

"Say there are 3,000,000 men out of work—the $50,000,000 would provide about $1 a week for 18 weeks," said Davis. "It wouldn't help much.

"If the $50,000,000 is appropriated it should be devoted to the federal building program, which would provide employment. The workingman needs employment more than doles."

Charactertizing the Iowan's proposal as "well intended," the Secretary said he did not wish his own views to be regarded as a criticism. He expressed his views as he entered a cabinet meeting.

REAL FIGURES LACKING

Even approximate official statistics as to the number of unemployed in the United States are not obtainable in Washington, officials of several government departments frankly admitted today.

A checkup at the Labor Department, Commerce Department, Treasury and Federal Reserve Board showed that only percentage and index figures as to increases and decreases in employment are compiled and these do not cover the great mass of the workers of the country.

The nearest thing to unemployment figures was found in the bureau of labor statistics of the Labor Department. For January there was a decrease of 2.6 per cent in employment as compared to December for the manufacturing, mining, public utilities and a number of other industries employing 4,919,972 persons in December. For the manufacturing industry, employing 3,239,353 in December the decrease was given as 1.8 per cent.

CENSUS ENUMERATION

The deficiency will be met this year when in connection with the regular 10-year census there will be enumeration of the unemployed.

The American Federation of Labor likewise uses percentage figures, but its statistics take in only union men. For February figures for 24 cities showed 22 per cent of the union members reporting out of work, as compared with 20 per cent in January. There were 4 per cent more workers out of employment in February than in the worst months two winters ago, according to the federation.

Mayor Walker Warns Against Rioting in N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 4.—As New York Communists continued their plans today for a gigantic demonstration on Thursday they faced a warning by Mayor Walker that he would not permit the unemployment problem to be used in the streets for "lawless propaganda."

Mayor Walker, on returning from a vacation in Florida, issued a statement declaring any riotous demonstrations would be suppressed and at the same time assuring the Communists of the right to free speech and peaceable assembly.

'BLONDE'S' CAPTORS TO TESTIFY

Six Coming From Arizona for Irene's Trial; 2 Women To Be Surprise Witnesses

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 4.—Six witnesses will be brought here from Arizona to testify against Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, indicted yesterday for the murder of Corp. Brady Paul, of the state highway patrol, the prosecutors announced today.

Sheriff Charles H. Wright, whose men captured the blonde and her sweetheart after a battle, will head the party which is expected to leave Phoenix Thursday, arriving here Sunday night.

"SURPRISE WITNESSES"

Others will include two deputies, a newspaperman and two "surprise witnesses," said to be women prisoners to whom Irene is alleged to have described the shooting of Paul.

The deputies are expected to tell of the capture of Irene and Dague. Sheriff Wright and the newspaperman are said to have heard Dague make a purported confession of his part in the killing.

District Attorney John S. Powers and Special Prosecutor Charles Margiotti today said they were ready for the trial, scheduled to start Monday.

"Our case is complete," Attorney Margiotti declared, as he left the conference and prepared to return to his home in Punxsutawney for a few days' rest before the trial, scheduled to begin next Monday.

CONFERENCE SATURDAY

Margiotti, asked which of the defendants would be called first, said:

"We are not telling all we know, just yet. Perhaps there will be more to say later, perhaps Saturday, when the district attorney and myself decide just what course to follow in the prosecution of Dague and Mrs. Schroeder."

Presentation of the cases to the grand jury took up most of yesterday, District Attorney Powers having paraded nearly a dozen witnesses before the jurors before true bills were returned. Among those called before the Grand Jury were three eye witnesses to the shooting. They were Mrs. Eva Baldwin, George Book and Patrolman Ernest Moore, who was wounded in the encounter with the three bandit suspects he and Corp. Paul halted on the New Castle-Butler road following a holdup in Butler last December 27.

IDENTIFIED BY MOORE

Patrolman Moore has identified Dague and Irene as the slayers on several occasions since their capture in the Arizona desert wastes, where they are alleged to have shot and fatally wounded a deputy sheriff in the attempt to evade capture. The third member of the trio, said to be Tom Crawford, brother of Irene, is still at large.

Each of the slayer suspects was indicted separately on charges of murder and felonious shooting with intent to kill and on two charges of highway robbery, Ray Horton, owner of the automobile in which the suspects are alleged to have made their escape following the shooting, testified to the theft of his car and a sum of money, together with his automobile license and identification cards.

from my attorney, Mr. Alfred P. Seligberg."

Mr. Seligberg, of No. 16 William street, said:

"Mr. Moore and Mrs. Caruso had been intimate friends for some time, the friendship starting soon after Mr. Moore returned from his post as Spanish ambassador. He often had intimated that he was going to make a bequest in favor of Mrs. Caruso, or perhaps one of her children.

"MAY BE FOR CHILD"

"It is my belief that the $25,000, which reports indicate was left to Mrs. Caruso, was in reality intended for her daughter, little Jacqueline Ingram. Mr. Moore had indicated that he wanted to do something for the little girl. Mrs. Caruso's other child, little Gloria Caruso, is quite well off."

Among other bequests in the Moore will was one of $10,000 to Paul Alexander Livermore, namesake of the deceased, and son of Jesse L. Livermore, the capitalist. The Livermores are in Florida, and no comment on the bequest was forthcoming from the

REVELRY RULES IN MARDI GRAS

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP.)—The spirit of harlequin and columbine today swayed New Orleans in the general masking, costuming and revelry of the annual mardi gras.

With what the older French inhabitants call the spirit of "le carneval" the noon parade of Rex, king of the celebration, was formed. The lord of the revelry had a seat on a throne atop a gorgeous float heading a procession of a score of equally elaborate floats. At the City Hall the city's keys awaited him.

Further in the line of march Rex arranged a stop in front of the exclusive Boston Club on Canal street to salute his queen, Miss Shirley Carter Cordill, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Cordill. Though masked, Rex was known to his people as Dr. Paul H. Saunders, prominent physician.

Tonight the carnival closes with the parade of the Knights of Comus, and the brilliant and formal balls of the Courts of Rex and Comus. At midnight all revelry ceases, and the city figuratively bows its head in Lenten piety.

ROME, March 4.—(AP.)—Rome today celebrated mardi gras enthusiastically. Children costumed as clowns, American Indians, harlequins and Pierrettes paraded about the streets. The older folks had their innings later in the day, and tonight will be making the genteel Roman equivalent of "whoopee" with the best of the young ones.

compares to shell shock during the war. The government has practically told every person that it has no confidence in his being temperate and moderate."

"I think there is no doubt but that prohibition is injurious to the young people. They have prohibition on their minds.

"Do you think that the fact that you prohibit these people from drinking makes them want to drink?" he was asked.

"Undoubtedly," he said.

DRINKING ON INCREASE

Dr. Paton said there are more insane persons in asylums in the nation than there are students in universities.

Representative Linthicum, (Dem., Md.), chairman of the House anti-prohibition bloc, declared the dry foes have proved during the hearing that prohibition enforcement has broken down.

"Before prohibition the curve showed that use of alcoholic liquor was decreasing; since prohibition it has increased," said Linchicum. "While we are filling our prisons under prohibition England is emptying hers by controlling the liquor traffic," he said.

PROSPERITY CLAIM HIT

Linthicum said much had been said about the prosperity brought about through prohibition.

"No one is in position to say," he added, "whether the prosperity of the country was due to prohibition or whether it is or was due largely to reconstruction and increase of manufactures resultant from the late war."

Linthicum urged that prohibition be placed before the people by submitting repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the States with requirement that it be voted on in state constitutional conventions with delegates elected solely on the prohibition issue. He supported the Sabath resolution for government control of the liquor business.

WOMEN SUMMONED

Representative Cochran (Rep.) of Missouri, who has pending a resolution for outright repeal, supported the proposal of Mrs. Mary Norton (Dem.) of New Jersey for a nation-wide referendum. Under her resolution the people would vote for or against an amendment turning control of the liquor traffic over to the states with a definite prohibition against saloons.

Several women witnesses were to appear to back their declarations that drinking is widespread among the younger generation since adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The women spokesmen, called from four different cities, included Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh.

With conclusion of the anti-dry side of the case today, the drys are slated to send witnesses before the committee tomorrow. The carefully guarded list of dry witnesses is expected to include business men, scientists and writers.

Gov. Long Makes Apology To Germans for Negligee

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—(AP.)—The Times-Picayune today said that Gov. Huey P. Long, accompanied by his staff colonel, Seymour Weiss, boarded the German cruiser Emden, in the harbor for Mardi Gras, and apologized for having received Commander Lothar von Arnault del la Periere, commander of the vessel, in pajamas, lounging robes and slippers when the naval officer paid an official call Sunday.

According to the paper, after the Governor's visit the incident was closed when the Emden fired a salute of 21 guns. The Governor went aboard the cruiser in formal dress, while Col. Weiss was in full staff regalia.

Commander de la Periere, accompanied by Rolf Jaeger, German consul here, called upon the Governor at his hotel suite to pay their respects, following the arrival of the Emden.

Gov. Long, according to the Times-Picayune, received the Germans in a pair of green silk pajamas, a blue and red lounging robe and blue bedroom slippers.

The paper quoted Consul Jaeger as having remarked to Col. Weiss after departing that "the Governor's raiment to receive the German commander is an insult to the German government, and I demand an apology immediately. If the apology is given, then the matter ends right here."

YOUNG HAITIANS THREATEN WAR

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 4.—(AP.)—Justin Sam, leader of the League of Haitian Youth, told the Hoover Investigating Commission today that 10,000 young Haitians will participate in a revolution April 14 unless the United States prevents the election of a president by the Council of State.

He demanded a proclamation by President Hoover that the council would not elect a president, and warned that unless such a proclamation were issued the people would remain distrustful until election day.

George N. Leger, attorney for persons appearing before the commission, urged that a provisional government be established pending the election of deputies and senators, who later would elect a president.

Senators Consider Chinese Relief Plan

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—The Senate Agricultural Committee today decided to seek the advice of John Van A. MacMurray, former minister to China, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, regarding the proposal that the Farm Board buy $25,000,000 worth of grain and send it to China to relieve famine.

Senator McMaster (Rep.), South Dakota, recently introduced a resolution which would authorize the purchase of wheat and flour to be sent to China with money from the Farm Board's $500,000,000 revolving fund. Chairman McNary, of the committee, said MacMurray and Payne would be heard on Thursday. MacMurray recently returned from China.

Not Guilty, Baker Pleads in Killing

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—James Baker, recently indicted for the murder of Henry Gaw, laboratory watchman, a year ago last December, and confessed killer of nine other men, today pleaded not guilty, through his attorney, to the Gaw murder indictment. James B. C. Murray and Charles L. Sylvester have been appointed by the court to defend Baker.

Ohio Woman Seeks Missing Man Here

The Missing Persons Bureau today received a telegram from Mrs. Helen Warwick, Hamilton O., asking that search be made for Charles Pape. "Catherine ill, wants to see you," the telegram read. No information was contained in the message as to the identity of Pape.

PALMER OUT AS MAIL BOSS

WASHINGTON, March 4.—L. E. Palmer, long an executive of the Pittsburgh postoffice and one of the outstanding postal officials of the country, has been set aside as superintendent of mails, it was reliably learned here today.

Believed the oldest man active in the postoffice service and the oldest veteran in point of service, Mr. Palmer was scheduled to retire August 1 without hope of continuance of his service. Several times his retirement date has been postponed by the Postoffice Department.

It is understood that Mr. Palmer will continue as an "advisory superintendent of mails" at Pittsburgh and that T. G. Cruse present assistant superintendent of mails in charge of carriers, will become acting superintendent of mails. The situation is believed to be without precedent.

The move, entirely unexpected before Mr. Palmer's retirement date, is understood to have been made as the result of the presence in Pittsburgh of a deputation of five picked postoffice inspectors. Similar deputations are, in other leading postoffices of the country, charged with standardizing and economizing service.

Gun Fight Wounds Fatal to Sheriff

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., March 4.—(AP.)—Charles Cunningham, deputy sheriff, who was one of three men wounded by Bonifacio Torres, 19-year-old youth, in a gun fight at Jarales, Saturday, died in a hospital here yesterday. The condition of Sheriff Ignacio Aragon is still critical. Daniel Sanchez, the third man wounded, is recovering.

Torres was slain after a posse had set fire to the house in which he took refuge and stood off 200 men. Torres was wanted for incorrigibility.

Alice White, Fiance Silent on Wedding

CHICAGO, March 4.—(INS.)—Dainty Alice White, Hollywood film star, arrived here today with her fiance, Sydney Bartlett, of Chicago.

"When will you be married?" they were asked.

"Oh, I don't know," Bartlett answered. "We expect to return to Hollywood next Sunday and prepare for Miss White's new picture, 'Man Crazy,' in which I act opposite her.

"Yes, I'm going into the movies," he admitted.

Fear of New Law Starts U. S. Rum Rush

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 4.—(By the Canadian Press.)—Feverish activity was noticed about the water front on the Niagara River today, because of the contemplated action of the Canadian Parliament in prohibiting liquor clearances to the United States, it is expected that rum runners will endeavor to ship a large quantity of liquor across during the next few days.

They admit it will be difficult to get the liquor from the distilleries to the point of export if the law goes into effect.

Asks Police to Fix Gun, Then Ends Life in Bank

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP.)—John Purdue, a night watchman, is dead under odd circumstances.

Late last night he telephoned to Central Police asking that the officer patrolling the territory of the Guardian National Bank, come to the bank and help reassemble a revolver which Purdue had been cleaning.

Officer Arthur Smith reported and reassembled the revolver. Purdue then asked Smith to take the weapon apart again. The policeman did and departed. He was gone less than a minute when there was the sound of a shot. The night watchman was dead.

Police have a theory that Purdue may have killed himself after an elaborate effort to make the shooting appear accidental.

BATCH COAL CO. LOSES APPEAL

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—The board of tax appeals has handed down decisions affecting a Pittsburgh corporation and and an individual residing in that city.

The board, in an opinion by Commissioner Murdock, upheld the commissioner of internal revenue who disallowed a deduction of $50,000 each for 1926 and 1927 taken by the Batch Coal Company. The deduction was claimed on the ground that the royalty lease it made with the Shenango Furnace Company for the removal of coal in a given area, could not be deducted over a two-year period when it was estimated that exhaustion of the vein would not be accomplished for 10 or 12 years.

The commissioner of internal revenue was overruled in his disallowance of $29,395 which Edward L. Parker, 5475 Darlington road, deducted from gross income as representing a loss sustained by him on the sale of a summer residence and acreage in Coraopolis Heights in 1926.

YOUTH STEALING BREAD SLAIN

BUFFALO, March 4.—(AP.)—A 17-year-old youth, said by his relatives to have stolen bread from a chain store here to save them from starving, died in Millard Fillmore Hospital today after he was shot in the head by a policeman. The youth, Derwood Nunemaker, fled on his command to halt, Patrolman A. E. Andres said.

Nunemaker's brother, Lester, 28, who stopped at Patrolman Andres' order, was held by police.

Andres said he had been detailed to watch a store at DeWitt street and Forest avenue, where bread left in front of the store had disappeared daily. When he saw two men leave the store, he ordered them to stop, he said, and when one dodged into an alley, he fired.

Mrs. Lester Nunemaker, mother of the two, told police her husband had been out of work for four months and that they had had no food lately. "We were faced with starvation," she said.

1,600 Detroit Aliens To Lose City Jobs

DETROIT, March 4.—(INS.)—More than 1,600 aliens in the city employ in Detroit are to be discharged at once except in cases where there are "extenuating circumstances." This was the effect today of an announcement by Mayor Charles Bowles that he believes common council's "fire-aliens" policy, passed yesterday, is sound.

Orders to dismiss aliens are expected to go to department heads of the city tomorrow.

Councilman Robert G. Ewald, father of the ouster resolution, declared "the city employe who does not think enough of his city and country to become a citizen deserves to be fired."

Albanian Premier Quits After Crisis

TIRANA, Albania, March 4.—(AP.)—The Albanian Cabinet of Premier Kosta Kotta, which had been in office since January, 1929, resigned yesterday. The premier handed in his resignation because of friction that had developed between the Cabinet and Parliament.

CHICAGO PAYS 40,000 TODAY

CHICAGO, March 4.—(INS.)—Having been delayed for a full day by legal red tape, Chicago today struggled with the task of squaring accounts with 40,000 unpaid school teachers, policemen, firemen and other public employes.

For the majority of workers, the pay checks scheduled for distribution today are the first since December when Chicago and Cook County found their treasuries bare and their credit exhausted temporarily.

Some 4,000 workers received their pay yesterday when the Silas H. Strawn Citizens' "Rescue Committee" completed purchase of $9,783,499 worth of Tax Anticipation Warrants and turned the cash over to the city treasury.

Delay in transmitting the warrant trust money to the unpaid city workers was caused when Mayor William Hale Thompson had not signed the necessary ordinance. When he was finally located and his signature obtained it was late afternoon—too late to pay off more than a few workers.

7 Released In Death Of Pottery Worker

NEW CUMBERLAND, W. Va., March 4.—Sheriff Jack Mercer ordered the release of a woman and six men held here in connection with the death of John Lomax, pottery worker, whose decapitated body was found in his home here Saturday. It is the theory of the sheriff that the man was murdered.

Thief Who Filched Stone of Moses Faces Curse

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 4.—(AP.)—A piece of stone on which Moses is reputed to have stood as he asked protection for the tribes of Israel has been stolen from the Rosecurician Order's Museum here.

Dr. Spencer Lewis, caretaker of the Rosecrucian Temple who reported loss of the relic to the police, said the thief risked an ancient Egyptian curse.

He said the Egyptians had placed a curse upon anyone who should buy or steal their ancient relics, but explained that the curse had not been operative against himself and other Rosecrucians because they took the stone for exhibition and educational purposes.

HARRIS TO VISIT PHILADELPHIA

State Senator Frank J. Harris was expected to leave Pittsburgh today for visits to Harrisburg and Philadelphia. He said last night that he was not going on any political mission, although he probably would meet Republican leaders in both cities.

About 10 days ago Harris issued a statement declining to run for lieutenant governor on a slate headed by Senator Joseph R. Grundy, to succeed himself, and Samuel S. Lewis as candidate for governor.

Since then it was reported that Harris soon would express his choice of candidates for state offices in the coming primary, and his friends now say he may make an announcement while he is in the East.

Child Dies Trying To Swallow Toy

TOLEDO, March 4.—(INS.)—William Joseph Perry, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morton A. Perry, strangled to death today when he attempted to swallow a small wooden ball. He died in his mother's arms while a physician was rushing to the home.

LEADERS MEET, MUM ON STRIKE

"The taxicab strike is in status quo," according to Mayor Charles H. Kline. This was his only comment after conferring late yesterday afternoon with Miss M. Emmelinne Pitt, conciliator for the Federal Department of Labor, and Attorney Frank B. Ingersoll, of the Parmelee Transportation Company counsel.

Neither Miss Pitt nor Attorney Ingersoll would give any information concerning their interviews with Mayor Kline.

EMPLOYERS' AIDE SILENT

Ernest H. Miller, president of the Parmelee Company was in charge of the company headquarters in the William Penn Hotel. He made no statement for publication. He explained that he was in charge because E. S. Higgins, vice president, had not returned from a week-end visit with his family.

The strikers' committee met last night at 7 o'clock in their McGeagh Building headquarters. No statement was issued.

ONE CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Edward Nord was cited for contempt of court before Judge James H. Gray yesterday, on petition of Green Cab operators. He is accused of throwing a piece of metal through a cab window at Forbes and Atwood streets February 19. Judge Gray set Monday for a hearing in the case.

Thursday was set by Judge Gray for the hearings of Paul Reagan, Phillip Axxara, Jerome King, Bud Thomas and Louis Brooks. They are charged with violating the injunction granted the Yellow and Green Cab companies. Their hearings had been postponed from last week.

Driver Held in Auto Death in Sharpsburg

At an inquest today into the death of William F. Wiles, 19, of 5139 Broad street, killed by an auto February 2, a coroner's jury recommended that Ray Williams, of 117 Finley street, be held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter.

Police testified Williams was driving the auto which struck Wiles at Main street, near Nineteenth street, Sharpsburg.

EIELSON'S BODY AT TELLER

TELLER, Alaska, March 4.—(AP.)—The bodies of Carl Ben Eielson, noted pilot and explorer, and Earl Borland, his mechanic, who were killed when their airplane crashed in the Arctic, arrived here late yesterday in a Fairchild plane piloted by Ed Young.

Eielson and Borland were killed last November 9 when their plane crashed 90 miles southeast of North Cape while they were attempting to fly to the icebound fur trader Nanuk from Teller. Wreckage of the plane was found January 25, after a long search by air and land, and the bodies were recovered later.

The bodies will be taken to the United States for burial.

COOLIDGE JOINS IN DAM FETE

GLOBE, Ariz., March 4.—(AP.)—Where Apache chieftains once met in solemn council, Calvin Coolidge today came to dedicate Coolidge Dam, built in 1928 and named in his honor.

The dedication ceremonies were set for 3:30 p. m.

Practically all state and federal offices were ordered closed for the day and one of the greatest gatherings for a public event in Arizona's history was looked for. Hotels were crowded to capacity.

A picturesque touch, typical of the state, is furnished by the Apache and Pima Indians who are patrolling the highways leading to the dam. Traditional enemies for centuries, the two tribes will smoke the pipe of peace at the ceremonies and later dedicate the dam for a second time. They plan to ask Mr. Coolidge to take a whiff of the peace pipe and then both tribes will make him a chieftain.

Cigaret, 'Gas' Mix To Driver's Sorrow

Steve Darney, 18, of 5014 Ladora street, had his hair singed today, but not in a barber shop. Darney, a driver, was pouring gasoline into the tank of his truck and smoking a cigaret at the same time. He dropped the cigaret, and the gasoline exploded. The flames singed his eyebrows and hair. The accident occurred in front of his home.

15 Million Autos Scrapped By U. S.

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—Insurance company statistics are that in 10 years the American people have scrapped some 15,000,000 motor cars for which they paid more than $12,000,000,000.

Glagolin, Drama Genius, Facing Deportation

Boris Glagolin, famous Russian creator of "constructivism," lecturer and author of many books on stage technic, faces arrest and deportation. He is charged with overstaying his time limit in this country.

Now in the midst of a production of the ancient "Golem" at the Y. M. & W. H. A. civic playhouse, Bellefield avenue, he has received word from immigration officials in New York that a warrant is out for his arrest.

Glagolin only recently completed "The Gardener's Dog," which ran two weeks in Carnegie Tech's Little Theater.

Carnegie Tech has him under contract to return next fall, and the University of Michigan's playhouse has requested him in several letters to teach his dramatic theories there and present a play. The Provincetown Players, of Provincetown, Mass., who produced Eugene O'Neill's early plays, have been bidding for his services.

PITTSBURGHERS TO AID

Many prominent Pittsburghers are planning to ask the Department of Labor to extend further his passport privileges, in the hope that he can give to the integral dramatic organizations of the nation his "constructivist" viewpoint.

Worried over the threat of deportation, not because he doesn't want to return to Russia, but because it will deprive him of the right ever to return here, he said:

"My children, my grandchildren, my home are in Russia, and my life centers there. I do not mind returning. But I would like to finish my contracts here during the next year, and hope I am no deported.

CAME HERE IN 1927

"I came to this country August 16, 1927, on a lecturer's passport. My time has been extended right along, and the United States government has been very kind to me. There has perhaps been some slip-up or mistake on my part which I would be glad to rectify.

"I would be very willing to return at the end of the year, and in the meanwhile I would like to further acquaint the American public with my theories of dramatic direction."

Quiz Archduke in Fraud Hint Over Gem Sale

NEW YORK, March 4.—(INS.)—Further revelations in the sale of the history-encrusted $400,000 diamond necklace, given by Napoleon to Empress Marie Louisa of Austria in 1811, to a New York jeweler for $60,000, were expected today with a scheduled questioning of Archduke Leopold of Austria. Assistant District Attorney Harold Hastings, who is investigating the sale of the necklace for the 73-year-old archduchess Maria Theresa of Austria, former owner of the diamond circlet, said he would quiz the archduke on the sale here, which netted the archduchess only $7,270. The archduke witnessed the sale.

The balance of the $60,000 sale price covered expenses, representatives of the archduchess told the district attorney. They said Charles L. Townsend, who sold the jewels for the archduchess, sent her a check for $7,270 from Chicago and said that was all she could realize on the necklace.

Hastings said he would like to question Townsend, who was last heard of several weeks ago in Florida.

Attorneys for the archduchess claimed she has recently refused $175,000 for the Napoleon gems.

MELLON GROUP NAMED AS OIL TARIFF FOES

Independent Head Declares Interests Failed to Back Hoover Conservation Plan.

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Charges that the Mellon interests opposed a tariff on oil and that they have not cooperated with President Hoover's oil conservation program were made before the Senate Lobby Committee today by Wirt Franklin head of the independents who financed an extensive lobby here for a duty on oil imports.

"The Mellon interests have opposed the duty on oil and have not cooperated in any way in the President's oil conservation program," Franklin testified.

"How do you know that?" Senator Walsh (Dem.) of Montana, asked.

"Henry McGraw, vice president and general manager of the Gypsy Oil Company for Oklahoma and Texas told me," Franklin replied. He is the active head of the Gypsy company, which is owned by the Gulf Oil Company, a Mellon company. His headquarters are at Tulsa.

WILL OFFER AMENDMENT

A modified amendment for a duty on oil similar to that asked by the lobby will be introduced this week by Senator Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma, he told the committee.

Independent oil producers who came to Washington aboard a $500,000 train to battle for a tariff on oil, which failed by 12 votes, also aimed at carrying their fight to South American oil fields through the institution of an export tax, the Senate Lobby Committee was informed today.

Franklin said the plan was that if the independents lost the tariff fight, a delegation would be sent to Colombia and Venezuela to persuade those governments to put on an export tax of $1 a barrel.

TELEGRAM DESCRIBES FIGHT

Vice President Curtis and Senator Watson, Republican floor leader, were among those whom Franklin said he asked for help to put a $1 a barrel tariff on oil.

A telegram sent two weeks ago telling how the fight was going for an oil tariff by Earl Calloway, assistant to Franklin, was identified by Franklin. It read:

"Tex McElroy,
"Dixon Creek Oil Company,
"Amarillo, Tex.
"If you want to know something, this is a hell of a fight. Some of you oil workers think a 24-inch bit is a tough proposition, but compared with a United States senator, it is a feather bed. We really have been working very, very hard and have accomplished a great deal. Am absolutely sincere in my belief that if we can keep everything in line and keep the folks at home back of us we will win this fight.
(Signed) "EARL CALLOWAY."

Franklin said the "folks back home" were the Oklahoma Senators and Representatives.

He asserted he did not know of any $100,000 individual contributions to his lobby fight. Questioned by Senator Blaine (Rep. Wis.), he identified many telegrams seized from his files.

$250,000 GIVEN JOHNS HOPKINS

BALTIMORE, March 4.—(AP.)—Two gifts totaling $250,000 to the Institute of Law at Johns Hopkins University were announced by Edwin G. Baetjer, university trustee, at a dinner given by Dr. Joseph Ames, president of the institution and the board of trustees.

An unnamed donor gave $200,000 free of all conditions and explained in a letter that it was hoped it would be possible to increase the sum later. Fifty thousand dollars was given the institue by Decourcy W. Thom with the understanding it would be used for the library.

Dean Roscoe Pound, of the Harvard Law School, was the principal speaker at the dinner, given to members of the legal profession and financiers and industrialists. Other speakers were Associate Justice Pierce Butler, of the United States Supreme Court, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, President Ames, Howell Griswold, trustee, and Daniel Willard, president of the board.

Shot

JACOB C. KNAPP

B. & L. OFFICER SHOT BY THIEF

City-wide search was being made by police today for two bandits, one of whom shot Jacob C. Knapp, 52, when he attempted to frustrate a holdup of his real estate office at 4626 Liberty avenue last night.

Knapp, who lives at 215 Taylor street, is in a critical condition in the West Penn Hospital from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

ALONE IN OFFICE

Knapp was alone in his office when the thug, wearing a handkerchief over his face, ordered him to throw up his hands. Knapp, secretary of the Friendship Building and Loan Association, complied and pointed to the cash drawer when the thug asked him where it was.

As the bandit opened it, Knapp reached beneath the counter for a revolver and attempted to shut the drawer, police said. The bandit fired, the bullet striking Knapp in the abdomen.

The thug then seized part of the money and leaped into an automobile in front of the office where an accomplice awaited him.

FIRE ON PURSUERS

Springs on the bandit car were broken when they drove into an unpaved alley near Yew and Mathilda streets. Abandoning the automobile, the pair was pursued by three youths who became suspicious of them. The three, Melvin Wilson, 18, of 4911 Cypress street; Philip Dietz, 15, of 702 Gross street, and Louis Gensler, 19, of 4932 Yew street, gave up the chase when the bandits fired several shots at them.

After being wounded, Knapp managed to telephone his home. His sons, Harold, 21, and Kenneth, 19, found him behind the counter and took him to the hospital.

The bandit car, police said, was stolen while it was parked in front of the Bellefield Garage, at 160 North Craig street, yesterday morning.

Weather Conditions.

The western high pressure area that caused the cold weather over most of the country the past few days diminished in intensity and decreased southward over the Gulf while a low pressure area developed over the Upper Mississippi Valley. These changes in barometric pressure resulted in rising temperatures over the entire country except over the Florida Peninsula where cold weather for that section prevails. The temperature is 42 degrees at Miami. The precipitation was light and was limited to light snowfall over the Lake Region, the Upper Ohio Valley, the Middle Atlantic States, and the Northeast and scattered places in the Rocky Mountains. There is nothing on the map that would indicate a change to colder weather for the next several days.

POWERS CHART NAVY PARLEY FUTURE

Return of France Expected For Conference Tomorrow; Stimson Absent With Cold

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service.

LONDON, March 4.—The future course of the five-power naval disarmament conference was charted at an hour long meeting of the chief delegates today.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, head of the American delegation, who is suffering from a severe cold, was represented by Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Switzerland.

M. De Fleuriau, French ambassador to London, attended as chief representative of his country, although he was unauthorized to make any official commitments.

Only one subject was discussed at the meeting—the future course of the parley. It was decided that the first committee would meet at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow and the heads of the delegations at the same hour on Friday.

SUBMARINE DISCUSSION

The experts' committee will convene tomorrow to start preliminary discussions on the individual size of submarines.

It is anticipated that the political situation in France will permit the French, to be represented officially at this experts' meeting as well as at the meeting between the delegation heads on Friday.

No progress could be made in discussing the experts' report on categories today in view of the lack of French credentials. The discussion was postponed until Friday when the question of tonnage limitation of individual light cruisers in all probability will be settled.

The delay in settling this question is impeding the cruiser negotiations between the United States and Japan. An American-Japanese agreement, however, is already in sight.

EDGE IN LONDON

Walter Evans Edge, American ambassador to France, has arrived here from Paris. While insisting his visit was purely private, he has spent considerable time conferring with members of the American delegation.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald held a brief conference with Chief Japanese Delegate Reijiro Wakatsuki today. Another meeting was to be held this afternoon between the premier and Ambassador Matsudaira to discuss the light cruiser tonnage question in an effort to determine whether Britain and Japan will be able to accede to America's insistence that her tonnage in this class remain unlimited.

Secretary Stimson is remaining at his country place at Stanmore for two or three days on orders of Capt. M. E. Higgins, American naval doctor, who said the head of the American delegation is not seriously ill with influenza, but has a very bad cold.

7,000 FILIPINOS JOIN STRIKE

MANILA, March 4.—(AP.)—More than 7,000 high school students struck here today, joining those of Manila High School, who have walked out twice in the last few days as the result of a controversy growing out of their resentment against an American teacher, Miss Mabel Brummitt.

The total number of striking students reached 10,000 as those from West High, South High and East High joined the original strikers. Others also were contemplating joining the walkout.

MORE DEMANDS MADE

Demands of the striking students broadened as the ranks of the strikers grew. The original strike sought the removal of Miss Brummitt. Miss Brummitt was removed and four students suspended as ring leaders of the walkout.

Yesterday the North High students struck again, demanding reinstatement of their four expelled classmates. As the strike spread to other schools today, the students demanded dismissal of the acting secretary of public instruction, the director of education and the principal of North High School.

TWO STUDENTS BEATEN

Two students were mobbed this morning for refusing to join the walkout and two were attacked yesterday. Seven strikers were arrested for creating a disturbance and for assaulting a policeman.

Dr. Alejandro Albert, acting secretary of public instruction, announced that all strikers would be expelled.

Former County Clerk Convicted Over Rum

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 4.—John Westfall, of Waynesburg, former clerk of courts, was convicted on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor by a jury which deliberated less than one-half hour. Westfall, prominent for many years in Greene County politics, was arrested on December 1 on the Waynesburg-Jefferson highway.

Two New Sewers Planned By City

Council yesterday received ordinances appropriating $1,800 for a new sewer on Laredo street and $2,000 for a sewer on Snyder street. The funds are expected to be returned in from property benefited.

Rumania to Curb Red Propaganda In 'Radio War'

BUCHAREST, March 4.—(INS.)—Rumania has declared a "radio war" upon Soviet Russia, it was learned today.

Rumanian officials charge the Soviet government is fomenting revolution in the province of Bessarabia by causing propaganda to be broadcast from Russian radio stations in the Rumanian language.

Hereafter, whenever such propaganda broadcasts are heard in the air, Rumanian stations will broadcast on similar wave lenghts to drown out the Russian sending stations.

Meadville Girl, 14, Sought by Parents

Parents of Ethel Fucci, 14, of Meadville, Pa., today asked the Missing Persons Bureau to aid in seeking the girl who has been missing from home since February 18. She had talked of wanting to see Pittsburgh, they said, and they believe she may be here.

RENAME POLICE AT AMBRIDGE

Further action was anticipated today in the war between Ambridge Borough Council and Burgess P. J. Caul, Council having reinstated Chief John Flocker and Motorcycle Officer Daniel Mitchell at its meeting last night. The burgess suspended the officers in February in a shakeup he said was "for the good of the service."

Council also re-elected Clifford Hartling and Isaac Jones to the police force, having previously dismissed them. It also approved pay raises to a number of the policemen during the meeting.

Since the shakeup, George Palmer, former night sergeant, had been serving as acting chief under the direction of Burgess Caul.

THACHER TOLD TO SELL STOCK

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(Universal.)—A new test for federal officials has been laid down by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Divestment of financial interest in public utilities corporations was demanded in the case of Judge Thomas D. Thacher, of New York, nominated to be Solicitor General of the United States.

In a letter to Senator Borah, of Idaho, made public Saturday, Judge Thacher listed his security holdings in four public utilities corporations and his wife's investments in Electric Bond and Share Company.

A sub-committee, headed by Senator Waterman, of Colorado, divided on its report on Judge Thacher and the full committee decided to postpone final action on the nomination until the appointee had sold his holdings in the utilities companies.

Police Get Stolen Auto Before It Is Missed

Pittsburgh police recovered a stolen automobile last night before they knew it was stolen.

At 11 o'clock Motorcycle Patrolman A. E. Rahe stopped three youths in a machine at Seventh avenue and Grant street and arrested them when they could not produce an owner's card.

This morning in Morals Court, C. W. Beckman, an auto dealer, testified the car was stolen at 10 o'clock last night, but had not been reported to police. He had sold the automobile at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The three youths arrested, Mike Berry, 20, of 1900 Huron street; William Handley, 21, of 322 Church avenue, and John Meccina, 18, of 216 Marlin street, were held for court on charges of larceny.

LINDY MOVES WITH GLIDER

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—(AP.)—Apparently confirming reports that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh would continue his glider experiments in the San Francisco Bay Region, his Bowlus sail plane, the "Anne Lindbergh," arrived here from San Diego on the coastwise steamer Harvard.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh flew here Sunday from Burbank, Cal., and after landing at Mills Field, were taken to the Hillborough, home of Thomas B. Eastland, a director of the Transcontinental Air Transport. The flier was reticent about his plans.

Lindbergh and Hawley Bowlus, American glider champion, with whom Lindbergh recently has been conducting experiments in Southern California, ended their experimental flights there because of lack of advantageous winds.

Retired Steel Man, Gold Prospector Dies Here

Daniel J. Cullinan, retired Pittsburgher, who once prospected for gold in Australia, died unexpectedly early today in his home at 235 South Fairmont avenue. He would have been 78 on March 21.

Mr. Cullinan had returned from Palm Beach Sunday.

He was born in Ireland, came to America at 15 and as a young man went to Australia, where he engaged in gold mining for eight years. He later organized in Cleveland the Forest City Malleable Iron Works, which was consolidated with the McConway-Torley Company, of Pittsburgh. In 1893 Mr. Cullinan helped to organize the Western Foundry Company, of Chicago.

Mr. Cullinan was a member of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church and Duquesne Council No. 264, Knights of Columbus. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Kennedy Cullinan; four sons, Thomas, Daniel, Edward and Frank Cullinan, and three daughters, Katherine, Mary and Lillian Cullinan.

SEEK TO HALT RUN DIVERSION

An injunction against the county of Allegheny to prevent a diversion of Girtys Run from its natural channel in the construction and straightening of Babcock boulevard is asked by Clifton P. Schmidt and his wife, Martha W. Schmidt, owners of about five acres in Shaler Township within a 900-foot frontage along Babcock boulevard.

The bill in equity, filed in Common Pleas Court and directed against the County Commissioners and the contractor, Michael H. Parish Inc., averred that the county does not have power to divert the run from its natural channel. The entry upon the Schmidt property by the contractor, who has started excavation to create a new channel constitutes a trespass and will work an irreparable injury, the suit alleged.

Motorcycle Rider Makes 22-Yard Leap

MEXICO CITY, March 4 —(AP.)—Gen. Antonio Gomez Velasco, chief of the Federal District Traffic Department, today established what he believed to be a world record motorcycle jump. Traveling at the rate of 78 miles an hour, he made his machine leap from a raised platform to land 22 yards away and continue upright.

Suicide Complex Leads Wife to Ask Divorce

CHICAGO, March 4 —(AP.)— Rolard Roe (says his wife) was always going to kill himself but never did, so she decided to seek a divorce.

At least 30 times, as she remembers the number, he struck a dramatic pose, pointed a revolver at some vulnerable part of his anatomy and announced that for one reason or another he was about to give old Irish Charon a passenger on the Styx River ferry.

But always he neglected to pull the trigger or put bullets in the pistol, or something equally important. This caused Mrs. Roe, she said, great mental torture, and she wants a divorce.

Youth Kills Father To Protect Sister

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 4 —(AP.)— Hilton A. Lecroy, 19, confessed to police last night that he shot and killed his father, E. H. Lecroy, 42, at their suburban home late yesterday. The elder Lecroy was shot in the head with a 12-gauge shotgun. The son told officers he shot his father to protect his 15-year-old sister. No charges have been placed against the youth pending further investigation.

POPE CRITICISES MODERN YOUTH

VATICAN CITY, March 4 —(AP.)— Flaming youth and an unbridled press were deplored by Pope Pius today in instructions to Lenten preachers and parish priests of the Rome diocese.

The Pope said that modern youth was impatient of even paternal restraint and the press, lacking in respect for anything, was therefore doubly dangerous to the young.

Then the Pontiff criticized the catalog-guide for youthful readers published by the official Fascist press, but stressed that he did not desire such criticism to be construed as disapproval of the Mussolini regime. He particularly mentioned a list of recommended books and said it was contrary to what it should be since most of the volumes were on the index of forbidden books.

The Pope remarked that the catalog was published under seal of the Fascist emblem and added that he felt that the preachers should speak of the publication in order that youth might be guarded from the evil.

3 Children Die as Fire Destroys Home

CENTERVILLE, Ia., March 4 —(AP.)— Three children of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Evans, of Seymour, near here, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home early today.

W. J. LONGMORE, BURGESS, DIES

Burgess William J. Longmore, 70, of Bellevue, active in civic affairs of the North Boroughs for nearly half a century, died early today in his home, 90 Sprague avenue, following a five days' illness of pneumonia.

W. J. Longmore

Mr. Longmore was serving his fourth term as burgess. He was chairman of the Andrew Bayne Memorial Library Commission and was a former member of council.

Born in old Allegheny, he moved with his parents to Bellevue, where he had resided since.

Starting as a painter in the old shop of the Union Switch and Signal Company in Garrison way, October 1, 1881, he advanced until he became purchasing agent of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and more recently consulting purchasing agent. He was a personal friend of the late George Westinghouse, and was a member of the Westinghouse Veteran Employes Association. Mr. Longmore was one of the first members of the Avalon United Presbyterian Church, in which he was an elder for many years and for 30 years superintendent of the Sabbath School. He leaves his wife and a son, Charles W. Longmore, of Bellevue.

Serves 30 Days In Same Jail With Family

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 4 —(INS.)—Thomas Drury didn't expect to sleep beneath the same roof with his wife and six small children for 30 days when he was sentenced to spend that period in jail for striking Mrs. Drury.

But since he was sentenced February 19 one of his children developed chickenpox and the other five were stricken. The local Red Cross took charge of the family and decided the patients could receive better care at the hospital ward in the jail. Mrs. Drury was admitted to aid in nursing her brood.

Meanwhile the husband is working in the prison kitchen—cooking food for his family whose members he is not allowed to see.

Shoup, Ex-Governor Of Colorado, Weds

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., March 4 —(AP.)—Oliver H. Shoup, twice governor of Colorado, and Miss Mary Alice Hackett, of Colorado Springs, were married yesterday. The wedding ceremony was performed by Monsignor Godfrey Raber, of St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Miss Hackett for several years has been treasurer of various companies through which Shoup conducted his business activities and during his terms as governor, was in charge of his Colorado Springs office. Shoup's first wife died in 1927.

HOOVER ENTERS SECOND YEAR FEELING FIT

Works Hard on Anniversary Of Inauguration; Loses Excess Weight in Year

WASHINGTON, March 4. —(AP.) — President Hoover today reached the end of his first 12 months as chief executive of the nation, did not pause to celebrate the anniversary of his induction into office, and with his characteristic energy swung vigorously into the work of his administration's second year.

"Work," the one word formula which he advanced several months ago as the solution for the nation's business problems he prescribed for himself as the principal feature of the day's observance.

His schedule for the anniversary hardly differed from those of other days. Exercise with the Medicine Ball Cabinet" upon arising, a hearty breakfast and arrival at his desk by 9 o'clock constituted the morning routine. An hour for lunch, additional conferences with department heads and the regular Tuesday press conference, completed the day's program.

LOSES WEIGHT

A few fine lines about his eyes and a 15-pound reduction in his ample figure are the only changes that a year in the White House has brought to the Chief Executive. His smile is as warm and spontaneous as ever and his affability, his friends say, has, if anything, increased.

Those who are closely associated with him, believe that his physical condition today is as good or better than it was a year ago, in spite of the arduous duties and the many cares and worries that go with the nation's highest office.

Fess Praises Hoover's Actions as President

WASHINGTON, March 4 —(INS.)—The accomplishments of President Hoover and the Republican Congress in the first year of his administration were described as "impressive" today by Senator Fess (Rep.), of Ohio, in a speech to the Senate reviewing the party's record for the last 12 months.

It was designed to reply to Senator Wagner's speech of yesterday, which criticised the Hoover record.

Fess declared prohibition was here to stay, that the Eighteenth Amendment would not be changed and that the Volstead act would not be weakened. If anything, he said, prohibition will grow in effectiveness by education and public sentiment.

The outstanding achievements of the first year of Mr. Hoover's reign were listed by Fess as passage of the farm relief bill, appointment of a Federal Farm Board, enactment of the reapportionment and new census bills, settlement of the French debt, passage of the veterans' hospitalizatin bill, slashing of taxes and a highly-successful record in international diplomacy.

Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, congratulated Fess on his "audacity and nerve," and said that "if failure to solve the big problems is an achievement, if dissatisfying labor and causing such policies to be initiated and administered as have brought labor to such a condition in this country today is an achievement, then this administration is a success."

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, characterized Fess' speech as "most amusing and illogical."

FIRE DAMAGES STORE BUILDING

Fire starting on the fourth floor of the Joseph Woodwell Company Building, 240 Third avenue, early today, spread to the roof and for a time threatened adjoining buildings. Loss was estimated at $5,000 by Battalion Chief George Spaar.

Firemen battled the flames from the street and from the roof of a building next door, also occupied by the Woodwell company. Cold and ice-coated ladders made their work hazardous.

When discovered, the fire was burning near the elevator shaft in the rim and wheel department, 20 feet back from the street. By the time firemen arrived it had spread over the roof of the building.

W. Elizabeth Council Guests at Benefit

The West Elizabeth borough council adjourned after a short session last night to attend the Volunteer Firemen's home talent benefit show which was held in the Liberty Theater. President August Brown was in charge of the meeting. Almost 400 persons attended the entertainment, said to have been the most successful amateur performance ever presented.

Y. M. C. A. Delegates In 'M. U. F.' Meeting

More than 200 representatives of 22 Hi-Y" clubs in the Pittsburgh district will attend a meeting in the downtown Y. M. C. A. tonight in connection with the "M. U. F." Week" to be observed by the Y. M. C. A. here March 10 to 14. The principal speaker will be James Lee Ellenwood, of the New York state committee of the Y. M. C. A.

Missionary Circle Arranges Supper

The Women's Missionary Society, Gibsonia Presbyterian Church, will hold a sauerkraut supper and rummage sale tonight in the church rooms. Motion pictures will be shown following the supper.

Ortiz Rubio Greets Mexican Athletes

MEXICO CITY, March 4 —(AP.) —President Pascual Ortiz Rubio made his first public appearance late yesterday since his recovery from the wounds he suffered in the attempt against his life on February 5. He received a group of about 100 Mexican athletes in the garden of his home. He shook hands with all of them and gave them a Mexican flag to carry to the Central American Olympic games at Havana, which open soon.

Students Flee Fire In Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., March 4 —Twenty students at the Brownsville Business College here were forced to the street yesterday when fire broke out in a switchbox in the Waggoner Building in the Neck.

DR. A. W. WILSON DIES AT KISKI

SALTSBURG, Pa., March 4 — Dr. Andrew W. Wilson, Jr., 67, president and founder of Kiskiminetas Springs School here and a prominent figure in the educational world for more than 42 years, died at his home here on the school campus last evening at 5:30. Death was caused by complications which followed pneumonia.

A. W. Wilson

He was born in Indiana, Pa., a son of A. W. Wilson, Sr., who was then president of the board of trustees of the Indiana Normal School and a leading merchant of Indiana. Dr. Wilson was graduated from Princeton in 1883, receiving his A. B. at the age of 20. Three years later Princeton conferred upon him the degree of M. A., and in 1886 he was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Law School.

During his early days, Dr. Wilson was a noted athlete. He was one of the few men of Phi Beta Kappa rank in scholarship who found time to play on the athletic teams. He founded the Kiskiminetas Springs School in 1888 and had been continuously at its head since that time.

He was a trustee of Western Theological Seminary, Pittsburgh.

In August of 1889, Dr. Wilson was married to Miss Bessie G. Sansom, of Indiana. He is survived by his widow, four daughters, Mrs. James L. Marks and Mrs. John J. Daub, both of Saltsburg; Mrs. Edwin Green, of Harrisburg, and Mrs. J. M. Clark, of New York; three brothers, Harry W. Wilson, of Indiana; Dr. Robert Dick Wilson, of Philadelphia, and Dick Wilson, of Pasadena; four sisters, Mrs. George R. Stewart and Mrs. Stacey Smith, of Pasadena; Mrs. Alfred H. Barr, of Chicago, and Mrs. Robert Mullen, of Windber, Pa., and 13 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon in Saltsburg Presbyterian Church, with interment in Indiana Cemetery, Indiana, Pa.

Sheer Black for Afternoon

Chiffon and Georgette Crepe Frocks for Women and Misses

We feature it not only because it was the color at the two smartest pre-Spring places—St. Moritz and Palm Beach, but also because, if one insists upon being practical in the matter, a sheer black frock may be worn to a hundred different occasions in a season without becoming conspicuous.

... Chiffon and georgette crepe frocks in all-black! Black with lace used as deep yoke effects, cuffs and capelets. Black with touches of gleaming white or pink ... Long-sleeved models of informal afternoon type. Models with short frill or capelet sleeves, for formal afternoon and dinner wear. Priced $39.50 to $65.

... Horne's, Second Floor ...

Fashion-Thrift Dresses

Four Types for Choice

$19.50

Four types of frocks which are outstanding for Spring are brought out in this Fashion-Thrift group.

—Little cap-sleeved frocks of black taffeta, for slim young women.

—Printed chiffon frocks in unusual patterns and colorings, for both women and misses.

—Misses' lace ensembles in black or bronze-beige, consisting of sleeveless frocks and long-sleeved jackets.

—Women's and misses' flat crepe frocks in the soft-toned shades for Spring, with elbow sleeves.

... Horne's, Second Floor ...

New Boutonnieres

Of oilcloth in black-and-white or navy-and-white, when they are to go with suits or coats which are in the tailored mood. (Priced $1.00).

Of pique in all-white, or pin-striped green-and-white and sand-and-white, when they are to be worn with more formal suits and coats or with rather tailored silk frocks. (Priced $1.25).

White Gardenias, 25c to $1.50.

Lilies-of-the-Valley, 50c up.

... Horne's, Main Floor ...

A Belt Marks the Spot

Where Waistline Appears

Practically every frock or suit that attempts to be smart will, this season, wear a belt at the normal waistline.

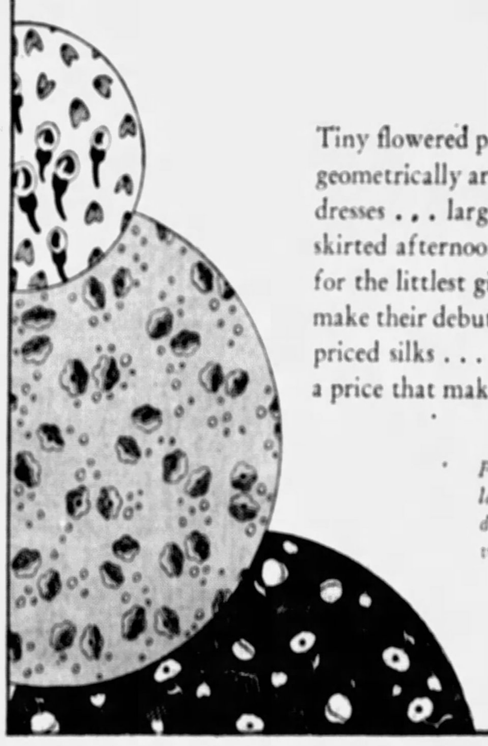
Of suede snakeskin, two-colored leathers, sports silks, even novel metal trimmed belts—in colors and widths to please every fancy. Belts are priced from $1.00 to $5.00.

... Horne's, Main Floor ...

3000 Yards Printed Silks

Fashion-Endorsed for Spring—Horne Quality Silks at a Very Special Price

$1.75 Yard



Tiny flowered prints for saucy peplum frocks ... demure geometrically arranged prints for the just-as-demure cape dresses ... large distantly placed prints for those long-skirted afternoon frocks ... and pretty little posy-prints for the littlest girl's best dress. All these delightful prints make their debut tomorrow in this new group of specially priced silks ... flat crepes and Cheney's radiums ... at a price that makes it inexpensive to be fashionable.

Five pattern services for your selection ... Vogue, Butterick, Ladies' Home Journal, Pictorial Review, and Paris Authentique.

Youthful Pajamas Easily Made

Pattern 1906

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

Small girls have adopted the pajama mode because of their comfort, grace and beauty. They are very easy to make and quite inexpensive as they are just as lovely made of cotton as of silk. The model sketched today has a rounded neck and short sleeves trimmed with banding of contrasting fabric.

The blouse may be worn inside or over the trousers.

Pattern 1906 may be made of percale, broadcloth, pongee, rayon or wash silk. Gayly printed designs in vivid or pastel shades are lovely for spring.

May be obtained only in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 4 requires 2⅜ yards of 36-inch material and ¼ yard contrasting trimming.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model. The pattern has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our NEW SPRING BOOK of PATTERN STYLES is now ready. Price FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

SPAIN REVIVING CONSTITUTION

MADRID, March 4.—(INS.)—Premier D'Amaso Berenguer intends to ignore recent disturbances in Spain and will go ahead with his original plans for gradually restoring a constitutional government, it was learned today.

Political speeches again will be allowed at the end of this month and freedom of speech and the press will be restored, he declared through the government spokesman.

As soon as the country appears prepared to vote calmly, he indicated, a general election will be called.

New Taxation Rate Up at Braddock

V. C. Kolski presided at last night's meeting of the borough council of Braddock in the absence of Michael J. Verosky, when the borough payroll was approved and the community bills paid. A motion establishing the tax rate passed the first and second readings.

Lack Quorum, Two Councils Held Up

Inability to get a quorum last night put an end to the borough of Elizabeth's attempt to hold its regular council meeting, and to Glassport's effort to hold a special council meeting. Both sessions will be held later in the month.

HE WAS HELPED IN A WONDERFUL WAY

Man States World's Tonic Gave Him a New View of Life.

"For just about five years I felt myself slipping down hill in health," said Mr. Glen H. Carr, who works at Uniontown, Pa. "Just one thing after another seemed to be ailing me. It started with a cold. I caught one after another. Then my stomach began to act up on me. I belched gas and felt bloated after every meal. Soon I got so bad that no solid food would agree with me. If I could get it to stay on my stomach. Then my liver got so sluggish that I was bilious all the time. My tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth, my breath was bad, my skin was yellow and my eyes looked so tired my friends began to comment on it. I was troubled with constipation and in the mornings when I waked my back ached so much over the kidneys that I had to move around in bed and loosen it up before I could get up. I was in a bad condition that was getting worse rapidly instead of being relieved by the medicines I was taking. Finally I quit them in disgust. It was bad enough to be sick all the time without wasting the little money I had on treatments that did me no good.

"One of my nephews came over to visit me. He was shocked by my appearance and after he had asked me about my illness he said that unless I did something soon he would have to come back before long to help bury me. That sounds pretty brutal, but I guess it was justified. Anyhow, that night he brought home a bottle of World's Tonic. I refused to take it. We had quite an argument, but he finally convinced me I should not give up hope, and I began taking this wonderful new medicine.

"Since then I have noted the steady improvement in my condition that World's Tonic has brought about and I have a new view of life. While it has been only a few weeks since I took my first dose of World's Tonic, the improvement has been so great that I know I shall get perfectly well in a few more days. The pains over my kidneys are all gone, my constipation is overcome, my stomach forms no more gas, and I can eat a meal and not suffer afterward. My strength is rapidly coming back, and instead of feeling like an old worn-out hack I am ready for any reasonable work, and I am sure that in two or three weeks more I can tackle anything I ever could, thanks to this wonderful World's Tonic." This medicine, which has obtained a remarkable reputation in this community, is sold by Dow's, Marx & Liggett's, Mayflower and all other first-class drug stores. (A-55)

MOB PATRIARCH IN CHURCH

WARSAW, March 4.—(INS)—Because of his declaration that the religious persecution exists in Soviet Russia, Metropolitan Sergius, acting patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church in that country, has become an object of derision among the thousands of priests and laymen still faithful to the church, according to a prominent Greek Orthodox Priest now here.

With Metropolitan Peter Krutitsky, former patriarchal regent now banished to Solovetzky near the White Sea, according to the priest, Sergius is now publicly menaced with acts of violence and epithets whenever he attempts to officiate at services and has been spat upon in public.

"When he mounted the altar to say mass," the priest said, "the crowded church seethed with noise. Instead of kneeling in prayer, the worshipers hissed and whistled until Sergius stepped down. Then those nearest clawed at his robes and attempted to tear the patriarchal cross from his breast. On another occasion a mouth to mouth boycott was so effective that only a few stragglers came to hear him say mass."

Campbell, Mrs. Mart Kelley, and Elizabeth and Marie Einstein, of Detroit, and a son, Charles H. Einstein, of Cleveland.

Beerworth Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Beerworth, 91, who died Saturday at the home of her son, John W. Beerworth, 431 Butler street, Springdale, were held last evening. Mrs. Beerworth was the oldest member of the Springdale Methodist Episcopal Church. She leaves two sons, two daughters and six grandchildren.

Kelly Funeral

Funeral services for Willis M. Kelly, investment broker, of 3427 Terrace street, who died last evening at St. Joseph Hospital, will be held Thursday morning from St. Paul's Cathedral. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Frances S. Kelly; his mother, four children, two brothers and six sisters.

Munhall Man Leaves Estate to Widow

Mrs. Lulu A. Hough, of Munhall, was named beneficiary and executrix of the $17,000 estate of her husband, O. C. Hough, whose will was filed for probate today.

Deportation Looms For Yvonne D'Arcy

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(INS)—Charged with overstaying the period allotted them on a special passport, Yvonne D'Arcy, film actress, and her mother today faced the possibility of being deported to France. Immigration authorities, following an investigation, referred their case to Washington.

In a sensational damage suit against Granville Sully, son of the millionaire cotton baron, the actress several years ago won a judgment of $50,000, but a higher court subsequently set aside the judgment.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children, to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

Lawrence, Novelist, Buried in France

VENCE, France, March 4.—(INS)—D. H. Lawrence, famous British novelist who died here after a lingering illness, was buried with simplest ceremonies today. Only his widow and a few close friends, including Aldous Huxley, witnessed the interment.

Watchman Missing For Days Sought

The Missing Persons Bureau today was seeking Morris Wertheimer, 67, of 2832 Breckenridge street, who disappeared while en route to his home Saturday night. Wertheimer, a watchman at the Montefiore Hospital, was last seen in a drug store near his home.

March Sale of LAMPS

Tomorrow Only!

1,000 Stunning Junior Lamps!

Beautiful Pale Green Simulated Onyx Trimmed Base With the New Silk Embroidered and Shirred Shades. Look Like $25 Lamps.

No Mail or Phone Orders!

Sale Begins 9 A. M. Promptly!

JUST when nearly every home needs the tonic of a bright new lamp comes this great Spear Lamp Special. Really, we don't think $8.95 ever before bought so much lamp beauty, color and style. The lamps were specially designed for this event and they incorporate refinements of lamp-making that will delight every woman who demands quality in everything she buys. There are two styles! Both fashion favorites. The one illustrated has the new silk embroidered shade; the other has a beautiful multi-colored Crystalline shade. They reflect that rich, mellow light that is so restful to the eye. The bases are of a solid cast brass with a Nymph design. The twirled stem is attractively trimmed with colorful, simulated Green Onyx. But you must see these lamps to appreciate what loveliness they will bring to your home, and when you see their beauty, examine their quality, we'll wager that you will want to buy one for every room in your home. We repeat the price is amazingly low for such quality! The Sale is for one day only, that's tomorrow!

Features:

1. Choice of shirred and embroidered shade or crystalline shade, 11x16 inches in diameter and 14 inches deep. Deep fringe of matching beads and silk.
2. Nymph decorated, hammered brass base.
3. Beautifully designed 6-inch finial.
4. Beautiful green simulated onyx trimmed stem, 5 ft. 6 in. high.
5. A $25 value!
6. Silk rope pullcord decorated with matching simulated finials.

"Slave Girl."

Ollie Stansberry, a daughter of the big top, grew up with Jimmy Cullen in the atmosphere of taxbarks and sawdust. When Jarvis Sloane entered the picture the girl's difficulties began, for the second suitor was of another sphere, the son of a country magnate and with all the rural dweller's prejudice against troupers in general and circus folks in particular. The girl's choice gives an entirely new denouement to this age-old situation.

TONIGHT

at 7:30 O'Clock

Message from
DR. JULIUS KLEIN
Assistant Secretary
United States Department of Commerce

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

HELEN KANE, who was fired from her first job in a player piano factory when the boss returned from lunch to find her boopa boopa dooping on the top of his roll top desk while the office boys made merry, will give radio fans a bit of her baby voice tonight at 9 o'clock on the Eveready Hour, WCAE.

For a long time after getting the gate from the big piano roll man, Helen's attempts to crash into big time were thrown for a loss. But someone sensitive to beauty finally saw and heard fair Helen and the thousand ships were launched, later to come back well-laden.

Helen Kane

WJAS will have Lillian Roth and Joe Wagstaff as guests of Paul Whiteman on the 9 p. m. Old Gold Hour.

"What the Motion Picture Means to the World" will be Will Hays' talk in the Westinghouse Salute to the Motion Picture Industry, KDKA at 10.

"Success" will be discussed by Dr. Carl Wallace Petty during the 7:30 Evening Altar on KDKA.

Boys and girls at KayDee have formed a club. The high sign is the Westinghouse Salute executed by bringing the right hand snappily to the forehead in parallel position. The password is "Boom! Boom!"

Frank Verner, of East Liberty, has been transferred from the experimental plant at East Pittsburgh to the William Penn studios.

STOP STATIC?

A black rectangular box 16 inches long and four inches square containing a device calculated to eliminate static, was tested last night in the home of P. C. Miller, at McDonald.

It is the invention of Robert Barrisch, Pittsburgh attorney, and George Barrisch, 3069 Center avenue. Patent papers have been applied for.

Visitors at WJAS looked surprised recently when Jim Hughes spoke of "plenty soup" at the transmitting station on the Steubenville Pike. "Soup" in radio parlance means amount of current in the antenna.

Red plush rugs and fancy curtain designs at KayDee give the reception rooms an atmosphere of Spanish munificence. A gay caballero will feel right at home after this.

W. VA. HONORS DEAD LEADER

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 4.—(AP.)—Plans for a guard of honor at the bier of James A. Hughes, 69, representative in Congress from the Fourth West Virginia district, were made here after his body had been brought from Marion, O., where he died in a sanitarium Sunday after several weeks' illness.

The guard of honor will consist of four state troopers and members of the Huntington police force who will take their places when Hughes' body lies in state in the City Hall from 11 o'clock until 2 o'clock tomorrow, prior to burial in a Huntington cemetery.

Telegrams of condolence were received by Mrs. Hughes from President Hoover, Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House of Representatives, members of the West Virginia congressional delegation and state and city officials of West Virginia.

Political leaders of the Fourth Congressional district deferred consideration of Hughes' successor. State constitutional provisions direct that within 10 days after the death of a member of Congress the governor shall call a special election to choose his successor. The special election, under constitutional provisions, shall be held not less than 30 days nor more than 75 days after issuance of the election proclamation.

STATE BALANCE DECREASES

HARRISBURG, March 4.—(AP.)—The State Treasury balance dropped more than $3,500,000 during February to $73,727,120 at the close of business February 28.

In the year since the end of February, 1929, however, the monthly report of the treasury revealed, the balance in all funds advanced nearly $8,000,000 or from $65,824,917. The balance in the general fund at the end of last month, $29,251,068, was approximately the same as a year ago but the motor fund jumped from $26,469,115 last year to $37,703,636 from increased fees for motor truck and bus registration and operators' licenses.

During last month receipts totaled $18,259,719 and $21,907,614 was expended. Aside from the two major funds, the only one with more than a $1,000,000 balance was the sinking fund with $1,736,889.

John McCormack's Daughter Improves

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—Accompanied by her father, John McCormack, Irish tenor, Miss Gwendolyn McCormack yesterday left the Harbor Sanitarium, where she underwent an operation for appendicitis two weeks ago. Miss McCormack will remain at the home of her parents, 11 Park avenue, until March 11, when the family plans to sail for Europe.

PEPPER POT
A Man's Soup

There's a substance, a body to Campbell's Pepper Pot that hits the spot exactly with men. Its rich, appetizing savor, hearty with luscious goodness, makes you hungry just to look at it. What a soup it is to set before hungry men! A rich, smooth, heavy stock, substantial and satisfying, hearty with diced potatoes, carrots and wholesome macaroni dumplings. And seasoned to a man's taste with savory thyme, marjoram, fresh parsley, sweet pimientos and freshly-grown black peppercorns. No other soup is like it. Enjoy it as Campbell's make it from an early Colonial recipe.

No. 1 This is the first of a series of paragraphs by widely known University Professors giving their individual opinions of the chain store institution. Out of 45 professors asked for their opinion of the chain store, 43 of them replied that they thought the chain store was a decided benefit to the public. Better than any other group of people, these men know the facts upon which the chain store system is based.

Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, Professor of Marketing, Columbia University:

"In my opinion the chain store system is a benefit to the American public, and it is improbable it will become a dangerous monopoly. That represents my opinion as to the long range effect of chains. There are many immediate problems requiring solution, but I am hopeful that more or less satisfactory solutions will be found. Even independent retailers who are hardest hit will probably be benefited in this long view."

CALL MIX, VIDOR IN TAX FRAUDS

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—(AP.)—Tom Mix, cowboy actor, and King Vidor, director, were under orders to join the parade of motion picture celebrities in Federal Court to answer charges of falsifying their income tax returns.

Four film players yesterday pleaded guilty to charges lodged against them by a federal grand jury and paid fines in addition to making good the deficiencies and paying penalties double the amounts involved. Those who pleaded yesterday were Eleanor Boardman, Hallam Cooley Burr, Raymond McKee and Malcolm McGregor. Corinne Griffith, screen star, previously had pleaded guilty and paid her fine.

Two tax counsellors, J. Marjorie Berger and Edward H. Hayden, were indicted on conspiracy charges and are now serving sentences.

Miss Griffith's fine was $1,000, and the back taxes and penalties she paid brought her account to $25,000. Miss Boardman was fined $2,000 and paid back taxes and penalties totaling $15,000. The three actors were fined $500 each.

Mix is accused of having failed to pay during 1925, 1926 and 1927 approximately $50,000 due the government.

Other prominent motion picture individuals named by the grand jury include Dorothy Mackaill, William Haines, Rod La Rocque, Raymond Griffith and Dorothy Sebastian.

Actress Daughter Of Rail President

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—Elizabeth Upthegrove, who has a part in the play, "The Infinite Shoeblack," now playing on Broadway, was revealed today as the daughter of Daniel Upthegrove, president of the St. Louis and Southwestern Railway. A graduate of Vassar in 1927, Miss Upthegrove studied dramatics in London, where she met the daughter of the play's author, Norman MacOwan.

'OTHER WOMAN' SHOT BY GIRL

ALAMO, Ga., March 4.—(AP.)—Miss Grace McDaniels, 26, of Chauncey, Ga., was in a serious condition in a hospital today suffering from a pistol shot fired by Miss Marion Bullard, 18, high school senior, who was said by authorities to have declared the wounded woman "took my father away from me."

"You'll never get another opportunity to wreck another home," the officers quoted her as saying after the shooting last night.

Miss Bullard's father and mother have been separated for more than a year. A divorce suit is pending.

The shooting occurred at a filling station operated by P. I. Bullard, the girl's father, who stood within a few feet of Miss McDaniel at the time she was shot. The sheriff allowed Miss Bullard to go home without placing charges against her.

PESTS IN SOIL, P. R. R. FINED

TRENTON, N. J., March 4.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company was fined $1,400 today in the United States District Court on charges of transporting seven carloads of "soil dirt" without the proper certification they did not contain infection from the Asiatic and Japanese beetles.

The dirt was shipped recently from the site of the old Edison laboratories, Menlo Park, to the Henry Ford plant in Detroit, in connection with the Fiftieth anniversary of the invention by Thomas A. Edison of the incandescent lamp.

R. W. Sherman, federal agent of the United States Department of Agriculture, charged that many larvae and grubs of the pests were discovered in the soil, and that the case was one of the "most serious" ever brought to the attention of the Camden, N. J., office.

W. Holt Apgar, counsel for the railroad, pleaded guilty on 14 counts and asked the court to impose a minimum sentence of $100 on each count.

Child Asks Flag Flying Over Capitol

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Betty Pyle Delmet, 10-year-old school girl of Waxefield, Mich., wants a flag "that has been hanging over the capital" to present to her school on her eleventh birthday on March 19.

Police Chief Pratt received a communication to that effect from the young lady. He turned it over to David Lynn, the architect at the capitol.

Hundreds of Thousands Of Wise Americans Demand Kruschen Salts

Keeps you in good health all the time—skin clear and body free from fat.

Just think of it: these new, better and different salts were only introduced into America a few months ago—yet a host of intelligent Americans are healthier and happier because of their supreme goodness.

Kruschen Salts are the daily health dose of millions of people the world over—they are the largest selling medicinal salts in Great Britain.

One-half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning gently but surely stimulates the liver, bowels and kidneys to healthy elimination.

But the six vitalizing and rejuvenating salts in Kruschen do more than cause regular elimination—the man or woman who takes them regularly need have no fear of poisons polluting the system, which is the cause of many annoying and depressing ills.

One bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) costs but 85c and one bottle will prove of vast benefit to people who have constipation, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism, depression, acidity and auto-intoxication.

Not only that, but one bottle will bring about body activity—increase in energy, vigor and ambition, sparkling eyes and freedom from pimples and blemishes—millions know all this—you ought to know it.

ALL YOU CENSUS TAKERS . .

ATTENTION!

It's going to make a whale of a difference whether your fountain pen is for you or against you. It's the point that counts, for a point that precisely suits your hand will tire you less, work more smoothly and accurately.

So go to the nearest dealer and ask for Waterman's No. 7. Try each one of the seven readily identified famous points (97% of all pen users find that one of these points exactly suits their own hand) and find the one that belongs to you. Then remember that all Waterman's pens are famous for their sturdy, dependable mechanism—the special spoon feed that makes the ink flow so easily—and you can be confident you'll have a pen that, under all conditions, will behave like a gentleman. $7.00.

The new Patrician at $10.00—a new model, styled decidedly for 1930. Choice of five lovely jewel colors—Emerald, Turquoise, Jet, Nacre and Onyx. As beautifully crafted as a fine watch . . . An unusually distinctive gift.

Waterman's No. 5 at $5.00—Five points for choice—ranging from fine to stub. An unusually good pen for a moderate price—built to meet Waterman's standard of fine craftsmanship—always dependable.

Good dealers everywhere carry wide stocks of Waterman's famous fountain pens, mechanical pencils, and Waterman's inks which make any fountain pen write better. Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defects. Service stations are maintained at the addresses below for the purpose of making good our guarantee and for servicing our pens as required.

IT'S New . . .

IT'S BY WESTINGHOUSE

IT'S THE First REFRIGERATOR TO HAVE ALL 3 OF THESE REFINEMENTS . .

The Result of Remarkable Engineering Improvement

Everything you ever sought, or hoped some day to find, in a refrigerator has been built into the new Westinghouse. It took 12 years to perfect this machine. Twelve years of research. Twelve years of experimentation. But now it is here . . . realized . . . ready for you. It is the one refrigerator on the market today that has all 3 of the refinements that every woman demands . . . Buffet-Top . . . Broom-High Legs . . . Temperature-Selector.

Cased in a cabinet of unusually compelling beauty . . . lustrous with its porcelain or lacquer-on-steel finish . . . it looks the part it was created to play in the modern home—that of a charming and thoroughly efficient aid to modern living.

Every woman who has examined it has given it her instant approval, and been delighted with its convenience. She sees in the low, flat Buffet-Top . . . and so will you . . . that ever-so-necessary resting place for the dishes that are being taken out or put away. And in the Broom-High Legs a facility she likes in cleaning.

These refinements, and that of the robust, electrically sensitive Temperature-Selector, which permits the use of 7 freezing speeds, are all due to the freezing mechanism that Westinghouse has tucked away over the space where food is kept.

The unit itself is smaller and lighter than anything that has gone before . . . requires less current . . . freezes much faster. It is hermetically sealed—motor, pump and oil supply—within a dust-proof and air-tight shell that makes "whisper" operation possible.

In our downtown store all models of the new Westinghouse are on display . . . for demonstration. See them. Look them over from top to toe . . . before you buy a refrigerator.

NEW CRUISER TAKES WATER

BREMERTON, Wash., March 4.—(AP.)—The Navy's new $10,000,000 cruiser Louisville, under construction at the Puget Sound Navy Yard here, was floated yesterday for the first time, although it will not be formally launched until next August.

Its sea valves and hull carefully inspected, the Louisville was floated in dry dock and towed to a pier nearby where the crane ship Kearsage was to hoist the gun turrets in place.

The Louisville is the first to be floated of five cruisers authorized by Congress three years ago. It is the first American Navy cruiser to be constructed in a dry dock instead of on ways, and the first ship of its type to be built at the navy yard here. The keel was laid July 4, 1928.

MALE MURDER JURIES RETIRE

Two all-male juries, a rarity since the advent of women jurors, today weighed the fate of two defendants charged with murder.

The first jury retired to deliberate the fate of John C. Cook, 25, Negro, after Cook had taken the stand in his own defense and testified that he had shot Columbus Benjamin, 54, Negro, when Benjamin atacked him with a knife during a quarrel over a 25-cent debt. The killing occurred in a labor boarding house at 1723 Liberty avenue.

The second jury is weighing the evidence against Ned Branch, 30, Negro, of Willow way, Braddock, charged with slaying Roy Kelley, 20, Negro, of Braddock, in a quarrel over a woman.

Crippled Freighter Is Believed Safe

SEATTLE, March 4.—(AP.)—The freighter Bellingham was believed not to be in danger today after two nearby ships had steamed to her aid in answer to distress signals. Radio messages were received here yesterday saying the Bellingham was listing badly after a gale off the southwestern end of Alaska Peninsula caused her cargo to shift and disabled her rudder. No further word led officials of the Tacoma-Oriental Steamship Company, owners of the vessel, to believe today that the 38 men aboard were in no danger.

Stage Stars Stand For Baby of Actress

LONDON, March 4.(AP.)—The baby daughter of Gladys Cooper, actress (Lady Pearson) has personages of the theatrical world as sponsors. Her godfathers are Sir James M. Barrie and Sir Gerald Du Maurier; Countess Howe and Maxine Elliott are godmothers.

8 CITY HEALTH JOBS CREATED

Dr. C. B. Maits, director of the city health department, today announced the creation of eight new positions in the department.

The most important job, that of assistant superintendent and chief chemist of the food bureau, went to Lester Patton, of the Twenty-sixth ward. Patton, former chemist in the bureau, was given a salary increase from $2,700 to $3,600 a year.

Other appointees included: H. B. Podd, Thirteenth ward, named chemist at $3,000 a year; Dr. Thomas Moore and Dr. William McFarland, both associated with the health department for years, named supervisors in the child welfare bureau; James McKee, Jr., of the Fourth ward, and R. C. Grindle, of the Thirteenth ward, named plumbing inspectors, and Henry W. Cook and Edward L. Workmaster, both of the Thirteenth ward, named food inspectors.

City Solicitor Charles Waldschmidt today appointed Attorney Loran L. Lewis, of 631 Sherwood avenue, as investigator in the law department at a salary of $1,920 a year to succeed Attorney Philip R. Friedman, of 5877 Forbes Terrace, resigned.

Lovely hair!

Modern hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. It is just as important to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.

Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair.

Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair; makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine; makes it easy to manage; holds it in place.

The constant use of Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year!

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c

Gets Complete Relief From Terrible Gas Pains That Cut Like a Knife

Are Your Symptoms Like Hers?

HERE is the story of a woman that every sufferer of stomach troubles ought to make it a point to read. A victim of terrible agony for 10 years she tells about the simple treatment that ended all her troubles in just a short time.

Like many local women, Mrs. Mary Ogle is so grateful for her release from a life of pain she wants everyone to be helped and so tells her story: "I have always said and always will say that Tanlac saved my life. Few people have suffered as I have with stomach troubles in the last 10 years. The gas nearly kills me. I would be deathly sick and in bed sometimes for weeks at a time. My stomach was sore all the time, the gas would form and collect right in the side and cut like a knife, I had to call in doctors. They said gall stones and gall bladder. Sour stomach and gases almost choked me to death and bothered my heart. Meat and potatoes were forbidden. I spent lots of money but my suffering increased instead of getting better. Certainly a harder task could not have been found for Tanlac, yet this medicine has succeeded and as I said, saved my life. My stomach troubles have yielded, I have a good digestion and best of all is relief from gases. I eat everything and gained so much in strength that I look like a different person. In best health in 10 years, that expresses it and tells the story of what Tanlac has done for me." Just the first dose or two of Tanlac will bring relief that will amaze you. Tanlac is a real medicine based on modern medical science. Like everything good it has its weak and ineffective imitators. So do not accept a substitute. Tanlac must help you or money back. Veteran Helped By Bonus Now Aids Buddies

DES MOINES, March 4.—(AP.)—Because "there are a lot of crippled veterans who need help," George MacDonald, who benefited by the soldiers' bonus a few years ago, sent a check for the bonus, plus interest, to State Treasurer R. E. Johnson.

MacDonald directed that the money, amounting to $450, be added to the disability fund established in connection with the bonus department.

"I needed it when I got it, and it helped me a whole lot; so I am passing it on to help others."

MacDonald, now in the building business in Pittsburgh, enlisted in the navy at Sioux City in 1917.

The local city directory does not contain the name of George MacDonald in the building industry.

MEXICAN LABOR FETES MORONES

VERA CRUZ, March 4.—(AP.)—Luis N. Morones, minister of labor in the cabinet of President Calles until he was ousted in the turmoil following Gen. Orbregon's assassination, arrived here Monday from Europe and was given a reception by friends in the C. R. O. M., a leading Mexican labor organization.

He declared that he was completely removed from politics and that he knew nothing new of Communistic theory or practice since in his trip he did not go to Russia but remained in Poland.

Schumann-Heink's Son Guilty in Theft

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 4.—(AP.)—Henry Schumann-Heink, son of the famous contralto, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, was found guilty yesterday of theft of $2,300 in securities from an investment house which bears his name. Schumann-Heink was convicted on a charge involving the posting of the company's securities as collateral on his personal note to a San Diego bank.

HUNTERS FIND 5 LOST IN WILDS

CANON CITY, Col., March 4 (AP.)—Four Denver boys and their Scout leader, lost in the wild country of Webster Park, south of Royal Gorge, for nearly 24 hours, were found by members of a searching party late yesterday.

The four boys in the party, Gene Ater, Francis Hines, Joe Verlinden and George Bessler were accompanied by the Rev. Roger Hoehn, an instructor in the Abbey School of the Benedictine Fathers here. None of the party was in serious condition when found but all were suffering from fatigue and exposure.

Apprehension for the group was felt when the members failed to return to the school Sunday afternoon as scheduled. They lost their way in the unsettled Webster Park country and were forced to spend the night in the open.

They started to resume their tramp in an attempt to get their bearings, but Ater and Bessler were in such a state of exhaustion that they could not go on. Father Hoehn remained with the two while Hines and Verlinden started back in the general direction of Canon City.

They were met by members of the searching party.

97-Year-Old Negro, Born As Slave, Dies

TITUSVILLE, Pa., March 4.—One of Titusville's most picturesque characters—David Ross, 97-year-old Negro, born in slavery—is dead.

For many years he was employed at the Mansion House, though of recent years because of his age he was a pensioner. "Uncle David," as he was called, was known to hundreds of traveling men throughout northwestern Pennsylvania.

Born in the south, he came north while a young man, settling at Warren, Pa.

Protest Half Million Willed at Charities

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 4.—Suit to set aside the will of Mrs. Ella Thompson, Bainbridge, by which nearly $500,000 worth of property goes to charity, has been filed in Lucas County Court in Toledo, according to information received. The suit was brought by relatives. The First Presbyterian Church of St. Clairsville, is one of the institutions benefiting by Mrs. Bainbridge's will.

Wildcat Brewery Raided in Natrona

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 4.—The biggest raid of the present administration of Harrison Township, Allegheny County, police under direction of Chief Paul Engleman, seized a "wild cat" brewery on North Canal street, Natrona. William Kuhnert, alleged owner, was released under $1,000 bond for a hearing.

Defunct Ohio Bank Expects Dividend

WOODSFIELD, O., March 4.—Another dividend is expected this year for depositors of the defunct First National Bank of Lewisville, according to W. J. Kelley, the receiver. The bank has paid 50 per cent. The First National of Lewisville closed more than a year ago. Its suspension was due to investment in Florida bonds.

Seek Sneak Thief Robbing Gas Till

SHARON, Pa., March 4.—State police are looking for a young man, driving a small roadster, who walked into the Zero gas station, took $135 out of the cash register and drove away. Elmer Hassell, attendant, was working on the grease rack at the side of the station and did not see the robber.

THOUSANDS of MEN and WOMEN are taking the FOOT TEST CAN YOU PASS?

This is the natural shape of the normal foot. Is your foot like it?

HERE IS THE TEST, TRY IT . . .

Put your foot over this imprint, pressing down firmly, then draw a line around it. Better still, wet the bare foot slightly, step on thin paper and trace the outline before the imprint dries.

Compare the outline of your foot with this imprint of a normal foot. If there is a noticeable difference—take warning—you may be heading for serious foot trouble. You need a Grippergraph analysis made at once.

SUFFERING FROM ACHING FEET?

if your feet are "making life miserable" . . .

if you are just hobbling along on fallen arches . . .

if cramped, misshapen toes make you wince with pain . . .

if tender callouses and bunions bring slow torture . . .

if every night your feet ache from weariness . . .

DON'T SUFFER ANOTHER MOMENT · GROUND GRIPPER SHOES BRING RELIEF

This is all you need do. Come in today for a free Grippergraph analysis of your feet. It will only take a few minutes.

There is no guess work about this. The analysis will show what is wrong and will enable us to fit you with the proper type of Ground Gripper Shoe to help correct the trouble.

Ground Gripper Shoes follow the natural shape of the normal foot and are scientifically designed to correct and to prevent foot trouble.

They have helped thousands of foot sufferers, and they'll help you, too.

The Flexible Arch is the correct principle for health shoes.

3 VITAL PRINCIPLES

—combined only in Ground Gripper Shoes—that quickly end foot suffering

1. The long Strong Flexible Arch, which allows the foot muscles to exercise and strengthen themselves with every step.
2. The Straight Inner Line, permitting the toes to function with a free, strong, gripping action.
3. The Patented Rotor Heel, which keeps you toe straight ahead, the normal, natural way.

SUNDAY SHOWS GET JURY O. K.

WELLSBURG, W. Va., March 4.—(AP.)—The Brooke County grand jury refused to indict Okey Floyd and Glen Floyd, proprietors of the Rex theater at Follansbee, which has been operated on Sundays. The two were arrested on charges of violating the Sunday labor laws.

WESTON, W. Va., March 4.—(AP.)—Judge Brik S. Stathers called upon the Lewis County grand jury here to indict persons "encroaching upon the Sabbath" by operating theaters on Sunday. Sunday motion pictures were shown in Weston for the first time Sunday.

Judge Stathers, speaking more than an hour upon the subject, said the automobile now was as necessary as the street car and the railroad, but that operation of theaters, confectionery stores, cigar stores and filling stations violated the Sunday labor law.

Weston ministers appointed a committee to attend the Sunday shows and ascertain who sold the tickets.

'Jag' Week Revival Planned at W. & J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 4.—Plans are underway in Washington and Jefferson College to revive "Jag" week, long an annual event for members of the Junior class. Philip G. Hamilton, of Beaver, president of the class, has named the following committee to take charge of the festivities: Chairman, Robert J. Grier, Pittsburgh; James H. Brown, Bellevue, and J. Robert Autenreith, of New Brighton.

The Junior hat committee is headed by Dunning H. Horn, of Washington; D. Bingham Warrick, of Pittsburgh and Peter Luongo, of Washington.

STATE DETOUR AT CARNEGIE

HARRISBURG, March 4.—(AP.)—It may be cold but spring is actually on the way.

For those who doubt it, the news that the first detours of the season are to be placed next week by the State Highway Department should prove encouraging. Establishment of three relief roads, two in Lancaster County and another in Allegheny, to permit start of road construction on main highways, has been announced.

One of the detours will be placed to divert traffic from the Lincoln highway, between Lancaster and Gap and will follow the old Philadelphia pike. The other in Lancaster County is between Lancaster and Lititz by way of Fruitville pike. The third is on U. S. Route 19, between Bridgeville and Carnegie.

All three relief roads are improved, relieving motorists of that other reminder of spring when it actually arrives, mud.

Bandits Greeted With Shotgun After Tip-Off

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 4.—An attempted holdup of the H. B. Foringer store, was foiled when Foringer greeted two masked bandits with a shotgun as they walked in the door of his shop. The two fled, escaping in a car which they had stolen earlier in the evening and which was later recovered. A resident of the section noticed the pair donning masks outside the Foringer store. He notified Foringer by telephone and the latter was ready when the two thugs summoned courage to brace the job.

Sharon Fugitive Held On Assault Charge

SHARON, Pa., March 4.—Arrested in Trafford City, Thomas Welsch, Jr., has been held for court on charges of aggrevated assault and battery on Ed Daley, local garageman, and breaking and entering a garage. He fled this section last June.

Had Very Bad Case of Eczema. Itching Terrible. Cuticura Healed.

"Forty-one years ago I had some pimples come on one side of my groin. They developed into a very bad case of eczema and spread to both sides and on the upper part of one limb. The itching was something terrible, and in my sleep I used to scratch.

"About seven months ago I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and three cakes of Cuticura Soap which completely healed me." (Signed) G. W. Tarbell, De Witt, N. Y., July 19, 1929.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

HELD AS KILLER FOR $65 FEE

ANTHONY, Kan., March 4 (AP.)—Accused of killing Mrs. Ben Turner for $65, James Stratton, 24, was charged with murder today along with the woman's husband, superintendent of an ice and salt company here. Authorities said Stratton confessed he was hired by Turner and that he clubbed, choked and shot Mrs. Turner to death in her home.

Turner made no statement. He was released on $50,000 bond. Stratton, an employe of Turner, was held in jail. Stratton said he had planned to elope with a girl in Freedom, Okla.

Mrs. Della Bataley, of Wichita, told police Turner had asked her four years ago to employ a man to kill Mrs. Turner so that they might elope.

PLEA FOR COAL TARIFF FAILS

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP.)—The Senate Finance Committee today again refused to indorse the existing retaliatory provisions of the tariff law under which the United States levies duties on coal against countries taxing American coal.

The Senate already has voted to eliminate the retaliatory section, but protests from railroad and mining interests led the committee to reopen the question.

One effect of the repeal would be to eliminate a duty of 50 cents a ton on Canadian coal. Canada has a similar duty on coal from this country.

C. B. PARTRIDGE

SEARS, ROEBUCK NEW HEAD HERE

C. B. Partridge has been made district manager of the Pittsburgh district of the Sears, Roebuck Company. He has been transferred from the Richmond, (Va.) retail department store to the Pittsburgh retail store in East Liberty.

In addition to managing the local store, Mr. Partridge has 13 other stores in this district under his management. These are located in Altoona, Charleston, W. Va., Huntington, Johnstown, New Castle, McKeesport, Parkersburg, Steubenville, Warren, Washington, Wheeling and Youngstown.

Madeira Landslide Claims Many Victims

FUNCHAL, Madeira, March 4 (AP.)—Several persons were killed and many injured in a terrific landslide here. Tons of rock crashing into the sea from the towering cliffs at Cape Giram. The displacement of water was so great that huge waves washed over the rocks bordering the sea shore at Cama de Lobos.

4 DEAD, 72 HURT IN BOMBNG

PIROT, Jugoslavia, March 4 (INS.)—Four persons were killed and scores injured, many of them severely, when two men suspected of being Comitadjis bombed a hotel here today.

The hotel was the national headquarters of the Jugoslav-Bulgarian frontier commission.

The four victims were killed instantly. The blast wrecked the hotel. Twenty-two of the injured are in a grave condition. At least 50 were slightly hurt.

The comitadjis are roving bands of marauders operating along the border between Jugoslavia and Bulgaria. They have been the cause of serious international disputes in the past through their guerilla warfare.

The Frontier Commission has been engaged in settling border controversies arising out of attacks by the comitadjis.

Admits Attempt To Derail Freight

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 4—Bud Brown, of Congress hill, apprehended by New York Central Railroad detectives for attempted train wrecking, entered a plea of guilty when arraigned. He admitted that ties and pit posts were placed on tracks near Franklin with a view of witnessing a derailment. A lunacy commission will examine the man.

A freight struck one group of posts, but no damage resulted.

Princess Helps Foreign Girl, Flier to Wed

TURIN, Italy, March 4—Thanks to Crown Princess Marie Jose an Italian army aviator and his Swedish fiancee are happy. Royal consent must be obtained for the marriage of a military aviator to a foreigner.

The girl wrote the princess: "You came from another country and yet you were able to marry your fiance three days after you arrived. I have been in Italy more than a year and I am not able to marry the man I love."

Three days later the officer was granted permission to wed.

Two Men Sue Aimee For $148,320 Total

LOS ANGELES, March 4—(INS.)—Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, was confronted with more legal difficulties today with two damage suits filed against her.

Because, he charges, Mrs. McPherson failed to complete a contract to establish a "four-square gospel" mountain camp in the San Bernardino Mountains, Carl Brunner, of San Bernardino, filed suit for $143,320. Harold M. Stimpson asserted he wrote a one-reel scenario in which the evangelist was to perform, but that she changed her mind and declined to pay for his work. He asks $5,000.

HYDE HOLDS UP NYE GRAIN QUIZ

WASHINGTON, March 4—(AP.)—At the request of Secretary Hyde, the Senate Agriculture Committee today deferred action on a resolution by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, calling for investigation of Federal Farm Board activities.

Chairman McNary said Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge of the board probably would be questioned before the committee acted.

The resolution proposes inquiry "whether the Federal Farm Board has been fairly interpreting the agricultural marketing act and carrying out its purposes" and "whether the so-called grain trade of America has conspired to destroy the effectiveness of the act, and to embarrass the farm board."

McNary declared that the committee unanimously concurred in the suggestion of Secretary Hyde that action be deferred "in view of the delicate situation throughout the world."

Rear Admiral Jones Better, Nears Home

NEW YORK, March 4—(INS.)—Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, who was stricken ill while attending the London arms conference, was scheduled to arrive here today from London. He was said to have been benefited by the sea voyage.

SUDDEN FLOOD TRAPS 600

TOULOUSE, France, Mar. 4.—(AP.)—With the swirling waters of the swollen Agout River surging about them, 600 workmen, imprisoned in a flooded spaghetti factory at Villemur today awaited rescue.

The town itself was like a semi-submerged island in the center of a lake covering an area of 60 square miles or more. Many old houses collapsed with the sudden rising of the river yesterday, and dozens of dogs, caught by the flood, could be seen swimming. Much livestock was destroyed.

The torrent carried all sorts of debris toward the Garonne, which also was flooded and was believed to have taken more than a score of lives as it devastated the region north and east of Toulouse.

Take Herbal Flaxolyn If You Want That Natural Glow of Health

Says Pittsburgh Doctor

Run-down, constipated folks who find things are not going right should try taking the natural Flaxolyn for a short time and see how quickly their condition improves.

Dr. H. V. WALLS, M. D. & D. D. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

There are four things which science says you must have to be normally strong, well and fully developed. These four things are keen appetite, healthy digestion, restful sleep and regular bowel action.

If you are weak, flabby, pale, easily exhausted or feel lacking in ambition and thinking power and want that energy and pep which win business and social success, you are no doubt deficient in one or more of the above functions. You should try the pleasant Flaxolyn combination of herbs at once.

How Flaxolyn Brings Good Health

The fact that in Los Angeles and Hollywood, Cal., in Tampa and Miami, Florida, and other cities where fashion, social and financial leaders gather, in Battle Creek, Mich., Asheville, N. C., Lakewood, N. J., and other health resort centers, thousands upon thousands of packages of Flaxolyn have already been purchased and results praised should convince you that this remarkable discovery is worthy of an immediate trial.

The herbs, roots and barks in Flaxolyn are so prepared that they mix with the fluids of the stomach and intestines where some of them are absorbed into the blood and organs, while others pass into the colon. The herbs in Flaxolyn which act upon the colon are quite unlike the ordinary laxative which "dynamites" the clogged waste matter out of the bowels. Flaxolyn, however, "peps up" the action in the ascending, transverse and descending colon, bringing about normal bowel movement.

Stops "Stomach Gas"

When Flaxolyn acts, the formation of dangerous fermentative GASES in the intestines STOPS! The digestive process can work properly again and the body can perform its normal functions with ease. Sleep comes quickly—strength and vigor follow naturally.

Why not try this herbal discovery which doctors from every corner of the land publicly indorse? Enjoy a rapid gain in health. Get that ruddy complexion and reserve energy, which nature's herbs can bring. Just take Herbal Flaxolyn for a short time and watch the truly amazing results.

MONEY-BACK GUARANTEE It is absolutely guaranteed in writing that Flaxolyn will help cases of general exhaustion, biliousness, sleeplessness, headaches, backaches, dizzy spells, due to constipation gases—or Druggists refund the purchase price.

Every reader of this paper who would like to feel better, eat better, sleep better and look better, can obtain a bottle of the wonderful new vitaminized herbal Flaxolyn on this liberal offer. That if Flaxolyn does not bring satisfactory results by the sixth spoonful, you may bring back the partly used bottle and have the full purchase price refunded!

Flaxolyn contains nothing that can hurt you, and it may prove to be the means of bringing joy to your existence.

Don't wait. Start taking Flaxolyn. You will feel the tonic change at once. You will enjoy renewed vigor, and new and better grip on life.

Flaxolyn may be obtained at all leading druggists. If your druggist does not carry it in stock yet, have him order it for you at once.

MAY DRUG CO. STORES — All over Greater Pittsburgh can supply you with Flaxolyn.

BROPHY PREDICTS NEW MINERS' UNION

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

IT IS pleasant news that Marc Connelly, a local boy who made good in the city, has authored the latest hit on Broadway. It is extra pleasant to those who have been disappointed and puzzled by his failures since he and George S. Kaufmann went their separate ways.

The Kaufmann-Connelly team was an unusual one. Connelly was born in McKeesport 39 years ago, worked on the Pittsburgh newspapers and first dabbled in the theater in McKeesport, where he recited pretty pieces in the Elks' Lodge. He came by his fondness for the theater naturally, for his father, P. J. Connelly, who later conducted the White Hotel in McKeesport, was once the company manager of Richard Mansfield, and his mother, Mary Cook Connelly, was a character actress of note.

Connelly's first attempt to supply entertainment for theater audiences wih his pen was about 1915, when he wrote the lyrics for a musical show produced by the Pittsburgh Athletic Association in the Alvin. The production was a surprising success. Connelly then turned to writing for the magazines and succeeded in selling verse, sketches and humorous paragraphs to Life and Everybody's Magazine.

Encouraged, he went to New York in 1917. The next few years were dark ones. The young man even tried his hand at acting, but the one play in which he had a small part was a decided flop. Connelly was thinking of the comforts of Pittsburgh and McKeesport when he met another Pittsburgh newspaperman, George Kaufmann.

Kaufmann's experiences had been much the same as Connelly's. He had departed Pittsburgh to try the big city. His luck had been fair.

The two, strangers to each other until they met in New York, realized success from the start. They wrote for the stage "Dulcy," "Beggar on Horseback," "To the Ladies," and a dramatization of Harry Leon Wilson's "Merton of the Movies."

THEY prospered in their remarkable, story-like success. And in 1924, each probably feeling that he was able to continue alone, they parted. It was not a personal break; simply the parting of a team of too much talent. They remained good friends, which they are today.

However, with the split Connelly fared poorly. He wrote "The Wisdom Tooth," which the critics liked, but the audience didn't. His next play, "The Wild Man From Borneo," met the same reception, although it will be remembered by historians because a young man who is now a Pittsburgh reporter, Frank Butler, played a part ("Dinner is served, sir").

Kaufmann meanwhile went ahead. He collaborated with Edna Ferber on a smashing hit, "The Royal Family;" he wrote a book or two for the Marx Brothers; his direction assured success for "The Front Page," and he had one or two other successes. So critical a commentator as St. John Ervine hailed him as one of the greatest in the theater's history.

For the last two years Connelly has been silent but active. He was spending his time on "Green Pastures," a play suggested by Roark Bradford's "Ol' Man Adam an' His Chillun," a play with a Negro cast which supplies a fantastic interpretation of the Bible as seen by the Negro. In their praise of the play the critics have called upon all the adjectives. And probably none is more pleased with Connelly's success than his former partner.

"CHICKIE" BY ELENORE MEHERIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Chickie Bryce is attending business college when the story opens. She confides her romantic thoughts to her friend, Mary Blake. She gets a position in an office in New York. One of her co-workers there is Janina Knowles. Through Janina she meets Jake Munson, rich and attractive bachelor. Mary suddenly marries a poor young chemist, much to Chickie's regret. Jimmy Blake, Mary's brother, begs Chickie to marry him, but without success. Chickie meets Barry Dunne at a party given by Munson. Barry drives her home. Barry calls, takes her motoring, tells her she's beautiful and kisses her. Munson, who has been greatly attracted by Chickie, insists on taking her to dinner. She goes out often with Barry and the depth of her feeling for him frightens her. Munson makes her a present of a barpin of sapphires. Chickie tries to return the pin but Jake persuades her to keep it. Later Jake gives her a police dog and invites her to go on a yachting cruise. Barry talks so bitterly of her going that she writes to Jake declining the invitation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIV.

"CHICKIE, are you going to throw me down like this?"

"I never took you up, so I don't see how I'm throwing you down."

"You let me think you were coming."

"No—I didn't. You wanted to think that. I'm sorry. I don't see what I can do. It's just as I wrote you." She kept her face averted, her cheeks burning. Jake looked at her a long while in silence.

He said quietly: "You've let me in for a ghastly two weeks of it, Chickie. I can't call it off now. I've asked everybody—arranged it all. I've got to go." He slumped down in the automobile, letting his arm rest behind her.

They were parked among the trees near the silvery lake. The water was a black, gleaming mirror—a still, mysterious chalice that caught the gay little stars, the leaves and the yellow moon, swaying them in a deep, rhythmic hush.

"We would have nights like this, Chickie—nights so beautiful you'd begin to hear that grand old wind you're waiting for. Are you going to let it pass? Going to send me off alone, Chickie?"

"Perhaps you think it's easy for me to refuse pleasures like this, Mr. Munson?"

"Jake—if you please—I thank you for putting it in the note. Do you mean you want to go? You'd really like the fun of it?"

A Kiss

Chickie Does Not Refuse When Jake Begs

"Well—you ask yourself that—Jake, then. I've never had a chance like this before. Of course I wanted to go."

"Then why, Chickie? Why? You want these things. I want to give them to you."

"No—I can't. I explained."

"Yes—you explained, Jennie, indeed. Do you think I'm a boy, Chickie, dear, to swallow your pretty Jennie stuff? I'd like to know what happened to set you thinking. And you come back and throw me down."

She gave no answer. His hand covered hers. "Will you say 'Yes' now and come, Chickie?"

She shook her head, watched the still trees, mirrored in the lake. His eyes, speculative, intent, dwelt on the chaste sweetness of her profile.

"Chickie, I won't see you for two weeks, maybe much longer. You're sending me away. Kiss me before I go?"

She drew a long, hard breath trembling.

"Will that hurt you? Oh, it won't. Please." His arm drew tight about her shoulder. "Chickie, dear—give me just one. I've waited for this—months—a year. Give me something for company—two lonely weeks—you can do that little thing—"

She raised her face. He caught her in his arms, quick, exultant—pressed his lips with a long, slow tenderness on hers.

Janina Curious

Asks if She Caused Chickie To Miss Cruise

He let her go; sat with his hands on the wheel, his face white and quiet as a piece of chalk. She felt spent as though his lips closed on her heart, draining it of life.

Presently the red came back to his mouth. He pressed his palm against both her hands. "I don't know what it is you're doing to me, Helena Bryce. But it was never done before."

She felt shaken in every nerve; she felt white and still.

The day the yacht sailed she had a sad, mournful feeling of aloneness. Janina watched her all morning, dropping her eyes almost abashed when Chickie met them. At lunch she said with a touch of eager humility: "What a shock to see you walk into the office this day of days. I can't survive it, Chickie, did anything I said keep you from going?"

"Oh, flatter yourself, ole thing! You took an awful lot for granted."

"Be a sport, Chickie—answer me this: Did you tell Jake I frightened you into staying away?"

Chickie gave a derisive laugh; saw the passionate eagerness like a visible pain on Janina's face. "No, I didn't mention your name, Janina, dear. And nothing you said made a particle of difference."

Relieved

Janina Unwraps Moldy Papers From Life

In her relief, Janina sat back with a sigh. Her hard, brilliant eyes appraised Chickie, musing: "What you're saying, girl, may be worth a lot. I have my doubts. What you lose in keeping it is more than worth its price."

Chickie said coldly: "Why are you so crude, Janina? Do you just like to say things to shock?"

"I'm not crude, Chickie—I'm truthful. I've only taken off some of the moldy papers they have wrapped about Life, and what I've found inside is a whole lot cleaner and sweeter than the contemptible hypocrisy that hides it! Take that or leave it!"

"If everyone did that, Janina, things would be rather terrible."

"Yes—they handed that bunk to our grandmothers! Made them run along the chalk line. But we're on the broad road now. Is it going to hurt us any more than it hurt men?"

"All girls don't believe as you do by a long shot!"

Janina smiled. "Thirty per cent of the marriageable females, my dear, are without mates. Are they living in monasteries? They are not! Are they going to perdition 60 miles an hour? I'd like to bet they aren't! All in the course of evolution, my dear. Takes a little while after you discover you have feet before you learn to walk easily. Same with us. Minds leap into the future, instincts rooted in the past. Have to fight for harmony. We'll get there—some of us—"

She broke off abruptly, nudged Chickie: "Here comes Bess Abbot—something doing?"

A thin, graceful girl, with a languid air, dreamy black eyes and hair bobbed, caught Janina's glance. She sauntered over delicately, dropped into a chair letting a gold vanity and a cigaret case clatter on the table. "Hello, Janka, love," she said with a long breath. "Why is

KATZ EN ROUTE TO ATLANTA

Sam Katz, of McKeesport, convicted in the McKeesport rum conspiracy trial in Federal Court, and seven other government prisoners, left this morning for the Atlanta penitentiary to serve terms imposed in the Federal District Court. The prisoners were in charge of United States Marshal J. C. McGregor, Deputy Marshal D. A. Goldman and guards.

Katz is to serve 18 months. The others, together with the offenses on which they were sentenced and the terms follow: Maurice E. Stromer, narcotic, one year; Leroy Mackey, motor theft, one year; Howard C. Thompson, motor theft, one year; Charles Brown, motor theft, 18 months; Anthony LaMarr, narcotic, 18 months; John Welsh, narcotic, one year; and Isaac Abraham Ashab, naturalization, one year.

Another prisoner, John Roman, will be turned over to the Federal authorities at Knoxville, Tenn., where he was said to have broken from jail while awaiting trial on a motor theft charge. He was arrested several weeks ago in Monessen.

Saw Mill Run Blvd. Zone Change Urged

Two proposals for changes in the zoning ordinances were presented to Council yesterday, both with the approval of the Planning Commission.

One would change from "A" residence to "Light Industrial" the territory bounded by Saw Mill Run boulevard, the line between Pittsburgh and what formerly was Overbrook and the line of the West Side Belt Railroad. The other, making the same change, affects the territory bounded by Saw Mill Run boulevard, Kaiser Place Plan and the property of Landau Brothers.

St. Francis Xavier Arranges Services

Spurns $10 Bill Used to Pay City Taxes

A counterfeit $10 bill was received at the office of the City Treasurer during the tax collecting period.

This developed yesterday when Council was asked to authorize a warrant to the order of the treasurer for that amount. The case at the time was turned over to the federal authorities by the bank in which the bill was deposited.

At the treasurer's office it was reported that on a few occasions counterfeit bills have been received.

THERMOMETER UP, THAW NEAR

Snow blanketing the Pittsburgh district is due to disappear by tomorrow if the temperature continues its steady climb, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. He predicted the lowest temperature tonight would be between 25 and 30.

Indicating a rapid rise throughout the day, the thermometer mounted from 15 degrees at 6 a. m. to 20 degrees at 9 a. m.

The weather will be mostly cloudy tonight and Wednesday, Brotzman said.

Ten Ballot Boxes Ordered Returned

Ten additional ballot boxes were ordered delivered by Sheriff Robert S. Cain to District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, on the latter's petition in Common Pleas Court. Gardner is investigating alleged irregularities at the September primary last in a number of districts specified by the special recount board.

The order yesterday affects the First, Fifth, Seventh, Ninth and Tenth districts of the Second Ward, the First, Second and Twentieth districts of the Third Ward and the Eighth and Fourteenth districts of the Sixth Ward.

W. Homestead Seeks Site for Playground

Action was being taken today toward procurement of an athletic field and playground site for West Homestead, following a citizens' mass meeting in the Calhoun Junior High School, Eighth and Forest avenues, last night. Speeches favoring the movement were made by more than a dozen taxpayers of the borough.

W. B. Johnston, president of the West Homestead school board, was chairman, and S. S. Power, secretary of the board, secretary of the meeting. Johnston appointed a committee, headed by J. N. Dean, to investigate available sites.

Wife Seeks $25,000 In Husband's Death

Mrs. Mary Ketley, of Lawrenceville, asked $25,000 damages for the death of her husband, Francis Ketley, killed by a truck November 23, last, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against the Ward Baking Company. The suit alleged Ketley was struck by a truck of the company while crossing Butler street at Forty-fifth street. He left seven adult children.

Martin Continues To Gain Ground

The condition of Judge Richard W. Martin, ill of pneumonia at his home, 5807 Stanton avenue, was satisfactory to his physicians, they announced early today. He spent a restful night. Additional use of oxygen has not been found necessary since early yesterday, they said.

JURORS' PLEAS GRANTED

Jurors seeking to be excused were few yesterday in Common Pleas Court, when excuses were received by Judge James H. Gray. One juror seeking freedom for the day was told he could be excused for the two weeks duty for which he was called. He refused.

Less than a score presented excuses, all of which were granted, and more than 200 jurors are available for the two weeks of jury trials. Seldom are all excuses granted.

Four court rooms are in use for jury trials and a fifth will be added with the arrival of Judge James B. Drew, reported to be due tomorrow from a trip to Paris to visit his daughter, who was ill. Judge Gray is sitting in the assignment room in the absence of Judge Josiah Cohen.

ST. BENEDICT'S OPENS NOVENA

The annual Novena of Grace in honor of St. Francis Xavier at the St. Benedict's Church, Overhill street, was to start today, lasting until March 12. The Rev. Edward White, pastor, and the Rev. Richard Ackerman, national secretary of the Holy Childhood Association, will conduct services at 7 a. m., 12:30 p. m., 4 p. m., 8 p. m. daily.

Gas Fumes Cause Death of Sleeper

William Olds, 22, was found dead in bed in the home of his sister, at 531 North Beatty street, early today, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, according to the coroner's report.

He was found by his sister four hours after he retired. Dr. H. M. Finkelstein, of 5528 Stanton avenue, police from the East End station and attaches of the Mine Safety Appliance Company were summoned. Their efforts to revive the victim were futile. A small gas stove was found burning in the room.

3 FACTIONS STRIVE FOR CONTROL

Lewis Supporters Deny Danger of Insurrection; Two Conventions Called

Out of the ferment now stirring in the coal miners' union, with three factions—possibly four—striving for supremacy, a new union will be born, John Brophy, for 10 years president of District No. 2 of the United Mine Workers, predicted today.

The situation at present is this: The United Mine Workers, already weakened by the withdrawal or expulsion of the radical element represented by Pat Toohey, a Communist, is confronted with the prospect of another split. Toohey's followers formed an organization with the name "National Miners' Union."

SEEK LEWIS OUSTING

Brophy, in co-operation with a group of Illinois insurgents, will attempt, at a convention to be held at Springfield, Ill., on Monday, to wrest control of the United Mine Workers from John L. Lewis, international president. Lewis' supporters will hold a convention at Indianapolis the same day and are expected to expel the Illinois crowd from the union.

Where the anthracite workers stand is not known. Rinaldo Cappellini, their former leader, is now out of the United Mine Workers.

While it has been reported that Toohey would attend the Springfield convention, Brophy declared today that the National Miners' Union and the Illinois group were "as wide apart as the poles."

"There is no more connection between the Toohey crowd and our crowd," said Brophy, "than there is between the National Miners' Union and the Lewis organization."

INSURRECTION RIDICULED

Delegates from Pittsburgh to the Lewis convention at Indianapolis will include Philip Murray, international vice president; P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5; John O'Leary, international board member; William Hargest, district secretary treasurer, and delegates from seven sub-districts. This group pooh-poohed the idea that the Illinois insurrection was formidable.

"I have recently completed a check-up of the mining fields of Western and Central Pennsylvania," said Brophy in reply, "and I find that the United Mine Workers' organization has been destroyed. To maintain that there is still a union is pure fiction.

"The miners are licked and discouraged. But they still have faith in unionism, and I am confident that the present chaotic condition will not last long, but that ultimately there will be a getting together of the various elements and the formation of a new union."

Says Husband Left, Wife Asks Divorce

Mrs. Mary F. Kerr, of 314 Woodland road, Edgeworth, asked a divorce from Frankland F. Kerr, of New Brighton, in a suit in Common Pleas Court, alleging that he deserted her October 21, 1927. They were married September 3, 1924.

Hoover Aide Sees Church As Crime Solution

Through the assertion of civic righteousness and force of a united public opinion the United States can be made the most law-abiding nation in the world within a generation, Frank J. Loesch, a member of President Hoover's crime commission told 300 men and women in the University Club last night. He spoke at a dinner in his honor sponsored by the Men's Club of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

"The arousal of civic conscience in governments must come from the churches. If the church fails in this crisis we are lost," he declared.

The speaker, a leader in the Citizens' Cleanup Committee of Chicago, referred to gang warfare in that city, declaring it had reached a point where it was a question as to what force should rule—gangs or law. He criticized the police forces of many American cities.

"As a rule they are politically managed," he said. "When policemen receive appointments they do not have the education, training or background necessary to make them thier-catchers."

Lang Advises City Replace Brilliant Pumping Plant

A new pumping station to replace that at Brilliant may result from information received by Council that delay in improving the present station will be "dangerous."

This term was applied to the present situation in a report by E. J. Umstead, division superintendent, which was forwarded to Council by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

The director stated in an interview that he believes it will be advisable to construct a new electrified station near the Brilliant site, using the old one until it is completed.

Three plans have been proposed—to rebuild the present steam plant, to electrify it and to change the location entirely, building a new steam or electric plant.

In his communication to Council, Lang asked a conference with the members and the Mayor. Umstead reported that if funds are not available for a new station the present one should be electrified immediately. The collapse of another stoker, which will cost $40,000 to remedy, caused the communication but Umstead reported the expenditure inadvisable because the machinery is badly worn.

EQUAL SERVICE LAW SEEN AS PEACE AID

Would Take Profit Out of Conflict and Force All to Share Soldiers' Burdens

"The cheapest insurance this nation could have against the emergency of war is the equal conscription of man power, wealth, industries and materials in time of war."

O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of American Legion, made this statement last night at the ninth annual banquet of the Allegheny County Committee of the Legion in the William Penn Hotel. Delegations from a number of other county committees in the state attended. Other scheduled speakers were John J. Deller, state vice commander; L. McK. Crumrine, executive committeeman, and Baron Felix Von Koenig, of Edgewood, representing the Berlin Chamber of Commerce. Dr. Herbert Dewar was toastmaster.

SEES LAW AS PEACE AID

In his address on national preparedness, Captain Bodenhamer declared that the value of the proposed law which would provide for the equal service of human and material resources was more important the naval, air and land forces combined. He said:

"The service of capital and material and of man power is essential to the ultimate success of modern warfare. Not only are these three vital forces essential to a quick and successful conclusion of war, but they would, likewise, prove effective in preventing war, provided a plan for their proper use and co-ordination were made effective during the time of peace. With such a fundamental principle written into the law of our land, the first great guarantee of permanent peace will have been established.

"It is my firm conviction that a law should be written, and written now, which would draft every man, every industry, every natural resource and every manufacturing enterprise into the service of a common cause in case of another war. If you will do that, you will take the profit out of war, as nearly as it can be taken out of international conflict.

BURDEN OFF FIGHTERS

"You will take the burden off the shoulders of the men who are carry the rifles, and distribute it equally as between the citizens, whether in or out of uniform. When American capital is forced to give as freely of its dollars, as American manhood gives of its blood, and when such a principle is written into the law of the land, and made available for use, during the time of national emergencies, then, in my humble opinion, we will have a fundamentally well-prepared nation, and, at the same time, a sincere and peace-loving people."

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, county chaplain. The McKeesport Drum and Bugle Corps gave a tribute to the departed comrades. John B. Nicklas, Jr., chairman, introduced the toastmaster, while Edward Crump, Jr., Mayor Charles H. Kline and County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong gave greetings to out-of-town guests. A program of entertainment followed. The benediction was given by the Rev. S. A. Thurston.

FETE AT NEW CASTLE

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 4.—A rousing reception awaited O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, when he arrived here from Pittsburgh to attend a banquet and reception of Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, in Scottish Rite Cathedral tonight. More than 2,000 persons are expected to attend. He was to be accompanied from Pittsburgh by Michael Kane, commander of the Lawrence County Legion, and Dr. H. H. Rosenthal, commander of the New Castle post.

KLINE MACHINE IN NINTH WARD BADLY SPLIT

Noble Matthews Retires From Chairman Contest, Conley Ambitions Worry

Mayor Charles H. Kline's political machine in the Ninth Ward, home of Senator M. G. Leslie, seems to be heading for a rocky road over the election in the spring of a Republican chairman.

Noble Matthews, member of the County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes and a life-long friend of Leslie's, has declined to again run for chairman.

Louis J. Conley, who was promoted from training school instructor to deputy fire chief at the beginning of Kline's second term, is conducting an intensive campaign for chairman regardless of the wishes of Kline's ward leaders. George W. Savage, member of the City Tax Assessors' Board, and Frank T. Halloran, chief accountant in the Mayor's office.

Both Savage and Halloran have been mentioned as candidates for chairmanship, but would forego the honor, it was said, if a dark horse to insure harmony could be found.

PROPOSES NEW TRAFFIC RULES

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark yesterday recommended to Council a 60-day trial of one-way traffic east on Alexander street between Main and Neptune streets, and west on Mill from Neptune to Main.

He also urged one hour parking on South East Diamond between Federal and East Diamond and on East Diamond from South East Diamond to East Ohio streets.

An adverse report on a "stop and go" signal at Arch and West Ohio streets was received from Clark. A traffic count at that intersection, he said, had shown that the light is not so badly needed there as at other points in the city.

SECOND HOLDUP MAN SOUGHT

Sharpsburg police today were searching for an alleged accomplice of Patrick Carney, 30, of 510 Foreland street, North Side, arrested yesterday at 80 Congress street by Police Lieut. Samuel W. Fair, and Deputy Constable Frank Carricato of Sharpsburg. Carney and his comrade were said to have held up a drug store in Sharpsburg Saturday night.

Barney Newlon, proprietor of a drug store in Thirteenth and North Canal streets, Sharpsburg, was said by Lieut. Fair today to have identified Carney as one of the men who bound him with a rope after forcing him at the point of a revolver to the cellar of his establishment.

They escaped with $100 in cash and a half ounce of morphine, police were told.

Fund for Mayview Water Plant Asked

The high water pressure at the City Home and Hospital at Mayview necessitated the purchase of 46 reducing valves costing $2,525, Council being asked to authorize a warrant for that amount. The Department of Welfare also asked authority to seek bids for two one and one-half-ton utility trucks. An appropriation of $4,500 for playground equipment was asked by the Department of Supplies.

Mayor Kline to Aid In Opening Air Show

Mayor Charles H. Kline will be honorary chairman at the official opening of the second annual Pittsburgh aircraft show which opens at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in Motor Square Garden. Others taking part in the opening will be officials of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh, which is sponsoring the show. Airplanes valued at $500,000 will be entered in the show by 50 exhibitors. The show committee is headed by Capt. William J. Austin.

AGENTS GET 461 PINTS OF BEER

A beer-laden automobile was seized and three places were raided by prohibition agents last night.

Joe Mugnolo, 40, of 711 North Dallas avenue, was arrested when 461 pints of home brew were found in an automobile which he was driving, according to the agents. The car was seized at Brushton avenue and Susquehanna street.

In raids on the store of Jim Ferracono, at 4108 Penn avenue; a club at 105 Larimer avenue, and the home of John Mihelcic, at 218 Fifty-seventh street, the agents said they discovered liquor law violations.

TRAFFIC GUIDE UNDER FIRE

Council has been asked by the Police Pension Fund Association to repeal the ordinance giving authority to J. L. Lewis and the Lewis Publishing Company to make copies of all regulations governing traffic and parking.

The request was made in a resolution forwarded to Council yesterday by Chester B. Morley, secretary of the association. The authority has been abused, the resolution declares.

With the resolution Council received copies of an affidavit made by Detective W. R. Harris telling of the arrest of Lewis, T. R. Shanahan and Craig Jacobs in connection with the solicitation of advertisements for a traffic guide published by the company.

Boulevard Grade Fixed in Oakland

Another step in the planned extension of the Boulevard of the Allies was taken when Council received an ordinance fixing the grade of Zulema street from a point near Halket street to Coltart street. Another ordinance fixed the grade of Michigan avenue between Beltzhoover and Estella streets.

DAVISON TO FLY HERE FOR FETE

Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, is expected to fly from Washington to the Pittsburgh-Butler airport tomorrow afternoon, to attend the U. S. Engineers Ordnance dinner to be held in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow night. He will be met by a reception committee and escorted to Pittsburgh. It is expected he will arrive at 3:30 p. m.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown and Brig. Gen. C. L. H. Ruggles, other honor guests at the dinner, are expected to arrive at 8:55 tomorrow morning at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station. They will be entertained at breakfast in the Duquesne Club and also at a luncheon in the Pittsburgh Country Club.

Fire in West View Damages Residence

West View police today were investigating the cause of a fire which damaged the home of Mrs. Nettie Saunders, of 168 Lakewood avenue, last night. Flames were discovered in a rear room on the second floor and spread rapidly to the first floor. The fire was extinguished at a loss of $1,500, according to a police report.

Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander of the American Legion, favors the enactment of national legislation providing for the conscription of capital as well as manpower in the event of war? Do you favor such a plan?

ROSE GOSILIAK, Bruceton, assistant designer: "To prevent more wars the people of this country should not allow their lawmakers to pass such legislation. If we give the government more power in time of war that power may be used to a disadvantage. The harder it is to promote a war the less wars we will have."

Miss Gosiliak

MARTHA GRAY, Lincoln place, sales lady: "Men are much more important and deserve to be given more consideration than mere property. If humans are compelled to enter a war why shouldn't the powers be permitted to conscript capital? As a rule those who would suffer most by conscription of capital suffer least by conscription of manpower."

Miss Gray

ANNA SCHRICKER, South Side, cashier: "Mr. Bodenhamer is in a position to make such a statement and show facts to bear it out. I consider him somewhat of an authority on the subject and also agree that legislation providing for the conscription of capital should be passed. Let those who have plenty of property and money suffer as much in time of war as those who are forced to enlist."

Miss Schricker

"BEE" ALLEN, Overbrook, operator: "I can see no justice in such a law. The government should have no right to take anyone's property in war times and use that property to further war. That type of tactics may have been all right when kings had the say, but in the United States other ideas prevail. People are willing to sacrifice for the nation but will not allow themselves to be compelled to do so."

Miss Allen

MARY SMITH, Lincoln place, wrapper: "The government should have the authority to conscript any materials they need in time of war. Men are compelled to take part and die in conflict. The least the government could do to make war less popular would be to seize any goods which could be utilized. The owner of these goods would soon come to the conclusion that war is an unprofitable business."

Miss Smith

DOROTHY WEISE, Carrick, stock accountant: "How a citizen uses his money and property is his own business. I can not favor any legislation that permits conscription of capital by the government whether in war or peace. It is true that manpower is enlisted by force but we can't change that. We can prevent the conscription of capital and should do so. I am not in favor of anything that makes war easy to carry on."

THUGS GET $50 IN GAS STATION

Two bandits who escaped with $50 after locking two attendants in a small room of the service station of the Sun Oil Company, 2800 Boulevard of the Allies, last night, were being sought by police today.

The robbers held Stephen Keller and Robert Craig, the attendants, at bay with revolvers while they looted the register of $16. Keller was forced to open a safe from which $32 was taken. After obtaining the cash the thugs locked up the two employes, who later battered down the door and summoned police.

Burns suffered while playing near an open stove proved fatal to Mary Eaton, 5, of 116 Vine street, Coraopolis, last night in the Sewickley Valley Hospital. The accident occurred at the Eaton home Sunday.

RADIO STATION, STREET CARS ALSO HELP

Commerce Chamber Assisted In Educational Drive to Pave Way for Enumerators

Pittsburgh school children and their instructors will aid the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce in acquainting the residents of the city with the purpose of the forthcoming decennial census, it was announced today. Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of schools, yesterday promised Dr. Francis Tyson, chairman of the Chamber's Research and Statistics Committee, the assistance of the board and the pupils.

According to Dr. Tyson, the school children will make it possible to have the information on the census placed before the public at least two weeks before the 1,200 enumerators begin their work on April 1.

WILL ISSUE PAMPHLETS

Pamphlets explaining what information the enumerators will require, the purpose of the census and other details will be prepared by the Chamber next week. Dr. Tyson's committee is co-operating with the three district supervisors of the census, he announced.

Arrangements with Radio Station WCAE for daily time during the two weeks preceding the start of the census for informative talks by committeemen on the various requirements of the census, have been completed by George A. Doyle, chairman of the sub-committee of the Chamber on the census. A meeting of this committee to work out plans for the presentation of information on the enumeration of the non-English-speaking public through the foreign language newspapers of the city will be held in the chamber Thursday noon.

ADS IN STREET CARS

Thomas Fitzgerald, president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, and William Boyce, commercial manager, according to Doyle, will have the placards prepared by the chamber committee placed in the street cars, advertising the census. Dr. Charles Dickey, superintendent of the county schools, and managers of the other local radio broadcasting stations, will be interviewed by Dr. Tyson and Doyle tomorrow for their co-operation.

Several conferences have been held by Doyle and Dr. Tyson in the last few days with Dr. George Metzger and A. D. Levy, supervisors of the census north of the two rivers and in the McKees Rocks territory, respectively.

Rosenbaum Heads Traffic Committee

Walter Rosenbaum, vice-president of the Better Traffic Committee, was re-elected chairman of the committee's education section. The action was taken by that sub-committee in the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday. Rosenbaum has promised a broadening of the committee's educational work.

Board Asks Repaving Of Federal Street

Business men and residents of upper Federal street have signed a petition to City Council asking for the repaving of Federal street between North avenue and Alpine street. The move is backed by the Upper Federal Street District Business Men's Association, C. C. Young, president.

Overbrook Finances Reported in Audit

Ernst and Ernst, public accountants, yesterday sent Council a report on the indebtedness and borrowing power of what formerly was Overbrook Borough, now part of the city. The report is customary following annexation.

ABSENCE JUSTIFIED

MR. AND MRS. ERLING RINGSTAD AND EILEEN

Mr. Ringstad, 103 South Braddock avenue, electrical engineer, whose 12-month absence from the United States on his duties, Judge Schoonmaker has ruled, should not interfere with his application for citizenship, which demands continuous residence.

ABSENCE NO BAR TO CITIZENSHIP

A naturalization proceeding of unusual interest was set forth in an opinion handed down by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, in the case of Erling Ringstad, Norwegian, of 103 South Braddock avenue, an electrical engineer who is seeking United States citizenship.

The court ruled that the absence of Ringstad in South America for 13 months, while his application for citizenship was pending, was only temporary and that an order may be submitted to the court for granting the petition of Ringstad for citizenship.

Admission to citizenship had been refused Ringstad by the naturalization authorities on January 17 because his absence from the country from November 3, 1928, to December 18, 1929, had broken the continuity of the five years' residence required before the admission to citizenship.

It was cited in the opinion that Ringstad was sent to Buenos Aires by his employers, the Electric Bond and Share Company of New York, to advise electric power companies of Argentina as to modern methods of installation and operation.

The opinion also set forth that Ringstad, who was married to a citizen of Allegheny County September 18, 1923, maintained a permanent residence in South Braddock avenue, during his absence in South America.

TRUCE IN WATER CASE LIKELY

Homestead and West Homestead boroughs may settle amicably differences arising from the water supply problems, it was indicated at meetings of the councils of the two communities last night.

The West Homestead councilmen made a move early in the year to obtain water from the South Pittsburgh Water Company instead of from Homestead, as at present, owing to a boost in rates.

Councilman W. P. Howley, chairman of the Water Committee of Homestead council, reported last night that his Committee had met with a similar West Homestead Committee and as a result Council instructed its Finance Committee to learn if a better rate could not be given West Homestead.

At the meeting of the West Homestead council, its water committee reported that it was awaiting another conference with Homestead councilmen before making final recommendations.

Reward for Capture Of Robbers Offered

A reward was offered today by B. Lipsitz, proprietor of a wholesale tobacco store at 1506 Center avenue, for information leading to the arrest of the thieves who early yesterday looted his store of cigarets valued at $5,000, he announced. The robbers jimmied the front transom, carried their loot to the rear of the store and apparently hauled it away in a truck.

State Aviation Tour Starts Here May 30

The Pennsylvania goodwill air tour, the first of its kind to be held in the state, will start in Pittsburgh May 30, and end here June 8. It will be sponsored by the Aero Club of Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia Aero Club. Twenty-five planes will be used. They will visit 18 cities and include in the program stunt flying and parachute jumping. The object of the tour is to further aviation in Pennsylvania.

FAKE OFFICERS BEING SOUGHT

George Senft will be arraigned before Alderman Howard James of East street, tomorrow afternoon on charges of impersonating an officer and forgery, a sequel to his arrest yesterday which was caused by the Constables' Benefical and Protective Association of Allegheny County, it was reported.

The association, headed by Edward P. Murray, is waging a campaign against individuals posing as constables although not elected or deputized to that office.

Senft, said to have been working out of the office of Justice of the Peace T. R. Gracie, as a constable, collected a bill. After making the collection Senft is alleged to have signed the name of George Hilpert, the regular constable in Gracie's office.

Church Installs 200 More Seats

Two hundred additional seats are being installed in the auditorium of the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, East Liberty. With the new arrangement, the church will be equipped to accommodate 2,000 persons at all services. They will be ready for use by the beginning of the Lenten season. The new seats have been so designed that they will be invisible, when not in use, according to the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Coakley, Sacred Heart pastor.

M'GOVERN NEAR END OF VOYAGE

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and his son, Roger, were expected to arrive in New York today after a three-weeks' voyage on which they visited Havana and Mexico City.

Attaches of McGovern's office said yesterday that he probably would motor to Washington, D. C., for a conference with former Gov. Gifford Pinchot regarding the latter's possible intention of again running for Governor.

Pinchot has made public speeches recently in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg and Philadelphia, but always declined to state his position on a gubernatorial candidacy, except to state he would make an emphatic announcement if he decided to enter the race.

Etna High Club Arranges Operetta

The Etna High School Glee Club and orchestra will present an operetta, "Sylvia," in the school auditorium, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

SACRED HEART DEBATES

Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church is planning debates between two priests as part of the regular Sunday evening Lenten services. The custom was started last year. The Rev. E. Lawrence O'Connell and the Rev. Dr. Howard J. Carroll will oppose each other. The services will commence at 7:45 o'clock every Sunday evening during Lent.

Subjects chosen by the Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Coakley are: March 9, "Is the Catholic Church Intolerant?"; March 23, "Is Confessional Hypocrisy?"; March 30, "Do Catholics Deify a Woman?"; April 6, "Are Parochial Schools a Menace?"; April 13, "Can the Creator Be the Creator?"

Florida Resorts Meccas For Pittsburghers on Winter Vacations

"TRAVEL, trouble, music, art" are among the things Dorothy Parker enumerates as pastimes, and of these, right now the social world finds wandering over the globe most diverting.

Some folks spend the entire winter at one resort, and others flit from resort to resort. Every year finds the Elliott F. Shepards, Mrs. Andre Rickmers, and the William J. Morrises, Pittsburghers and former Pittsburghers, at Miami Beach.

The Morrises gave a luncheon, by the way, on Sunday in the Bath Club. And among the guests were the junior John B. Semples, the Stewart Johnstons, Mrs. Rickmers, and Mrs. Shepard.

ORMOND BEACH has attracted Mrs. Charles M. Brown, of Woodland road, who is there with her daughters, Nancy and Mary, and her son, Clement.

Travels Varied

Living at the Homestead in Hot Springs, Va., are Mrs. William W. Collin, Jr., Katherine Collin and Margaret Holdship, from Sewickley.

After a West Indies cruise the Alexander Laughlins will arrive tomorrow on the Vulcania in New York and will stop at the Savoy-Plaza a short time before coming home.

Just arrived at Nassau are the William Larimer Mellons and their guests on the Mellons' yacht, the Vagabondia.

Golf tournaments are bringing many folks to Asheville, and as the spring progresses will attract more and more members of the social set.

Just now Mrs. George Collord is there, stopping at the Grove Park Inn.

PITTSBURGH folks will be interested to hear of the wedding today of a Pittsburgh man in Philadelphia.

Eastern Wedding

Alice Lorine Roat, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert L. Roat, of that city, is becoming the bride of Hugh Craig Anderson, Jr., son of the Hugh Craig Andersons, of Northumberland street, this afternoon at 6:30 o'clock in the Tioga Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Robert D. Littell is officiating. A reception in the Woman's Club in Germantown is supplementing the wedding.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, is wearing an empress gown of ivory satin with the long, tight sleeves ending in a many pointed frill at the wrists. A coronet of duchess lace holds her veil in place, and the bridal bouquet is of calla lilies. Jane Carson, of Philadelphia, is maid of honor and is wearing Edith blue crepe, princess style, with a brief train. Her slippers and horsehair hat match the gown, and she is carrying golden-yellow roses, yellow and pink snapdragons and blue delphinium, tied with many long streamers of Edith blue chiffon ribbon.

NAOMI ANDREAS, Katherine Muller and Virginia Lee, all of Philadelphia, are wearing similar gowns of egg-shell crepe in princess silhouette, having brief trains, and wide brimmed horsehair hats of Edith blue with matching slippers. Their bouquets are similar to that of Jane Carson. A small niece of the bride, Penelope Geller, is flower girl and her frock is of blue chiffon with a quaint poke bonnet of the same shade. She is carrying a basket of yellow daisies. The bride's mother is wearing blue chiffon, and Mrs. Anderson, peach satin embroidered with rhinestones.

Lovely Gowns

Donald H. Anderson is his brother's best man, and a Pittsburgh man, William G. Barlow, is an usher. Other ushers are Harry A. Corr, F. C. W. Patton and Gale Holshue, of Philadelphia.

The junior Hugh Craig Andersons will leave for a southern honeymoon and later will make their home in Wilkins avenue.

The senior Andersons are leaving tomorrow for Pinehurst, N. C., and will be guests at the Carolina Hotel there until some time in April.

South Side Seeks Many Improvements

Several requests were made of Council in a letter received from the South Side Advancement Association, H. N. Englert, secretary. The association wants the South Side Market House removed, new Smithfield street and Twenty-second street bridges, and the return of the Carrick line, 52, along Carson street.

Other requests were for new lights on Carson street, six stop and go signals, and 15 street improvements, including the completion of the Mt. Washington roadway.

City Asked to Pay Light Jubilee Bill

Council has been asked to pay the city's last bill in connection with the Light Golden Jubilee last fall. The amount is $1,071, due the Raphael Electrical Company. Lack of funds at the time led to the delay in payment, the company agreeing to wait until the first of the year.

20th Century Hears Talk On Russia

WHAT has been accomplished in the total emancipation of women, the extension of educational facilities and better living conditions, generally are the three things to be said in behalf of the Russian Soviet government, according to Prof. Walter P. Hall, of Princeton, who addressed the Twentieth Century Club yesterday. These three, however, are offset by an equal number of striking evils (the striking out of individualism, the creation of a militaristic spirit and (most fatal in its consequences) the creation of a mass mind.

Prof. Hall mentioned several events which have happened since the signing of the Kellogg peace pacts which would seem to bear out his idea that "the old enemy of internationalism—narrow, selfish, exaggerated nationalism," is increasing rather than lessening. He devoted the greater part of his talk to Russia, but said conditions in Italy under Mussolini's "despotic control" were comparable with those in Russia.

Nationalism is growing in Russia and safety of the government transcends everything else, the speaker declared. Of 246 persons executed within a certain time not one execution was for murder, all were for political or religious offences, he said. The Russians have attempted something catastrophic and have brought about a standard of loyalties completely inverse to those accepted elsewhere. Russia's ambition is to become a more pronounced industrial state than America, he added.

A SPECIAL notice on the month's calendar of the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church announces a meeting tonight of the Louise Dilworth Beggs Evening Alliance, which is to be addressed by Dr. Florence M. Teagarden. Speakers at the morning Alliance meetings this month include Miss Gertrude Taft, J. E. MacCloskey and the Rev. Dr. David E. Culley. Miss Taft will speak tomorrow morning on "Religious Education of Youth" and next Wednesday Mr. MacCloskey will have "The Bible as Literature" as his subject, Dr. Culley following him on March 19 with a lecture on "The New Appreciation of the Bible." The last Wednesday of the month will be devoted to sewing for the Pittsburgh Milk and Ice Association.

MISS KATHLEEN D. COURTNEY, distinguished English woman, will be guest of honor at a dinner to be given March 18, by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. The dinner, which will be held at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., will be open to the public. The guest of honor is one of the most prominent women in English public life and has for many years been a keen student of international affairs and has spoken and written much on the peace question. She came to this country to address the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War.

STYLISTS PRESS PANELS AND PLEATS INTO SERVICE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 4.—Panels and pleats are being pressed into service for next season's frocks and coats. For scarcely a model so far shown is without its quota of panels or pleats or both. Clever tailoring is responsible for the intricate detail that will be such an important feature of the spring crop of clothes. The so-called simple frock will be a complex affair and it will not be so easy to duplicate models, as it was in the days of the straight up and down garment. Informal daytime clothes will stress the tailored note, while the formal afternoon frocks will be of the "Dressmaker" type. All of which is causing much joy in the workrooms of the smart establishments here even if it does make life busy for the designer and the fitter. For ever so much more care must be given to the fitting and line of the creation, since the silhouette cutting permits the figure to figure in fashion.

CREPE DE CHINE is popular for spring. It was not used much for Riviera clothers, beyond tennis frocks. But several houses are showing town frocks of rather elaborate design and these seem to be well liked. One of the sketches presented is of the Drecoll-Baer collection and is one of their most successful frocks for spring afternoon wear. It is of heavy black crepe de Chine. A fan-pleated panel is set in at the front and reaches from the neckline down to the skirt-edge with an ever-flaring line. Similar panels set in at either side of the back extend from the waistline down to the hem, giving an exceedingly graceful swing to the dress.

THE QUAINT and very charming evening frock is from the house of Redfern. It is of jade green georgette with a detachable scarf of the same fabric. The princess lines of the skirt flare in circular godets and touch the floor all around. The tailored belt marks the natural waistline. A deep border of large silver sequins edges both the scarf and skirt, lending a dash to the gown.

"Clothes can help you to gain a more feminine psychology about yourself"

BEATRICE FAIRFAX ANSWERS

an intimate Letter...

from a PITTSBURGH Girl

EMMELINE P.—(her friends call her "Bobbie") writes me a very intimate letter from which I quote:

"My trouble is that I'm 'just a good pal' to men. They like me but they don't fall in love with me, and yet, like every girl, I want romance . . ."

Bobbie dear, it is the feminine quality in yourself which you have hidden under a hail-fellow-well-met attitude, that you must release, because it is a natural law that men should seek out the womanly woman.

Clothes can help you to gain a more feminine psychology about yourself, Bobbie.

For instance, and this advice is for every girl, when you wear exquisitely colorful, lacy lingerie and negligees, you feel feminine and charming. This consciousness of feminine charm casts its subtle spell. You believe in yourself—and confidence is contagious.

Of course you must keep the wonderful colors, the soft lustre, of your lingerie always lovely.

This is not as difficult as some women think. You need have no fear that frequent washing will rob your dainty lingerie of its beauty, for there is a marvelous product—which so many know—especially made to keep delicate colors and fabrics alluring. Of course I mean Lux. With it, your pretty lingerie, your sheer hosiery, negligees, all retain the full beauty and charm of color. And they last surprisingly long.

(Right) Luxed 12 times—every thread in place—silk and lace fibres intact, color intact. Retains all the allure of new.

Charm in Your Home, Too

It is important, too, that your home should always seem dainty and charming. Keep the glamour of lovely fresh color in everything about the house, for men love cheerful color. Curtains, linens, spreads, cushion covers, all retain color charm with Lux. Beatrice Fairfax

HOOVER A 'FLOP' BOWERS SAYS

"The administration of President Hoover has been a complete 'flop.' It bears a striking resemblance to that of President Taft during his first year in the White House, and unless Hoover does something spectacularly successful during the next two years he is lost, just as Taft was."

This is the opinion of Claude G. Bowers, editorial writer of the New York World and keynote speaker at the Democratic National Convention at Houston, as expressed in an interview here today.

Mr. Bowers is in Pittsburgh to lecture on "Thomas Jefferson and Religious Freedom" at the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association, Bellefield avenue, tonight.

Reviewing Hoover's administration, Mr. Bowers said: "His farm relief bill relieved the farmer of what little he had left. The price of grain has gone steadily downward since it was passed.

"He has attempted to pass a tariff act. He has been at it for 11 months already, and a full year will have elapsed before the bill is enacted. He has given some people to understand he favors only limited revision of the tariff, and led others to believe he favors unlimited revision. If he had any quality of leadership—anything resembling courage—he would have said, 'This is not the bill I wanted.'

"Coolidge said nothing. Hoover says nothing that cannot be interpreted both ways."

Conneaut Lake Ice Harvest Ends, Crop Good

CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., March 4.—The ice harvest for 1930 at Conneaut Lake is at an end, much ahead of schedule. The ice varied in thickness from 9½ to 10 inches and was of good quality. Fast work was necessary to get it out before the general thaw developed. A large section rotted. Most of the product, except what was actually needed by several of the hotels, was transferred to waiting freight cars.

GRAY HAIR IS EASILY DARKENED

Tells How She Did It With a Home-Made Remedy.

Mrs. E. H. Boots, a well-known resident of Buchanan County, Ia., who darkened her gray hair, made the following statement:

"Anyone can darken their gray or faded hair, and look twenty years younger with this simple remedy, which they can mix at home. To half a pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, one small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine. These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair every other day until the gray hair is darkened sufficiently. It does not color the scalp, is not greasy and does not rub off. It will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger."

For New Skin Beauty Use a Healing Toilet Cream

—Say Scores of Nurses

AMONG the million and a half women who are now using this new kind of toilet cream, there are thousands of trained nurses. They are enthusiastic—they tell their friends to use it. Their training has taught them what the skin needs to keep it healthy and beautiful.

Science now recognizes that many of the common skin faults come from tiny hidden poisons that lurk unseen beneath the skin. Blemishes, roughness, large pores, coarseness and many other beauty-destroying flaws are now traced to these invisible poisons.

Ordinary care is not enough. Soaps and creams that merely cleanse the surface fail to reach these insidious poisons. An antiseptic cream is necessary—a greaseless healing cream that will sink into the skin, combat poisons, keep the skin germ-free, healthy and beautiful.

As snow-white and dainty as the finest beauty cream, yet as powerfully healing as an old-fashioned skin remedy, Noxzema Skin Cream can be used as a powder base or night cream. Under its soothing, healing medication, skin troubles vanish quickly and your skin becomes clearer, smoother, lovelier.

Noxzema Cream is on sale at all drug and department stores.

HERBERT FESTIVAL, STOCK COMEDY AND NEW FILMS AS SEEN BY CRITICS

Victor Herbert Listens To 'Fortune Teller' At Radio on Styx

By GEORGE SEIBEL

FOUR of them were listening in last night, gathered around the radio in the Houseboat on the Styx, as the strains of "The Fortune Teller" were floating down from the Syria Mosque where the Victor Herbert revival was inaugurated.

George Seibel

"Well, boys," said the rubicund and stately composer of the score, "you will admit that the music still has the old spell—and I'm applauding the Gypsy Love Song over and over. They'll trot out Philip Conyers, who's singing Sandor."

"Not up to my 'Hedermaus' music," sneered Johann Strauss.

"Can't compare with my 'Tales of Hoffmann'," added Jacques Offenbach.

"Unless the wit and piquancy of my 'Mikado' and 'Pinafore'," was the comment of Arthur Sullivan.

"Look here," argued Victor Herbert, "I give me a fair show. You, Johann, were rocked by the Danube and lived in gay Vienna. You, Jacques, were born on the Rhine and lived in gay Paris. You, Arthur, lived by the Thames but [illegible] to write [illegible]

"Let us [illegible] Jealousy [illegible] are other [illegible] Bach. [illegible] willing [illegible] a bar or a phrase [illegible]

"Three [illegible] Herbert [illegible]

IT WAS HERBERT NIGHT

It was truly a [illegible] evening. In the [illegible] were a number of [illegible] who had played under Herbert and knew him well. They were [illegible] the new [illegible] the departed [illegible] victories over [illegible] They played the [illegible] reverence. If [illegible] attached to [illegible] measures.

"The Fortune [illegible] dated. It [illegible] tious as ever [illegible] crowds to [illegible] Eleanor Painter [illegible] triple role of [illegible] Fedor, could [illegible] proved up [illegible] to contend [illegible] looks the [illegible] spirit. He [illegible] her solo [illegible] Nations at [illegible] the Lily and [illegible] won hearty [illegible] vast audience.

Next to [illegible] Philip Conyers, whose [illegible] voice showed well in the grateful numbers allotted to Sandor. The Gypsy Love Song has the melodic charm of Balfe, and Conyers brought it out.

Fred Titus in the tenor role also distinguished himself with the Hussar [illegible] and in the duet Sara Bair [illegible] and sang it like a [illegible] donna.

The comedy [illegible] supplied by William J. [illegible] as the Count, Harry Heilmann as Boris and Hal Bryan as Prince. It was comedy true to the old tradition.

HARRY B. SMITH'S BOOK

It must be admitted that Harry B. Smith, author of the book and [illegible] America's Librettist-in-chief does not compare with Gilbert or some of the French [illegible] writers of operetta. He had a comic vein, but his romantic imagination was below par.

The plot of "The Fortune Teller" reminds you of building block architecture. Gypsies and Hussars wear picturesque costumes, let us have some gypsies and some hussars! There must be a comical ladies' man who wishes to marry the heroine so we get the Count. All the rest follows.

But the plot has continuity and coherency. It is comprehensible if not ingenious—and it is amusing.

And upon it Herbert has woven some of his sweetest melodies and most stirring rhythms.

And it is so well sung, not only by the principals, but also by the chorus, that the three fellow composers, listening in last night down in that Houseboat on the Styx, had to admit that Herbert has a right to sit beside them and congratulate himself upon being one of the Immortals.

Musical

Eric Titus has a prominent role in the Victor Herbert operetta, "The Fortune Teller," in the Alvin for the remainder of the week after opening in Syria Mosque.

Vocal

Greta Garbo reveals her voice for the first time on the screen in "Anna Christie," film version of the O'Neill play showing in the Penn.

GRETA GARBO IS FINE AS ANNA CHRISTIE IN PENN TALKIE

Greta Garbo had a chance to show her voice yesterday in the film drama made from Eugene O'Neil's "Anna Christie," which is the big feature in the Penn. In saying "made from" it should be added that there has not been any radical departure from the play. The wild cusswords have been tamed down into gentle "darns," and the rawer parts of Anna's past have been talcumed a bit. The day on shore has been depicted with glimpses of some wild Coney Island doings. That's all.

SIREN IS ACTRESS

This drama affords fine acting opportunities to four people, and Greta Garbo, expert siren, showed she is also a good actress. She has a voice and knows how to use it. She cannot depend on gorgeous gowns and a rich background in this play—so she has to act. It is probably the best screen acting done since Ruth Chatterton's "Madame X." Maybe the credit should go in part to the dramatist. Real drama brings out real acting ability.

George F. Marion as Anna's father also does very good work. Marie Dressler is fine as old Martha and Charles Beckford as the egregious Irish hero, is not impossible.

The East River scenes are very impressive—like Greta's acting.

As the guest of M. C. we have Allen Rogers who scores by singing the Indian Love Call from "Rose Marie." There are two Italian acrobats the Ghezzis who give a remarkable exhibition of muscle and agility. Dodd and Bush are admirably synchronized dancers while Kaye and Sayre with their Scotch please the audience as always.

With love songs of all nations played by Dick Leibert, and a new bevy of Chester Hale Girls wearing very charming costumes, the stage show is well rounded like a symphony in blue. The Penn is worth a visit this week if only to hear Greta Garbo and see her act.

'SALTWATER,' COMEDY, BRINGS MARINE AIR INTO PITT

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Salt Water," an agreeable comedy bordering on the farcical, is the entertainment provided by the George Sharp Players for the patrons of the Pitt, where the opening performance last night amused a well satisfied audience. This bit of marine atmosphere, by John Golden and Dan Jarrett, is of the present season's crop and with Frank Craven presiding at the helm, was seen in New York earlier.

In the present production Harland Tucker has the original Craven role that of a youthful man, son and grandson of sea captains, with a hunger for the sea in his veins and anchored by a wife who cannot endure the thought of him being far away on the rolling waves.

WOULD BUY A SHIP

This sea hunger causes Captain Tucker to throw up his job as a candy butcher on a Hudson river night boat, his intent being to buy a freighter. He doesn't and the reason why provides the fun.

This reason is personified in Edith King, playing the wife, who, to assure that Harland will remain a mate—her's—instead of becoming a deep sea skipper, uses their savings to buy a ferryboat. So, you see, there are complications. These make a merry second act, in particular, when the would-be mariner no sooner discovers that he is a ferryboat owner than he finds himself facing a lot of damage suits as a couple of booming noises and a red glare through the windows of his home, facing the sound, prove to be the evidence that ferry has demolished its pier and itself.

A CAPTAIN AT LAST

But comedies, of course, cannot have a tragic ending, hence things work out all right, what with insurance and one thing and another, the net result being that Captain Tucker dons his dad's old cap and begins to skipper the ferryboat.

The performance of Mr. Tucker and Miss King and all other members of the company lend plausibility to the story. Especially the playing of Walter P. Jones as an old salt, and Mabel Kroman, as the wise-cracking and trouble-making sister of the aspiring mariner.

OLYMPIC TOMORROW GETS 'MELODY MAN'

A romantic team, composed of William Collier, Jr. and Alice Day, features the cast of "The Melody Man," Columbia's all-talking picture, which opens its first run in the Olympic tomorrow.

The plot of the picture is formed by the controversy between partisans of classical music and advocates of jazz. The heroine's father is a renowned musician and is a jazzband leader. The film has several song numbers. John St. Polis, Johnny Walker and Mildred Harris are in the supporting cast.

Sewickley Sons, Fathers to Dine

The annual father and son banquet of the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. will be held Friday night in the association rooms. The Mothers' Club will have charge of the dinner.

Head of Oldest Girls' School To Leave

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 4.—Miss Edith U. Gill, principal of the Washington Seminary, oldest girl's school west of the Allegheny Mountains, has sent her resignation to the Board of Trustees, to take effect at the end of the school year in June.

Miss Gill came to the seminary on August 1, 1928, having previously been instructor at the Bradford Academy in Massachusetts.

A meeting of the Board of Trustees is to be held soon to choose a successor.

Specialist

Richard Dix is a different kind of heart specialist in "The Love Doctor," photoplay feature in the Aldine.

LOVE DOCTOR VICTIM OF OWN THEORY IN ALDINE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"The Love Doctor," new talkie in the Aldine, is just another of those pictures that happen along.

It presents Richard Dix in the role of a young physician who attempts to tell other people about love, but who knows little about it himself. Love to him is just a cut and dried formula. You do and you don't do certain things and thus make the person you want most "fall" for you. And in the film his theory works. A young nurse, who loves him, utilizes his idea and gets results.

Of course, the picture isn't to be taken seriously. So don't go to the theater and think you'll discover how to make your sweetheart go "goofy" about you. Like many movie notions, this one is likely to burst like a soap-water bubble and leave you splashed with disillusionment if applied to real life.

June Collyer is present as the nurse who is lucky in love. Miriam Seegar plays a society butterfly who would like the doctor to care for her in that big way.

The best thrill in the whole affair is when a canoe upsets and the "doc" and the girl friend are dumped into the water. And the best laugh is Gale Henry in the role of the physician's office girl.

The production has numerous comedy moments and it strives hard for others. It even has Hero Richard running around without his trousers.

Church to Hold Pre-Lenten Party

The annual pre-Lenten card party and reception for the benefit of the Church of St. Francis Xavier, California avenue and Antrim street, will be held tonight in the parish auditorium. The Rev. Patrick E. Maher, pastor, is general chairman.

You have a Doctor's Word for this Laxative

IN 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he treated many cases of constipation. He soon saw the harm in common purges and began to seek something better. Out of his experience was born a famous prescription now in wide use.

This prescription was written thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. Children like its pleasant taste. Older people like it because it doesn't gripe or cause discomfort. It is a mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; thoroughly effective for the most robust of men. Stimulates the normal muscular action of the bowels. So its use will not become a habit. As people saw how gently yet obviously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, biliousness, feverishness, or no energy, poor appetite, etc., are relieved by Dr. Caldwell's prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. All drug stores have the generous bottles. The product never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original formula. So you can take it with confidence or give it to the youngest child.

"WHY WE LIVE BEYOND OUR MEANS" was explained to the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday by Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, distinguished English visitor. That America has produced no great artistic geniuses is due to the fact that all genius and ability has gone into building the country, Mrs. Hale stated. The success of a business man is indicated by the manner in which he and his family live and this often means that he lives beyond his means, Mrs. Hale said, adding that the generosity of the American man toward his womankind is another reason for extravagant living. The high cost of service in America and a departure from old religious standards to a seeking after material things were other factors mentioned.

Teachers Dismiss Pupils, Avert Fire Panic

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 4.—Two school teachers proved heroines yesterday when fire broke out in the Todd School house on the Lincoln highway, near here.

When the fire was discovered eating its way through the ceiling of the school, Miss Gertrude Twaddle and Miss Irene Zofzi, the teachers, calmly instructed the forty-four pupils to don their wraps, after which they were directed to walk out of the building and go home.

New Job Added To City Budget

The first amendment to the recent budget bill was received yesterday by Council. It was an ordinance creating the position of designing draftsman in the Water Distribution Division at $2,700 a year. The position, members said, was inadvertently omitted from the salary ordinance.

Poison for Whisky Causes Man's Death

Poison taken by mistake in his home February 20 caused the death last night in Montefiore Hospital of John Nussbaum, 45, of 5427 Kentucky avenue, according to a morgue report. He had mistaken the poison for whisky, morgue attaches said.

Bullets Through Door Kill Scranton Miner

SCRANTON, Pa., March 4.—(INS.)—Six bullets crashed through the glass door of his home today and killed Ralph Commandy, 37, of North Scranton, as he sat sleeping in a kitchen chair. Members of the family told police they saw the unknown gunman flee but were unable to identify him.

Police attribute the slaying to "Blackhand" feudism.

Periodically she suffered, expected to; was virtually an invalid certain days of every month. Then a trained nurse told her the story of Midol. A most marvelous medicine—not a narcotic—that actually ends such pain. Today, the woman who has learned the use of Midol regards the process as an incident! A harmless little tablet acting directly on the organs affected; in five to seven minutes not a twinge of pain remains! Midol is fifty cents, metal case.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

Needless Pain!

Some folks take pain for granted.

They let a cold "run its course."

They wait for their headaches to "wear off."

If suffering from neuralgia or from neuritis, they rely on feeling better in the morning.

Meantime, they suffer unnecessary pain. Unnecessary, because there is an antidote. Bayer Aspirin always offers immediate relief from various aches and pains we once had to endure. If pain persists, consult your doctor as to its cause.

Save yourself a lot of pain and discomfort through the many uses of Bayer Aspirin. Protect yourself by buying the genuine. Bayer is safe. Always the same. All drugstores.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

No Mere Man Can Ever Know the Pains and the Misery a Woman Often Endures

WHEN a woman—young or older—is afflicted with dizzy spells or periodic pains or other annyoing symptoms, she should write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., for free and confidential medical advice. Many women have been saved from a life of misery by so doing.

One who has used the Prescription which Dr. Pierce prescribed most frequently when in active practice said:

"I was terribly rundown in health, was very weak and nervous, my back ached, I had severe bearing pains, was all dragged out—had no strength nor ambition to try to do anything. But after taking a few bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription my nerves became quiet, I gained in strength and weight and felt as well as I could wish. On several occasions since, when I felt nervous and rundown, it always proved very beneficial."—Mrs. Claude McConnell, 204 N. Queen St., York, Pa.

For 10c, Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., will send you a trial package of Favorite Prescription tablets. Your druggist can supply you with this medicine in liquid or tablets.

Protect skin beauty with Kleenex cleansing tissues

Remove cold cream this right way

Stars of the stage and screen were first to discover Kleenex. Now it's found in every dressing room. Hundreds of the best known stars have written in praise of it. One says Kleenex is "among my blessings in the dressing-room."

Smart New Package always has two sheets ready for use! You simply lift them out with one hand while the other hand is busy with the cold cream jar.

ASK today for a box of the new Kleenex Cleansing Tissues at your drug, dry goods or department store.

It will show you the right way to remove cold cream. The modern, smartly-designed box gives you two sheets at a time of these absorbent facial tissues.

Have you ever used Kleenex?

It is the only sanitary way to remove cold cream. You use it once, then discard it. No grimy "cold cream cloths" to carry infection into the pores. No harsh towels that hurt sensitive skin fabric. No high laundry bills either, once you've learned to use Kleenex . . . and no stained and ruined towels.

The new Kleenex box releases two sheets of tissues at a time, automatically. It is now made in beautiful pastel tints, packed in smart modern boxes so compact that they fit on a narrow ledge. Tints are pure and harmless.

For handkerchiefs

There are many household uses for Kleenex. Doctors advise it for colds in place of handkerchiefs. The direction sheet tells you how other women use it, in kitchen as well as bathroom. Once you get into the habit of keeping Kleenex handy you discover countless ways in which it can be of service.

You discover how wonderfully absorbent it is, how soft and soothing to the skin. Choose your favorite color. Then buy the New Box. It comes in two sizes—25c and 50c—beautifully packaged, dust-proof, immaculate.

NOTE: As a unique gift to the traveler or the friend who appreciates cosmetics of a special kind, Kleenex in the New Box is particularly attractive.

NATIONS' BEAUTIES LOOK OUT OF PICTURE, SAYS FAY KING

By FAY KING

THE motion picture has now become the world's greatest means of education and entertainment.

It has done more to bring understanding to the peoples of the world than any other medium.

The newsreel and the travelogue have shown us that "the far ends of the earth" and "the strange, far-away people" are not so different from our own locality and ourselves when touched by joy or sorrow.

We recognize sincerity everywhere and when we see it we respond with respect, and respect is the root of understanding.

Every race and every country are contributing their bit to our entertainment and our education.

In the picture plays we have favorites of every nationality who have won our admiration and applause with their talents and charm.

LOVEJOY

Nicholsons Start Anew When Baby Improves

CHAPTER XLVIII

BEFORE Tom had time to say a word Aunt Em came walking heavily into the room with a big round tea tray in her hands.

She was shaking her head mournfully. And she went on shaking it as she poured out three cups of tea.

"In my day a baby with a fever like that would have been plumped into a good big tub of hot water," she said. "But they've just been doping Tommy up with medicine. Nonsense with the baby, and the doctor lyin' down on the couch in my room. I just heard it, I tell you."

Her eyes met Tom's over the other of them gravely. "I guess he's pretty scared about Tommy or he wouldn't stay right here," she went on. "He'd go home and come back when he was needed. I don't believe he thinks the baby is going to live."

"Oh, Aunt Em!" Lovejoy's hands flew to her throat, clutching it. "You don't think the baby is really going to die—"

She turned quickly to Tom. "Tom—our baby."

She stretched out her hands toward him and he took them in his. He drew her down against his shoulder, smoothing back her hair from her forehead where cold perspiration had broken out like dew. He laid his cheek against her head.

"Now just a minute, Lovejoy! Hold on a minute!" he said, as if he were afraid she was going to faint. "If the baby were dying they'd tell us so, wouldn't they? And the doctor wouldn't go calmly into Aunt Em's room and take a nap, would he?"

He shoved her gently back against the gaudy silk and velvet pillows of Aunt Em's couch and stood up.

"I'll go and ask Norrie how he is," he said.

Lovejoy jumped up. "Don't leave me, Tom. Let me go with you," she said with a little cry of terror.

Fever Breaks

She caught him by the hand and they went through the dark, silent rooms that way.

Norrie had come out of the baby's room. She was sitting on the window seat in the hall, staring out into the blackness behind the pane. And she was wiping her eyes with her handkerchief as if she had been crying.

But when she spoke her voice was steady enough.

"I was just coming to tell you," she said, "that the baby is better. The fever's breaking."

Lovejoy's hold on Tom's hand tightened. "But that terrible way he was breathing, Norrie—what was that?" she asked.

"Fever always makes babies breathe noisily," said Norrie, her eyes shining with the calm light that was always in them. "But the chances are that the baby will be breathing without a sound in a little while. Children get over things in no time at all . . . I think I ought to wake up Dr. Arnott and tell him to go home."

"No," said Tom, "let him sleep. Doctors don't get much rest, do they?"

Norrie did not answer. She pulled her kimono around her, got up and closed the hall door.

"I want to say something to you, Lovejoy, and I don't want Aunt Em to hear it," she said softly. "She's the best woman in the world. But she has her own ideas about babies, and she's been feeding Tommy between meals ever since you left. She gives him lumps of sugar 'to cut his teeth on,' as she says. And she doesn't believe that spinach juice and orange juice are good for him. . . . When you go away again—if you do—you'd better take the baby with you."

Tom Wants Lovejoy

"Thanks!" Lovejoy's voice was like ice. "I can plan my life without your help, Norrie!" She still hated her.

Norrie shrugged her shoulders.

She turned and went into the sick room for a moment. When she came out there was a look of relief on her face.

"The baby's sleeping like a lamb," she said, looking past Lovejoy and speaking to Tom. "Good night."

She went out through the door that Tom held open for her. He closed it behind her.

"Every word that she said was the truth," said Lovejoy, after a minute or so of silence. "I was almost three years old when I came to Aunt Em. She doesn't know much about little babies. I must have had the stomach of a young ostrich—for I can still remember the pancakes and the fried eggs that she used to feed me for Sunday morning breakfast. I always had what she and Uncle James had . . . And think of her giving Tommy sugar and pink frosting from a birthday cake!"

Tom was shaking his head. "You're not quite fair to Aunt Em," he said. "She did feed him junk—but the doctor said that the hot weather was partly to blame for his sickness. This room has been awfully hot and sometimes I'd keep the light burning half the night — and he'd waken up and cry . . . Lovejoy, a kid needs its own home and its own father and mother. There's no getting around that."

He sat down on the window seat and put his head down into his hands. Lovejoy noticed how much thinner they were than they had been a few weeks before.

"Listen to me," he said, "you can't go away from him and from me again! Lovejoy. He can't get along without you and God! I can't live without you, Lovejoy! I can't live without you. It's taken me only two weeks to find it out. But I sure do know it."

Review Past

Lovejoy looked down at her left hand. Her eyes were on Steve Oglebay's ring, and her thoughts flew back to him.

He's waiting for me—she thought.

"I don't know what to do," she said slowly. "Tom, we tried living together and made a terrible mess of it, didn't we? Tom, what happened to us? What spoiled everything for us?"

He looked up at her then.

"I'll tell you what wrecked us," he replied. "Money. Money that came too fast and too easily. We started to go around with a lot of bums. We learned to drink and to gamble and play around like the rest of the gang we ran with—spending money that we didn't have toward the last. We did all the fool things that keep the divorce courts buzzing these days."

Lovejoy nodded her head.

"And when I got tired of it and wanted to stay at home or take the baby for a ride, you thought I'd fallen for Norrie Shane—and you started to fool around with Oglebay just to get even. Didn't you?"

Once more Lovejoy shook her head.

"I started it long before Norrie came to our house. You know that," she answered truthfully. "I started it when you began to play poker at night with Al Alderson and his crew. You probably think Steve ran after me. He didn't—not at first. I ran after him."

"But you don't care for him," Tom said bluntly. "You could have had him two years ago, but you took me. You could have him now—but you're going to stay here with me, Lovejoy, when two people have loved each other the way you and I have they don't get over it. They may think that they do—for a little while—"

Decide on New Start

He put his arms around her and bent her head back so that her face was lifted to his. His hands shook, holding her, and she could feel their power and their passion.

This wasn't the Tom she had known for months—Tom, the worried husband and father.

"I'm never going to let you get away from me again!" he was saying, his mouth moving against her hair. "And if you want a divorce you'll have to fight for it in every court in these United States!"

"But, Tom, I've gone so far with it now," she said weakly. "Just two or three days ago I promised Steve Oglebay that I'd come back to him. I've talked to his lawyer—and he gave me this ring—"

"We'll send it back to him!" It'll serve him right for giving an engagement ring to a married woman," said Tom, and he laughed. "Next time he has a love affair he'll pick somebody without a husband, I'll bet a hat!"

Then his face became grave once more. "You know, life's going to be terrible for us for a while, Lovejoy," he said grimly. "All I have is this job, and it's going to take months before I'll be making real money. We owe so much—and we're going to have to live like a couple of Chinese coolies."

"We've lived like that before and I imagine we can do it again," his wife answered, slipping a ring that had cost ten thousand dollars from her slender finger. "And this time it will be easier perhaps, Tom, because we've found out that money isn't everything. We had it for awhile—and it wasn't so wonderful. But what would we have done if we'd lost the baby—"

Her throat swelled and tightened so that she couldn't go on.

From the room where the baby lay came a little wail. A wail so weak and pitiful that it was like the first cry of a newborn baby.

"He's awake!" Lovejoy whispered. "He's come out of that terrible sleep. . . . Tom, do you suppose he'll know us?" And hand in hand, they went into the darkened room to look at him.

THE END.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

The Trouble-Provoking Letter Is Read

AS Lillian's voice went on reading Helena Brixton's letter in her calm, even tones I decided that she had no hint of the uneasiness which was mine over Sam Brixton's real reason for sending Carolyn to the same school in New Jersey where Marion was a student. When we had first learned that the girls were to be classmates I had been convinced that Samuel Brixton, whom Lillian so disliked and vaguely feared, had purposely chosen the school because Marion was a pupil there.

But I had not time to dwell upon my fears. With her resumption of the reading I again had bent all my faculties to the word-for-word memorization of the letter for which Harry had asked me, feeling the while a bit resentful of my freak memory, which had I not possessed it would have made the distasteful task impossible.

But Sam's business affairs must be greatly changed. Helena's letter went on, for he has decided to leave Toledo and go to New York for the time the children are in school, perhaps longer. He has turned over his affairs at the brokerage office to his half-brother, Charles Owen, who was with us, you remember, when we visited you, and he has rented our home for four years. We are planning to take an apartment in New York for the four years and a modest country place somewhere between New York and New Haven for the summers. I wish, dearest, that the summer home was to be out on Long Island near you, but, of course, with Ronald in Yale we want to be able to have him week-ends as much as possible. However, I am counting on our seeing each other very often.

"I am so happy in the change, which, however I still cannot understand. Sam says that his business demands his presence in New York for the next few years, but I cannot help thinking that his real reason is his desire to be near the children and to gratify me, for he knows how lonely I should be with both of them so far away. Of course, I had reconciled myself to Ronald's going, for he has been entered for Yale for several years, but I had expected Carolyn to go to college nearer home. But Sam met a man last summer whose daughter had graduated from Whitney Hall and he was so loud in its praise that Sam decided Carolyn must go there.

"Of course all this makes me very happy, Lillian, for it proves Sam's great affection for my children. Few stepfathers are so devoted, but, indeed, Ronald and Carolyn never have known any difference, and, as they bear his name, no one outside of our family and a few people who knew me years ago dream that they are not his own.

"Sam has been in New York for two or three weeks arranging for offices and the apartment. The house I am to find after we move. There will be plenty of time before spring. I asked him to look you up, but he has been so terribly busy that he couldn't. Indeed, he asked me not to say to you that he was there until he was settled because he did not wish to appear rude, and he hadn't a minute's time to call. But he has been called away now on a trip which will last through the holidays—isn't that desolating, for him to be away at Christmas time?—and so there will be no harm now in telling you about it.

Lillian's glance, frankly troubled, lifted from the letter and met mine.

"I don't like that," she said. "Of course, it is absurd, but I have the queer feeling that Sam Brixton means mischief to me."

I wanted to tell her that I shared her feeling, but instead I shook my head at her.

"Remember our old and profane admonition," I told her.

"Not to be a condemned fool just because I know how," she retorted. "All right, I'll remember."

She went back to the letter again, and I settled to my task of memorizing a much more difficult one than I had thought because of the length of the letter.

"And now Lillian dearest I want your advice. We are taking a partly furnished apartment in New York and bringing on only a few of our most cherished possessions. The rest we are storing until we see just what kind of place we wish to take permanently. I am planning some parties—dancing, theater, etc.—for Carolyn and Ronald and their friends this vacation. I want you to lend me Marion for all of them, and I want you with me every minute you can give me. But all this doesn't solve my Christmas problem. We've always had a home Christmas at our farmhouse outside Toledo and I can't visualize an apartment holiday. I heard you say when I was there that you always spent your Christmases at the farm. Isn't there some place near you that I could rent for a few days? I don't care what I have to pay for it or what the accommodations are, just so that we can have a real old-fashioned country Christmas there. Ronald wants to bring home three boys who cannot get home for Christmas, they live so far away, and Carolyn also has two schoolmates who are in the same predicament. I can manage in the city, for the apartment is a large one and the boys can take Sam's room and the one we always keep for Charles when he is with us. But with so many I would need a sizable house in the country. I received the impression that Miss Lincoln, the charming girl who was at your home the evening we were there had a furnished country house near you, and that gave me the idea that there might be others. So, dearest, if you don't mind having me as a neighbor over Christmas won't you please write me whether there is any chance of my getting near you?

"As ever, your loving

"HELENA."

Again Lillian's eyes met mine and we spoke a name as with one voice.

"The Larches!"

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

FIVE minutes of calisthenics in the morning, followed by a quick tubbing, provide one with a sense of well-being. Especially if one is a restless sleeper, awakening with heavy head and a what's-the-use despair. During sleep the circulation is not as active as during wakeful hours. The heart action slows up slightly. Breathing is slower. A little muscular activity chases away the cobwebs, sets one on one's toes. When a woman stops being active she begins to get old, no matter what her age may be. Muscles that don't work go flabby, and soft tissues make for bad posture, stooped shoulders and triple chins. This is a warning.

In case any of the paper friends seeking beauty may be curious about the snail curl, we inform them that it is the flat beaucatcher covered with a piece of three-cornered paper, pinned securely and left to dry. A good-sized strand of hair is used, and the curl is not combed out—merely softened a bit by fluffing with the fingers. Like the sculptured curl, it is a daughter of the water wave.

Household Hints

A marshmallow dropped into a cup of hot cocoa just before serving makes a delicious hot drink.

To stop the bleeding from a bad cut, cover with a thick layer of flour; if no better remedy is handy.

To lessen the strain on window cords put a few drops of oil on the tiny wheel on each side of the window, or put the oil on the cord.

life so tiresome? Cheer me up. I've been looking for you."

"Then meet Chickie. She's the most refreshing thing I know. Spring violet!"

"Oh, this is Miss Bryce?" Bess Abbot gave a wan smile, tapped her lips with a very pale transparent hand. "Scuse, my dears, I only got two or three hours' sleep this morning. Can I smoke here?" She opened her case, offered it to them. "Rescue me, Janka, if they try to put me out. I'm weary."

She wore an immense solitaire on her left hand. Its setting was massed with small diamonds. "Like it? Well, I decided to take it after all. Harry's such an old pest, Janka."

Janina laughed. "So you're engaged, are you, Bess?"

"So it seems. All is monotony. By way of celebration we'll have a house party, Friday to Sunday. You won't fail me, Janka?" She turned lazily to Chickie. "Why don't you come along, Miss Bryce? We do have some riotous times."

Janina interposed. "Chickie's just hopped off a fryingpan; she may not choose to jump into the fire."

Decides to Attend

"Don't mind her, Miss Bryce. I don't give that kind of party. Very nice—mother's along. You come and bring your steady."

She finished another cigaret, took out a lipstick and brightened her lips to a vivid scarlet. It made her look more hopelessly young and tried than before.

"So I'm on my sad way again. Remember, Miss Bryce, I'll expect you."

"Chickie's steady is out of town, Bess."

"Ah, woe! Then bring your intermittent!"

Chickie was delighted with the interview. So otherwise—that bored, duchess manner.

"That's Bess—you know her. Only has about a million in her own name. Her mother and mine were chums in their wild days. The old girl stepped high. I mean the original Bess. They've a gorgeous place near the lakes. Will you bring Red?"

"I don't know. She only asked me out of politeness."

"Any time sweet Bess is polite! She'd as lief have sat there and blown smoke in your face if she took the notion. So get that out of your head. I'm glad. Now I don't feel so guilty about spoiling the yatching trip for you."

Chickie felt a tingle of gladness darting all through her nerves. She glanced over at Barry Dunne's window. She thought nervously: "He didn't ask me out over Sunday. I wonder if he made other plans."

He met her as he came from work, a high, jaunty note in his voice. "You didn't weaken? Look out, now—don't give me the disdainful sneer. I prayed for you, you dear, sweet frail. I worried for you. And you're safe!"

"I suppose, then, I'm to thank you."

Goes With Barry

"Second time, girl. I've rescued you from the paws of God knows what!"

"Does that make you any relation to me?"

"It certainly does."

Chickie burst out laughing—all at once carried along in a swinging lightness. "Does it make you my 'steady'?"

"Oh, I was that already. Steady as old Gibraltar."

"Then you're invited on a party with me. I was told to come and bring my 'steady.' If that happens to be you—why come—sir!"

He said, boyishly: "Great," and, with a wink, "I'll make you forget what you missed!"

"I'm not so sure about that, Mr. Red. I wanted it an awful lot."

"Chickie—please tell me this: Did you stay away because I wanted you to? Because I wanted you to?"

"La, la, for you, Redhead! You'd like to know!"

She felt herself suddenly alight, as though laughter broke in sparkling waves through all her veins.

"Are we on the right road, Barry? I'd hate to get lost—miss all the fun."

"Any road is a right enough road when me and me steady is on it and going good together."

He jabbed his elbow lightly against her arm. "Nice that the fair one is in such a sweet humor?"

"I always am."

"Except Tuesday of last week, 1 o'clock, precisely!"

"I had enough cause for sorrow! Now, after all my pangs, Janina says I've but jumped from the frying pan into the fire."

"Thank heaven I'm the fire in this case. Let anyone who will be the frying pan."

Steals a Kiss

"Oh, you! She meant we are to have a most risque time, isn't that riotous? Bess Abbott is awfully fascinating. She has two younger sisters—twins. Janina says they're just thrilling. Only 16, and one of them's engaged already. Bess doesn't seem to take marriage very seriously. She said the man she's to wed is just an awful pest. But they'll take a flier at it kind of impudent like."

"You got sore the other Sunday when I said marriages today didn't amount to much."

"With me it would amount to everything. I couldn't look at a thing like love breezily as though it were just a hat I was to wear for half a season and then toss aside."

"How do you look at love?" He glanced at her suddenly, his cheeks flushing. "Do you know?"

After a moment she laughed nervously. "Yes, beautiful like a sunset and lasting always. Oh, sometimes I think of love as a bright cloud sailing over mountain tops and two people—always the same, always together, sitting on it—riding and riding—always."

"But nothing lasts. We grow old. We change. It may be the most beautiful thing in the world today. It may be gone completely tomorrow. We ought to live in the present."

"Do you really think that? Who'd want your kind of love, then?"

"You spurn it, Chickie? Then I guess I'll have to climb up to your eternal cloud. Move over a bit, will ye?" He bent his head with a swift nod and before she was aware, kissed her lightly.

"You shouldn't do that, Barry."

"Why, Chickie? And you so sweet? Who could help it—let me see—Chickie, do you know how pretty you are?"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The War on Diseases Is Advancing

MILLIONS of dollars are expended annually on civic improvements and on public and private enterprises. But there is one great problem confronting mankind today, and that is prevention of illness and death.

DR. COPELAND

Notwithstanding the large sums already given annually for health promotion in the United States, a still larger sum is needed to cope with the scourge of disease. This is the conviction of great health experts.

Recently there was a convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. Some very interesting facts were given out by Dr. Henry W. Cook, vice president and medical director of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Company of Minneapolis.

First of all, he advocated the expenditure of $300,000,000 annually for the prevention of illness and death. This is a big sum, but we have a bigger problem in the work set forth.

A study was made of 67,000,000 policy holders of 52 life insurance companies in the United States. For the first 10 months of 1929 the death rate has increased from 822 per 100,000 in 1928, to 840 per 100,000 in 1929. This is a 2.3 per cent increase.

The increase in deaths from influenza alone more than covers the increase in the general death rate for the period named. There was a recurrence of this disease which bordered on an epidemic early in the year.

One of the greatest problems still unsolved today is that of the prevention of influenza, and its most common complication pneumonia. Much study and effort are being put forth to find the cause and prevention of this serious ailment. Many thousands every year are incapacitated and die from the effects of this disease.

Although a successful war has been waged against tuberculosis, typhoid fever and various diseases of children such as measles, diphtheria and diarrhea, there is still much more to be done, according to Dr. Cook. He points out that there are 95,000 deaths a year from tuberculosis, 15,000 among children from measles, scarlet fever and diphtheria, 25,000 infants die from summer diarrhea. These fatalities occur in spite of the fact that the methods of life-saving in these diseases are well known and have been proved effective.

We expend, as a nation, through organized public and private health agencies, less than 75 cents per capita for the prevention of illness. If $2.50 per capita were wisely expended, it would enable these agencies to cope with such dread diseases, and it would reduce the death rate from other preventable causes as well. This would lengthen the life span seven years, it was thought.

Surely everybody would be willing to give the small sum of $2.50 a year to insure the successful carrying out of such a program. The public must become educated to the necessity of health promotion, and it is encouraging to note the extent to which people are becoming interested in public and private health.

Answers to Health Queries

H. M. Q.—What causes tiny blisters on my feet at the first sign of warm weather?

A.—This is probably eczema. Your diet and elimination may be at fault.

Mrs. T. M. H. Q.—What do you advise for low blood pressure?

A.—This is a disturbance usually found accompanying some other condition. Proper diet and general care will usually bring about results.

J. V. S. Q.—What is the cause and what will clear up pimples on the shoulder blades?

A.—These blemishes usually denote improper diet and poor elimination. Correct your diet, avoid too many sweets and keep the system clear.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Breaking a Social Rule.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

It would please me very much if you would tell me who is right, my friend or myself, on the following.

A short time ago I received an announcement of the wedding of a cousin, addressed to Mrs. John Brown. I know my cousin's bride, but she has never met my husband. My cousin, of course, knows my husband very well. Should not the announcement have been addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Brown? I felt rather insulted and did not answer it, as I thought they should have included my husband. J. E. B.

REALLY, I can deeply sympathize with your being deeply hurt and socially discomfited. Of course the announcement should have been addressed to both you and your husband, and this would hold true even if neither had known your husband. That is one of the fundamental rules about sending formal invitations and announcements; they should be sent to both husband and wife, whether or not both are known.

Man's Place of Business

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have a boy friend who is assistant manager of a theater. He often asks me to come and see him at work. Should I accept his invitation? Should I offer to pay for my own ticket? J. B. M.

NO; don't accept this invitation. It would be undignified and a sensitive-minded person would feel very much in the way. After all, the theater is, in this case, the man's place of business, and a girl should no more go to the theater to see a man than she would go to his office.

If, at any time this man wishes to send you two tickets for his theater, and you invite someone to accompany you, this is quite all right, of course. This is done in a dignified way. But for him to make the invitation so general and so unspecified, is not showing very good taste, and is leaving you only an opportunity of coming to the theater in the awkward way of "looking him up."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 5

ACCORDNG to the sidereal operations this day should be notable for the breaking up of old crystallized conditions and obstacles to make way for substantial progress. There may be change, moving about and advancement or preferment in employment. Increase and expansion are assured in many lines of endeavor.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a year in which old obstructions and congestions may break up to make way for steady progress, advancement, promotion and financial gain. It is a time for pushing forward with persistency.

A child born on this day should be clever, and original as well as patient and industrious. It may make a splendid success of its life.

Max Carey, Former Speed Star, Shows Pirate Rookies How to Run Bases

JOCKEYING AT FIRST

For upwards of a decade, Max Carey, then outfield star of the Pirates, was the leading base-runner of the National League, regularly topping the field in the stolen bases department. It was not only his speed, but his skill in getting a lead on the pitcher that enabled him to set his fine record. Now he's back as a coach of the Corsairs, and, in the pictures above, he is demonstrating his methods to the rookies in the training camp at Paso Robles, Cal. Local fans remember what a pain in the neck Max was to all pitchers once he got on first base.

STEALING SECOND

SLIDING INTO SECOND

He'd fiddle and feint, take a lead, go back, lead, go back again, and, finally, when least expected, make a mad dash for second. Once on second, he'd turn his back toward third and back off the middle cushion in position to watch the shortstop, second baseman and pitcher and hurry back, if need be. However, once he got sufficiently far off the sack, he'd make a break for third and generally beat any sort of a throw. If he can develop another Carey as a base-runner for the Pirates he will have earned his keep aside from any other chores he may perform.

Jewish Ballers Scarce. | Anchor Nurse Recalled.
National May Have None. | Regan's Outlook Bright.

WITH COHEN GONE, GIANTS TRY WINER

UNLESS a young pitcher named Louis Winer succeeds in his spring effort at San Antonio to win a berth on the staff of the New York Giants, the National League is likely to find itself without a Jewish ball player this year, probably the first time such a situation has existed in the senior loop since before the days of Catcher Johnny Kling. The last representative of that race who remained in the senior loop in 1929 passed out when the Giants released Andy Cohen and shipped him back to the minors.

Louis Winer

John McGraw tried hard and patiently to develop Cohen into a big leaguer. Even last year Andy was used in one capacity or another in 101 games and turned in the respectable batting average of .294. But McGraw couldn't make him fit into his infield scheme of things anywhere, so he finally gave it up. Determined to have a Jewish player on his team, if possible, the Giant manager then added Winer to his squad of pitchers for the present spring training trip.

THE chances appear to be against the youngster's making good immediately, however, inasmuch as he has had only college experience. Otherwise he is promising enough. He is a native of Chicago, pitches right-handed, is 21 years old, 5 feet 11½ inches in height, weighs 170 pounds and came up from Crane College.

As stated, the National circuit will be without a Jewish player this year unless Winer comes through. All the others still in select baseball company are in the American girdle. There are only three, at that, and just one of them is a regular, he being Catcher Moe Berg, of the White Sox. One of the others is Jimmy Reese, from the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast, a candidate for the second-base job in the Yankee lineup, and the third is Al Schacht, baseball comedian and coach of the Washington Senators.

SPEAKING of Jewish ball players, one of the best ever to grace the big show has just announced his retirement from the game. Sammy Bohne, who last year was assistant to Manager Mike Kelly, of the Minneapolis club in the American Association, says he has decided to forsake baseball for a business career, having purchased an interest in a cloak and dress firm in San Francisco.

Sammy Bohne

Bohne was tried by the Cardinals in 1916 and 1917 without winning a job, but in 1921 he caught on with the Reds and remained with them until midseason of 1926, when he was transferred to the Dodgers. He played regularly at third base for Minneapolis in 1927, but was forced to give way to Elmer Yoter, Pittsburgh boy, in 1928, and then was made assistant manager.

A RECENT reference in the Sun-Telegraph to the time when the billiard powers were forced to devise the anchor ban in order to stop the original Jake Schaefer, prompts "Old Timer" to write: "It was old Jake himself who devised the anchor. The writer recalls the 18.2 tournament held in Chicago during one week of the World Fair in 1893, in which Schaefer, Frank Ives and George Slosson participated. Slosson was eliminated and the final game on Saturday night was between Schaefer and Ives. I had a front row seat in the gallery at the old Academy of Music, looking straight down upon the table, and my memory tells me that Ives had a lead of some 260 points, with but 12 to go, when Jake stepped up, his mustache bristling, got the two object balls across one of the balk lines and against the cushion, the balls being about an inch apart, and—ran out.

"I CAN see old Cap Anson, the referee, walking nervously to and fro, shifting from one foot to the other, while old Jake tirelessly and methodically, walked around that particular corner of the table, using that delicate touch of his that moved the object balls not one iota. When he had run out, Anson stepped up to the table, picked up the balls, squinted at them wonderingly, and then felt the table cloth in search of the anchor holes which he was sure must be there.

"But they weren't. And that was my first glimpse of the anchor nurse. Of course, the rest of the experts at once took it up and became equally good at it, so that it put them all back on the same plane again. And, since to use it meant merely that the shooter was going to run out, it was outlawed by the powers. That's my recollection of the old anchor nurse."

BILL REGAN, Brookline citizen, entrained late last night for Pensacola, Fla., to join the Boston Red Sox in training there. Bill

TITANS BATTLE DUKES HERE TONIGHT

Probable Lineup

Duquesne		Westminster
Ahrle	F	O'Donovan (C)
Benedict (C)	F	Delahanty
McGeever	C	Crowell
Lubic	G	Fisher
Morgenroth	G	Rice

By JESS CARVER.

When stacked up against eternity, a month isn't so very long, although it may seem an endless stretch of aching days to a chap whose "heart" has left him for that length of time. College basketball's annual parade has only a month to go, and not very strong even for that period. It is going to be over before we know it, thank goodness.

Babe O'Donovan

But tonight Pittsburgh will witness one of its feature struggles of the campaign, easily the last of a fine list of classic battles, bringing together on the Bluff court the fine varsities of Duquesne and Westminster, in a struggle out of which may arise the Tri-State Conference champion for 1929-30.

Getting away from the love theme with which we seem to have begun this epistle to the myriad folk who read this baloney, this all concerns basketball and not heartaches. The boys are going to strive mightily to settle this championship business up on the Bluff tonight, and the winner of the ball game may walk off the floor with the title safely stowed in his hip pocket.

DUKES MUST WIN

If the Dukes win, they will have to take Geneva and Thiel in other Conference tussles this week, but if the Titans take away the honors, they'll be safely in. They beat the locals at New Wilmington last week, serving Chick Davies' passers their second setback. The fact that the Dukes play one more Conference game than do the United Prebyterians will give them the winning edge if they cop tonight, and then, if Geneva and Thiel can be accounted for, the final standing will be as follows:

Duquesne	8	2	.800
Westminster	7	2	.778

The Titans can put a team on the floor here tonight that will shame even the towering Carnera. Each man will be over six feet two inches. That is rather tall. But these giants won't be used as a unit until Capt. Babe O'Donovan and Ken Delahunty have passed out of the picture, for this pair, the rackish Babe and the elusive Ken, have been thorns in the side of the Dukes for y'ars and y'ars.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD

A greater crowd than the one that watched Loyola play earlier in the campaign will cause the walls of the Dukes' gym to bulge tonight. The Titans always pack 'em in, and with the title at stake in tonight's game, the S. R. O. sign is due to be tacked up early.

The Tip-Off

Geneva and Thiel put on a second Conference act at Beaver Falls this evening. Allegheny and Grove City stash at Grove City; Fairmont Teachers meet West Virginia Wesleyan at Buckhannon, and Pitt winds up its two-game eastern trip with an important tussle with Temple University in Philadelphia.

Members of the A. Z. A. fraternity will honor Ben Lubic, star forward of the Dukes, at tonight's game with Westminster, tendering the local star a token of their appreciation of his services to his university and fraternity.

The chapters at Duquesne, Pitt, Carnegie Tech and Indiana State Teachers College will be represented.

JACKETS CLOSE SEASON

WAYNESBURG, Pa., March 4.—The Waynesburg College basketball and wrestling teams will close their seasons this evening when the Yellow Jacket floormen play Mt. St. Mary's College at Emmitsburg, Md., and the grapplers meet Gettysburg College at Gettysburg.

YESTERDAY'S EXPLANATIONS—IT RAINS INSIDE OF A WATERPROOF BUILDING — The Goodyear Zeppelin dock at Akron is the world's largest hangar. The interior air space of the hangar is 45,000,000 cubic feet, and this is sufficient to cause clouds and fog to collect on the inside as a result of a sudden change in temperature. Rain falls in sufficient quantity to form little pools of water on the floor. Officials of the United States Navy and the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation will verify this. A FISH THAT CANNOT SWIM—This fish (antennarius hispidus) is found in the Sargasso Sea, which is a vast area covered with growing plants of "gulf weeds," the weeds being held on the surface by air-filled bulbs. It has been likened to a "drowned meadow." This particular fish, which is but one of many strange marine animals found in that region, is unable to swim, but walks about in the floating weeds with arm-like fins.

TILDEN BEATS AUSTIN

MONTE CARLO, March 4.—(AP.)—Bill Tilden in the final of the Monte Carlo singles championship yesterday, trimmed Henry Austin, of England, by scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-1, demonstrating his superiority as decisively as he did in eliminating the Italian star, Baron H. L. De Morpurgo, the day before.

Miller Beats Stars In New York Meet

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.)—Leigh Miller, of the Hamilton Athletic Club, recent conqueror of Jack Elder and George Simpson, won the Marshall sprint series, feature of the Manhattan College games here last night.

Miller won the 50, 60 and 70 yard sprints of the series with Chet Bowman of the Newark A. C., second in each instance.

Pesek-Londos Title Mat Bout April 2

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 4.—(AP.)—The wrestling committee of the National Boxing Association has fixed April 2 as the date for the scheduled championship heavyweight wrestling match at Columbus, O., between John Pesek, of Nebraska, and Jimmy Londos, of Greece.

ENS ADOPTS TWO-A-DAY PROGRAM

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 4.—The two workouts-a-day plan will be adopted today by the Pirates and Manager Ens says he will make a strong effort to go through with this idea for the first time since the players landed here. The initial gambol of the entire squad was staged yesterday, but there was only one session, the morning frolic being called off on account on wet weather. The afternoon drill, however, was a darb, as Dazzy Vance would say.

Geo. Grantham

Gussie Suhr, new first sacker of the club, will go through his first sprouts today. Suhr and Outfielder Ira Flagstead reached camp a bit too late to take part in yesterday's activities, but they were both on the grounds in civilian clothes and it was in this raiment that Suhr formally met many of his new mates.

SUHR IN SHAPE

The hard-hitting first sacker is in fine fettle. Being a native son, Gus should be ready to play pretty fair ball in a week or 10 days as the climate here is to his liking. He will be stationed at first today as quickly as Manager Ens throws his first-choice infield into action.

George Grantham will be placed at secod base from now on, in the words of Skipper Ens.

"George is to play second base for the Pirates this year," said Ens with much emphasis. "I am opposed to switching him around the ball field. He showed he could play the middle bag and I am convinced that he belongs there."

ENS NOT WORRIED

Ens is not one bit worried about Dick Bartell. "Why, of course he'll be along," said Jewel. "Dick likes to play ball and a difference in salary will not keep him out. But there are some other boys there who are likely to give Bartell a battle for that short field job.

"Don't you think Ben Sankey looks pretty sweet out there? And that boy Engle is another clever infielder who can play the short position. Besides, we have Stuart Clarke, who can play most of the infield spots."

Ens intends to start his regular infield workouts with Sankey in the short field position. This move is a big compliment to the Class B star, but it is consistent in view of the circumstances. Ben has been a standout in camp.

Engle, however, will not be passed up. Skipper Ens will have him around the inner belt while the others are doing their practice stuff, it being pretty safe that he will get in his hand while the others are flipping the ball around.

The Memphis graduate has had far more experience than Sankey and it would be quite in line with baseball traditions if Ens had to call on the more experienced performer when the going becomes rough. However, Sankey has the call on the regular job at this early point of the training season, if that means anything. Mean-

The chances are rated on the boards at about two-to-one that the City League basketball championship series will be over and done with today with Fifth Avenue once again shuffling its name on the scroll of champions.

Fifth and South Hills representing respectively Section I and II, clash in the second game of the annual series on the Pitt Stadium floor this afternoon with the Uptowners and defending champs holding an edge over the Tunnelites and favored to make it two straight and enough by winning again today.

FIFTH WON FIRST

In the first contest played last Friday, Fifth had to put on a hectic second half rally to down an embattled team of Hillsmen after having trailed far in the ruck during the first two periods. Fifth was too clever and too good for the South Hills team, however, and finished up in front by a 20-16 count.

Tonight the lower bracket of the W. P. I. A. L. elimination tourney continues action with McKees Rocks, champs of Section XI, meeting New Kensington, champions of Section I, clashing on the Stadium floor.

FORD CITY BEATEN

Ford City seems doomed to first round failure in the W. P. I. A. L. title tourney. Last year the Section VI champions went down to defeat before Bill Campbell's Homestead five, eventual champs in the finals, and last night Uniontown erased the hopes of the Sheridan-coached quintet on the Pitt Stadium floor, winning by a 19-16 count.

At the end of the first period the Section VI passers led by 5 to 3, field goals by Pryor and Cook and a foul by the former giving them the edge. Uniontown tallied its points on a goal from the floor by Johns and Everhart's foul.

The rivals were tied at 9-9 at the half, Ford's three fouls Harris' goal and Everhart's foul accounting for six points for Uniontown during the second quarter. Cook sank a field goal and Bass and Pryor each counted from the foul line to score four points for Uniontown.

UNIONTOWN LEADS

Everhart and Johns tallied from the floor in the third period and the latter and Ford came from the foul line to hang up another half dozen points for the Mountaineers. Ford City's points results from Bass' goal and fouls by Ortman, Hutchinson and Bass. Bass, the clever Negro star was ejected via the four personal foul rule in the third period and Ford City seemed to go to pieces after that.

As the fourth quarter started Ford City made the mistake of banging away from too far out, especially early in the period, and then of wasting time passing when they were behind and time was growing short. Had they reversed the order of procedure they might have won the ball game. As it was Cook missed three set-up shots directly under the hoop. Ford and Everhart scored from the floor for Uniontown to put the game on ice. Ford City's points coming from the foul line, where Hutchinson and Cook made good.

Both teams had 13 chances at the foul line, Uniontown making seven good and Ford City eight. The game was well handled by Referee Walter Waite and Umpire Dr. Sykes Reed, former Pitt star. The lineup:

Uniontown (19)

Ford	f	Pryor
Everhart	f	Cook
J. Johns	c	Bass
Rankin	g	Watson
Harris	g	Hutchinson

Score by periods:

Uniontown	5	4	4	6—19
Ford City	3	6	3	4—16

Substitutes: Ford City, Hutchinson, Ortman, Wolosevich; Uniontown, Nine.

Field goals: Ford City, Pryor (two), Cook, Bass; Uniontown, Everhart 3, Johns 3, Harris. Foul goals: Ford City, Pryor 3 out of 4, Cook 1 out of 1, Bass 2 out of 2, Ortman 1 out of 1, Hutchinson 2 out of 3; Uniontown, Everhart 1 out of 2, Johns 1 out of 1, Harris 2 out of 2, Rankin 3 out of 4. Time of periods, 8 minutes. Referee—Walter Waite. Umpire—Sykes Reed.

JEANNETTE VICTOR

PHILADELPHIA, March 4 (AP.)—The basketball team of the Salesianum High School of Wilmington, Del., advanced to the third round in the high school division of the University of Pennsylvania interscholastic tournament today by defeating Pennsylvania Institute for the Deaf 32 to 24. The tournament began last Saturday and will end next Saturday.

Jeannette High showed a lot of class when it easily downed a Saunders High of Yonkers, N. Y., in a first round game 37 to 24.

At half time Jeannette had pulled away to an 18 to 11 lead and this seven-point advantage was maintained until late in the second half, when the winners pulled further ahead. The lineup:

Jeannette—37 Saunders—24

Cribbs	f	Rudge
Cassidy	f	Schaeffer
Krzyzak	c	Hart
Worrell	g	Rubin
Lejeune	g	Tupone

Score by halves:

Long's Sport Comment

said he had never felt better at time of starting for spring camp. He has taken on just enough extra weight to give him something to remove without weakening him in training and appears to be all set for a good year.

Regan played under a handicap last season. At one stage he was injured, and at another he was out of the lineup for a time owing to the death of a brother. At that, he added 24 points to his batting average of 1928, boosting his figures from .264 to .288.

Bill Regan

IN a fielding way, the Brookline lad's work has never left anything to be desired. He has been one of the steadiest second sackers in the majors, and Heinie Wagner, the new manager of the Red Sox, has already scratched second base from the list of things he may have to worry about this year. The position has been awarded to Bill without argument, and Wagner is confident he will have the best season of his career. Though Regan did not join the Red Sox until June 10, 1926, when he was obtained from Columbus for Infielder McCann and a roll of cash, Wagner will be third manager under whom he has played in Boston. Lee Fohl was pilot at that time, and Bill Carrigan was in charge during the last three seasons.

CARNEGIE TECH'S football schedule for next season is unquestionably one of the hardest, and consequently one of the most attractive from fandom's viewpoint, ever arranged for the Plaid. And the Skibos, as is well known, never have hesitated to take on the toughest opponents available.

Graduate Manager Clarence Overend has done one of his best jobs in this instance. Following the Buffalo and Thiel game, Georgia Tech, Notre Dame, Western Reserve, New York U., Pitt and W. & J. will form an array of foemen certain to press the Schenley Park boys to the limit. The slate assures Carnegie Tech's holding nation-wide attention during the season and is of a nature that will open the way for well-founded championship claims if the charges of Wally Steffen and Bob Waddell go through it successfully.

BART THE GREAT may not be the only representative of the celebrated Shires family in the main baseball tent this year. While the shrinking violet of the White Sox garden was haggling over terms with his employers, his younger brother, Leonard, beat it to San Antonio and joined the Giants for a tryout.

What is more, Manager McGraw is said to like his looks and actions, though if retained the youngster probably will have to be sent out for further experience, as thus far he has played only with semi-pro teams in Waco, Muskogee, Springfield and other towns. He is a second baseman and has shown up in promising style, though McGraw's action in calling in Melvin Ott from the outfield to play the midway cushion hardly indicates that the younger Shires is likely to be picked for regular duty.

Jimmy Britt

ANOTHER voice from the pugilistic grave! Remember Jimmy Britt? Well, James Edward, now holding a position on the San Francisco board of public works, declares that if Battling Nelson carries out his threat to try a fistic comeback, he'll do the same thing. Of course, neither of them is to be taken seriously, as Britt is 50 and Nelson is nearing 48, but their utterances recall the time when they were bitter rivals for the lightweight title. Britt and Nelson met four times from 1904 to 1908. Twice Britt won the decision in 20 rounds, once Nelson knocked him out in 18 rounds, and their fourth meeting went 10 rounds to no decision. In 1904, when Joe Gans refused to make the lightweight limit, Britt claimed the championship. His battle with Nelson in 1905 was advertised as for the title. Nelson won and then forced Gans into the famous match at Goldfield, Nev., in 1906, the first show promoted by Tex Rickard, and in which Gans won in the forty-second round on a foul. Nelson's manager, Billy Nolan, compelled Gans to weigh in at 133 pounds ringside, wearing his fighting togs. The strain of making the weight undermined the Negro to such an extent that he contracted a fatal illness, dying in 1910.

PRIMO CARNERA, forced last night in Philadelphia to go the longest distance he has yet traveled in this country, did not defeat a top-notcher by any means when he stopped Roy (Ace) Clark in the sixth round, but at least he showed more than in any previous bout. He showed the ability and spirit to keep plugging until he put his man away after being worsted in four of the six rounds. That's something in his favor. Now it's about time to make him do more for his money by sending him against a real one, George Godfrey, for instance. Such a match would produce some interesting evidence both as to the capabilities of Carnera and the present form of Godfrey.

ENS EXTENDS BUCS' DRILLS

time Engle is right close to Ben in the matter of prestige.

Manager Ens announced this morning that in the event of favorable weather in the interim, he would stand by his plan of staging the first game Friday afternoon. That would allow three full days in which to whip the new arrivals into shape. Wet weather would cause the manager to postpone the inaugural camp fight to a later date.

Chillysauce

One of the interesting developments in the Pirate training is Jake Jewitt's array of veterans. After watching the two here in a two-a-day first base, Manager Ens has come to the conclusion that O'Connell is more experienced as a possible understudy to Guerin Suhr.

Ens has taken much pains since he arrived to polish up the hard-hitting Moncrief in the art of first base play, but so far Jimmy has proved himself a hard-hitting outfielder. Alternating at the gateway with Moncrief has been O'Connell, and his movements have been found responsive to Ens. The former University of Illinois athlete played some games at first for Columbia last year and apparently he knows much about the position.

Joe Devine, colorful Pirate scout, is good for at least one wise crack a day. Some of the Pirates yesterday were discussing a certain slow ball player of previous, the complainants being quite heavy.

"He's a sweet fielder, all right," said the droll Devine, "but he couldn't hit a flock of rain drops with an umbrella."

Catcher Charley Hargreave injured a tendon in his back while taking part in the calisthenics of yesterday. He was shaved under the care of the team physician and probably will be O. K. again in a couple of days.

P. R. R. Boxing, Mat Titles Are Decided

Frankie Moran, of Homewood, stopped Tony Frante, of the Pitcairn Shops, for the only clean knockout of the final round in the boxing championships of the Pittsburgh Division, Pennsylvania Railroad, held in the Wilmerding Y. The Duquesne Lafayettes have a chance to take undisputed possession of first place in the Allegheny County League tonight when they entertain the Elizabeth Independents on the Duquesne Library floor. The Goldensons and Lafayettes at present are deadlocked for first place but the tie will be broken tonight. The champions are a tough team to solve on the small Duquesne court and they are big favorites to win the decision over Elizabeth.

FINTEX NOSED OUT

The J. J. Veronas kept their place at the top of the County League last night by nosing out Fintex 26-25 in a thriller. In the West Penn League, the Schneiders tripped the Falcons, 49-36.

The Riecks walloped Westinghouse, 50-11, and Pressed Steel defeated P. & L. E., 46 to 24, in the C. & I. circuit, while Sales and Service toppled Equitable, 56-21, and Duquesne Light nosed out Philadelphia Company, 32-21, in the Philadelphia Company League.

The Flying Dutchmen eked out a 30-29 win over St. Ann's, in the Metropolitan. The lineups:

KID WILLIAMS IN NEED IN BALTIMORE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Two of the gamest ringmen that ever drew on fighting gloves are down and out in Baltimore and awaiting a benefit show that is being arranged to give relief to them and their families.

They are Kid Williams, former bantamweight champion, and Bobby Garcia, Mexican former Army fighter. Both have boxed in Pittsburgh.

Bobby Garcia

Kid Williams

Williams was a tiger in the ring. Short and stocky, he was a tough infighter and greatly feared in his time. He won the title from Johnny Coulon and lost it to Pete Herman. He retired with some money, but put it into a billiard establishment in his home town and went broke. Recently he tried a comeback in the ring, but had to give it up.

TRUST FUND PLANNED

Garcia was a contender in the featherweight class several years ago. He was a fiery, slashing type of performer who met all of the stars of his day. He was forced to quit when commission doctors refused to pass him on the ground that he was on the verge of becoming permanently "punch-drunk."

Both Garcia and Williams have families to support and no means of livelihood. The Maryland State Boxing Commission has been keeping them for months and now Benny Franklin, the big promoter of the town, is arranging for the benefit show, the receipts of which will go into a trust fund to be doled out to the boxers' families under the supervision of the commission.

Between Rounds

Steve Carver, of Boston, who meets Tony Herrera, of Chicago, in the main bout at the New Castle Junior Boat next Monday night, outlasted Jackie Pilkington, Lodie (Kid) Kaplan, Pinky Kaufman and George Karwin, among others.

Tom Maloy and Young Baxter finally have been matched for the main bout at the Mount Temple Friday night of next week. They will meet at the mid weight of 147 pounds, a compromise. Maloy wanted the match at 147 pounds and Baxter held out for 148, and Promoter Pasquale Pirro induced them to split the difference.

Two of the preliminaries for the Howard Mayberry-Jackie Rodgers show at the Mount Temple next Friday night have been closed. Jack DeNert, of Cleveland, meets Roxy Grier, of Canton.

There we dug up a tough one for Promo Carnera at St. Louis on St. Patrick's day in the person of Chuck Wiggins, the Indianapolis veteran. Chuck is one of the toughest babies in the ring and everything is said about the Kid he should give Primo an evening of it, also.

Tom Cannon, boss boy, Billy Rice and Art De Champaigne meet on Garland Conn at 10-round bouts in New York tonight. Fidel LaBarba boxes Santiago Zorilla in Los Angeles, Matty Mario and Eddie Mac Goon clash at Fresno, Cal. Mickey Cohen takes on Joe Machado at Portland, Ore., and Red Leap boxes Tiger Snowden at Readville, Pa.

Ten good bouts make up the card for the annual amateur boxing show of Pittsburgh Council, Knights of Columbus, in the Mount Temple tonight, as follows: Eddie Sage vs. Sparky Exalt, Tony Martino vs. Lawrence Lyons, Don Aslo vs. George Julius, Freddie Smith vs. Samuel Villa, Joey Sabatino vs. Stanley Slater, Dick Pritchard vs. Bill Hermann, Charley Cocatta vs. Al Becker, Bill Minor vs. John Price, Mike Chomick vs. Harry Turner and A. Galloway vs. Joey Sarasone.

Jimmy Goodrich, former lightweight champion and Madison Dix, of Seattle, book up in San Francisco Thursday night.

Gorilla Jones and Meyer Grace box the main bout of a show at Akron, March 14. Chet Smallwood and Johnny Rich are in one of the preliminaries.

Tex Myers, Former Minor Star, Dies

ALTOONA, Pa., March 4.—Stricken ill after finishing his night's work as a Pennsylvania patrolman, Harry (Tex) Myers, 48, well-known former minor league baseball player, died late last night while talking to R. O. Garmen, a friend. Myers played in the O. and P. Tri-State and Mid-Atlantic leagues, being a first baseman.

ED KEELEY BREAKS ARM, LOSES TO ROCCO

GIZZY STOPS ED O'DOWD; PANKA WINS

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 4.—The benefit boxing show at the Jolly Bowl for the widow of the late Joe Cumo, manager of Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City heavyweight, last night drew a big crowd in spite of cold weather. The main go of 10 scheduled rounds with Emmett Rocco, Ellwood City, and Ed Keeley, of Bridgeport, Conn., went only five rounds, Keeley being unable to respond for the sixth round because of an injury to the left arm. Examination by physicians showed a bone broken in the arm near the elbow. Rocco was the aggressor throughout and gained a technical knockout over Keeley. The injury was sustained at the close of the fifth round.

In the scheduled six round semi-final K. O. Huske, of Akron, won by a technical knockout from Henry Attell, of Youngstown, in the third round.

Don Davis, of Youngstown, won the decision in six rounds from Eddie Flick, of New Castle. Jackie King, of Wampum, and Tommy O'Boyle, of Akron, went six rounds to a draw.

The bowl and employes donated their services, as did Rocco.

GIZZY STOPS O'DOWD

WHEELING, W. Va., March 4.—(AP.)—Battling Gizzy, Washington, Pa., knocked out Eddie O'Dowd, Columbus, O., in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round fight here last night. Eddie substituted for his brother, Mike, who fractured a hand in training yesterday afternoon.

Jackie Herman, Wheeling, won easily from Fritz Anderson, Pittsburgh, in six rounds.

Charles Baxter, Columbus, took a decision from Frankie Nanci, Pittsburgh, in six rounds.

PANKA STOPS WELLS

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 4.—Big Boy George Panka, 195, of Homestead, knocked out Jack Wells, 182, of Wellsburg, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round main bout at the Coliseum here last night. Wells had the best of the first two stanzas but ran into a right cross in the third which ended the match.

Jackie Wilson, 156, Newark, N. J., knocked out Paddy Stewart, 151, of Canton, in the second round of a scheduled eight-round semi-final. Judy Marez, 130, of Charleroi, defeated Bad News Taylor, 132½, of Donora, in six rounds, and Sammy Paris, 128, of Pittsburgh, defeated Bobby Burns, 125½, of Swissvale, in six rounds in the preliminaries.

FIRPO-KELLY DRAW

MEADVILLE, Pa., March 4.—Henry Firpo was given a draw verdict here last night in his 10-round main bout with K. O. Kelly, Akron Negro, but the decision was not popular with the fans. When the judges split on the verdict, Eddie Kennedy, referee, called it a draw. Ringsiders thought Kelly had an edge in the fighting.

Nick Severo carried off a six-round decision over Johnny Mochock in the semi-final. In the second bout Dick Anthony won on a technical knockout over Billy Wicks, the beaten boxer being unable to respond for the third round. Butch McCray won the opener on a technical knockout, stopping Tommy Watson in the first round.

Fight Results

JACK SCOTT SIGNS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 4.—(AP.)—While the New York Giants had morning and afternoon workouts here yesterday, Jack Scott signed his 1930 contract.

Sport Vignettes

The Sharkey-Scott fight at Miami was a swell washup all the way 'round, it seems . . . . Not only Philip, the Fearless, but also Sharkey and Referee Magnolia and the Madison Square Garden Corporation have come out of the mess badly faded . . . . Phil is condemned for his penchant for yelping foul on the slightest provocation, Sharkey for losing his head as he did, the referee for vaccilating in the pinch and the Garden Corporation for putting on the thing in the first place . . . . It seems to us that too little blame has been fastened on the really guilty parties, the New York Athletic Commission, which ordered the elimination, and Jimmy Johnston, Scott's manager, who set the stage for the fiasco in the ring with his eternal popping-off . . . . That Johnston got Magnolia's goat cannot be denied . . . . But for the fact that he was forestalling a chance for an alibi squawk by Johnston, Magnolia likely would have been more like his usual masterful self in the battle . . . . Sharkey reverted to type in that he fought like one of those celebrated dunderheads and almost kicked himself out of the running for the heavyweight title by risking disqualification . . . . With all of the preliminary babble about a possible cry of foul by Scott and his entourage, one would think that Sharkey would have used his head a bit and not given the Englishman a chance to pull his customary act . . . . He could have done that by keeping his punches up . . . . Phil obviously was a beaten man before he entered the ring and Sharkey could have knocked him out cleanly with punches to the head that would have left no doubt of his superiority . . . . But, then, this isn't the first time Sharkey has messed up a fight . . . . He had Dempsey knocked out in the first round of their battle in New York a few years ago and then fought about as stupid a scrap as could be imagined to go out himself in the seventh round . . . . All he had to do against Dempsey was to box and keep moving and play it safe and old Jack would have collapsed on his tottering old legs . . . . Sharkey's seconds told him as much, but he ordered them to keep quiet . . . . Said, in effect, that the Great Sharkey Man was a smart fellow and knew what he was doing . . . . And, besides, who in blazes was fighting this fight, anyway? . . . . A guy like that doesn't merit any sympathy . . . . If he has any tough luck it generally is of his own making . . . . Here is a man who has been blessed with the perfect fighting equipment to become a world champion and seemingly it will require a miracle to keep him from booting away his chances . . . . He has only Max Schmeling ahead of him now, and, if he fights as he can against the German, he is a lead pipe cinch to cop . . . . But will he? . . . . Ah, that's a question, and one of the biggest crowds in the history of boxing will turn out to gaze upon the answer when the pair clash at the Yankee Stadium, in New York, June 26, for the benefit of the New York Milk Fund, of which Mrs. William Randolph Hearst is chairman . . . . Senator W. I. (Joe) Goss, supt., of our composing room forces, is just in from a vacation trip to Miami . . . . He's all tanned, but not from the Sharkey fight, which he very cleverly avoided.

O'DOUL SIGNS PHIL TERMS

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 4.—(AP.)—Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, kingpin of National League hitters last season, wired Burt Shotten today he had signed his contract and is leaving for the Philadelphia National League training camp here immediately.

Chuck Klein, the young home run hitter, now is the only regular of the team who is said to have withheld his signature to a 1930 contract. Pinkie Whitney, third baseman, who had been referred to as a holdout, has signed his contract.

NEW ICE ARENA DOUBTFUL

Announcement that the Pittsburgh Hockey Club would interest Pittsburgh, New York and Philadelphia capital in the construction of a $1,500,000 sports arena here in the event that assurance is given the proposed new Town Hall will not be built within five years was received with skepticism by local sports enthusiasts today.

The announcement, it is recalled, is very similar to one made by Benny Leonard when he took over the local National Hockey League franchise two years ago. The Leonard announcement never advanced beyond the announcement stage, and, as a result, construction work will have to be started before the repeated cry of "wolf" is taken seriously.

A. B. C. Tournament Leaders Unchanged

CLEVELAND, March 4.—(INS.)—The leading tournament score of 2,729 still stood intact today as 95 five-men Cleveland booster teams prepared to assault the maples this afternoon and tonight in the fourth session of the American Bowling Congress here.

Only two booster crews found berths in the Congress standings yesterday. They are the Mayfield Electrics, who tallied a total of 2,629—100 pegs behind the leading Cleveland Hardware Shipping Room quintet—to land fifth place, and the Parkside Movers, who went into ninth place with a total of 2,605.

Purdue Clinches Big Ten Floor Championship

CHICAGO, March 4.—(INS.)—Purdue University's brilliant basketball machine today ruled as undisputed champions of the Western Conference, thus bringing the second major sports title of the year to the Wabash School.

Leaping the last hurdle on their road to the championship, the Boilermakers last night defeated the University of Michigan five by a 44-to-28 score.

PIE TRAYNOR ORDERED TO SLOW DOWN

By Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, March 4.—The perennial rookie of the Pirates today was the target of a severe lecture by Manager Jewel Ens.

For something like eight years, Harold Joseph Traynor has been coming to a Buccaneer camp to see youngsters and veterans fighting for every position on the diamond with the exception of the well-known hot corner.

Through all these years, eager and ambitious performers have given third base a very wide berth. You will not find the same condition on any club in the country, yet it is a fact that third-base in the Pirate camp is avoided.

PIE ENTHUSIASTIC

The singular thing is that Traynor has a rather perilous habit of diving into his work right at the outset in a manner to indicate that a flock of pretenders were ready to grab his job. The result is that Pie generally comes up with a very sore arm about the third day in camp, the injured member having a tendency to cramp his style at the end of the race.

Skipper Ens has been a part of the Pirate entourage for many years and he knows Pie like a book. Perhaps Jewel's caution will have been in vain, but Ens has pondered the thing and he should at least get credit for being smart in the matter.

"If I can keep that guy off third base for a few days, and at the same time let him warm up gradually until his arm becomes strong, I might be able to save Pie and the club a lot of trouble," said Jewel.

AIMS TO HELP STAR

"Just as sure as I start hitting grounders, Pie will cut loose with those throws to first," continued Ens. "I am going to try to keep Clarke around the bag most of the time for the next few days. I cannot be sure that this will stop Traynor, but its worth trying. Anyhow, I know that he has been a sore-arm member of the camp for many years, owing to his tendency to cut loose on the first day."

Traynor really should do what Ens wants him to do without being told, but the spirit dominates him as soon as the balls begin to leave the bat. Two or three long shots across the diamond without the right sort of preparation is very bad business, but some rookies will not learn. And Pie remains a rookie, it would seem.

DUNDEE BEATS TRIPPE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 4.—(AP.)—Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, formerly welterweight champion, punched his way to a decisive victory over Joe Trippe, of Mount Morris, New York, in a 10-round bout here last night.

Representatives of five colleges in Western Pennsylvania are participating today in a field day program under the auspices of the Women's Athletic Association of the Uniontown Center of the University of Pittsburgh at Uniontown. Miss Seeman is chairman and Miss Cohen sub-chairman of the event.

MAXIE TO 'EXHIBIT'

BERLIN, March 4.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling, Germany's heavyweight champion, today signed a contract for a fourth exhibition tour which will cover 14 German cities. He plans to sail for the United States early in May to meet Jack Sharkey in the title fight in June, which is expected to determine the world heavyweight champion.

SUTTON TAKES LEAD

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP.)—George Butler Sutton, 66-year-old former world 18.2 balkline billiard champion, last night inaugurated his comeback attempt with a 200-to-173 victory over Percy N. Owens, Chicago, in the first block of their 400-point match.

The New York Rangers and the Chicago Hawks will hold the spotlight in the National Hockey League this evening when the second-place rivals, now deadlocked for that position, meet in Chicago.

The Pirates, who have closed their home season and who dropped a 3-0 decision to the Hawks Sunday night, will not be called upon to swing into action again until Saturday, when they will renew hostilities with the Chicagoans in Fort Erie, Ont., in a game originally scheduled for Pittsburgh.

The Montreal Maroons will appear at Ottawa, the New York Americans at Toronto and Les Canadiens at Boston in other battles tonight.

ROSIES TOP WRECKERS

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 4.—The Cleveland Rosenblums whipped the Clarksburg Wreckers, 46 to 37, in an exhibition game here last night.

Carnera Stops Ace Clark in Sixth Round

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight sensation, continued his knockout record last night by sending Roy (Ace) Clark, towering Philadelphia Negro, to slumberland in the sixth round of their scheduled 10-round fight at the Arena. Carnera weighed 272 pounds; Clark 234½.

Clark was the Italian giant's eighth straight knockout victim since he began his American ring career a few weeks ago. Clark won the distinction of being the first of Primo's foemen to stand up under his crushing punches beyond the second round.

In the fifth Clark bounced two hard rights off Primo's left eye and it was tightly closed and swollen to the size of an egg when they resumed hostilities in the sixth. Between rounds the club physician indicated it might be necessary for Carnera to quit, but the Italian shook his head and shouted, "No, no!"

The damaged eyelid was lanced and drained immediately after the bout and ice packs were applied to reduce the swelling.

MURGIA LEADS PAPLINSKI

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—(AP.)—James Murgia, Philadelphia, led George Paplinski, Erie, Pa., by 909 pins last night at the end of the first half of their 30-game bowling match, advanced as a state championship contest. Murgia rolled up a total of 3,348 in the 15 games for an average of 226, and Paplinski scored 2,439 for an average of 171. The second half of the match will be played in Erie Sunday.

LEAGUES MEET TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

The West Penn and Central Pittsburgh Baseball Leagues will meet this evening at Honus Wagner's store to complete pre-season arrangements. All managers will come prepared to post forfeits, and there is reason to feel that an eight-club loop will operate in each case.

Homestead Ace, Verona, Universal, North Braddock Wilmerding, Chewick and other clubs will form the base of the West Penn, while Roosevelt, Pintex, Etna Furnaces, Pittsburgh Typos, Union Pressmen, Jimmy Coslettes and Y. M. H. A. will furnish the guiding power of the Central.

The City League closed its roster last night with eight clubs. The Jimmy Smiths and W. O. W. are new members. Forfeits were posted by five of the managers.

Many Local Teams Entered in A. B. C.

Pittsburgh district teams begin rolling in the A. B. C. tournament at Cleveland, which opened last Saturday night, on March 23, the official program for the event, just received here, reveals. The last of the local teams rolls March 31. The tournament closes early in April.

Thirty-five five-men teams from the Pittsburgh Association alone will compete and many others are entered from the tristate district.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

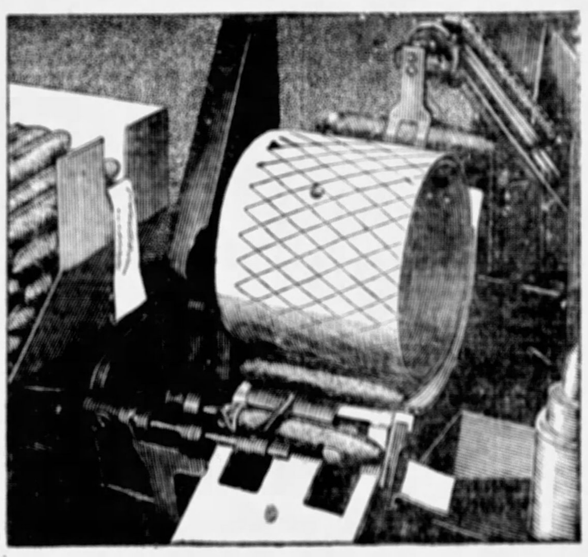
To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

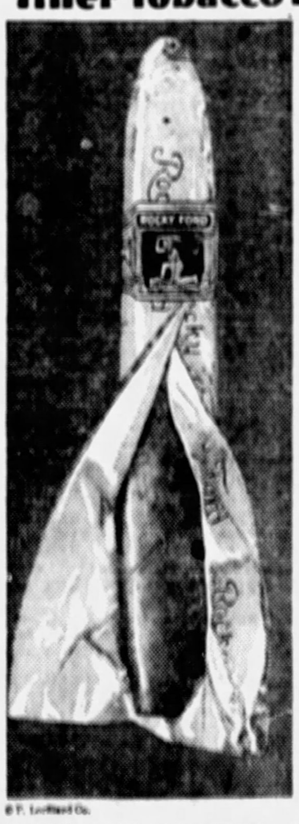
By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

The 5¢ CIGAR with the 50% finer tobacco





...because 5 ROCKY FORDS are rolled where 1 was rolled before

No human hand ever rolled a cigar as smoothly as this whirling drum. Nor half so swiftly! Nor half so cleanly! Enormous electric machines as spick and span as an electric toaster, make ROCKY FORD from tip to tip.

Without the touch of human hands from the time the tobacco goes into the machines until the finished cigar comes out, ROCKY FORD gains in purity . . . saves in labor costs. And the savings are invested in finer tobaccos . . . in ROCKY FORD'S choice domestic long filler and genuine imported Sumatra wrapper. If you like a mild, smooth, 100% long-filler cigar—make ROCKY FORD your smoking program.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Head Upward — Arkansas Gas Higher

STRONG BUYING TURNS STOCKS UPWARD

Early Declines of 1 to 5 Points Cut When Long List of Issues Advance

NEW YORK, March 4.—(AP.) — The stock market turned upward after an early period of irregularity today when strong buying support developed in a rather wide assortment of industrials and public utilities. Early declines of 1 to nearly 5 points in the active shares were nearly obliterated by early afternoon when a long list of issues were selling 1 to nearly 7 points above yesterday's final quotations. J. I. Case was the spectacular individual feature, soaring 19¼ points to 261, or more than double the low price established in the break last fall. The stock sold as high as 509 last year.

Early selling was inspired largely by the renewed weakness of the commodity markets. May cotton futures breaking below 15 cents a pound to within a few points of the record low established last week while wheat futures dropped about 2 cents a bushel before the decline was checked by short covering.

MONEY STEADY

Call money held steady at 4 per cent, but the supply of funds was so plentiful that a shading of the rate in the outside market was expected. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet, with rates unchanged.

While several of the large commission houses continued to urge caution in the making of new commitments, the strong resistance shown by many stocks to selling pressure encouraged a resumption of pool operations. Declarations of the regular dividend on Kennecott Copper was believed to foreshadow similar action by other leading producers and quieted fears that the recent curtailment of operations would result in lower dividend payments. The annual dividends on United Light and Power class A and class B stocks were increased from 60 cents to $1.

Boston and Maine, which dropped 9 points last week on the traditional "selling on the good news" following the resumption of dividends, rallied 6½ points. Worthington Pump and Advance Rumely preferred were each marked up more than 5 points.

NEW 1930 HIGHS

International Business Machines advanced 4 points to 180, and Underwood-Elliott-Fisher, 2¾ to 129¾, both new highs for the year. Eastman Kodak was marked up 4½ points and United Carbon, Standard Gas and Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Interborough Rapid Transit, Crex Carpet and Columbian Carbon moved up 3 points or more, the last two attaining new peaks for the year.

Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, Brooklyn Manhattan Transit, Marmon Motors, Houston Oil and the Oliver Farm Equipment issues also reached new high ground. Nash Motors sank to another new low for the year.

Auburn and Cord Shipments Higher

CHICAGO, March 4.—Auburn and Cord shipped 1,750 cars in February, an increase of 100 over January of this year. The companies, as of the first of March, were 500 cars behind in unfilled orders for convertible cabriolets and phaetons. The March outlook is reported to be favorable and in several parts of the country is expected to run ahead of last year.

Hudson Motor Co. reports February shipments of 19,983 units, against 36,482 for February, 1929, and 18,948 for January, 1930.

Bituminous Coal Production Down

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Mild weather and Lincoln's Birthday celebration alike combined to decrease national coal production in the latest week for which the Mines Bureau has completed estimates. Total output in tons of bituminous coal for the week and comparable periods follow: Week ending February 22, 9,506,000; preceding week, 10,224,000; same week last year, 11,752,000.

Daily Average Oil Production Lower

TULSA, Okla., March 4.—The Oil and Gas Journal today reported the total daily average production for the week as 2,619,193 barrels, compared with 2,699,096 barrels for the week ending February 22. The total decrease in light oil was 84,146 barrels.

California production fell off 66,000 barrels daily, the chief loss being 50,000 barrels registered in the Santa Fe Springs deep drilling area.

Leading Refiners Cut Sugar Prices

NEW YORK, March 4.—Leading sugar refiners today reduced the price of the refined product 10 points to 4.85 cents a pound. The action by the majority of the refiners followed announcement of a cut by Revere Sugar early this morning.

The 4.85 cents price is the lowest for refined sugar this year and is within 10 points of the 1929 low.

Metal Market.

LONDON, March 4.—Standard, copper, spot, £67 17s 6d; future, £67 15s; electrolytic, spot, £82 10s; future, £84 5s. Tin, spot, £186 15s; future, £188. Lead, spot and future, £18 15s. Zinc, spot, £18 15s; future, £18.

Forbes

Increases in Dividends Are Still Numerous

—By B. C. FORBES—

FAVORABLE dividend announcements so far this year have substantially succeeded those of the first two months of last year.

February just fell short of equalling last year's high record for the second month of any year. Last month brought 117 favorable announcements against 126 in February, 1929.

Twenty-four companies, however, took unfavorable dividend action last month contrasted with only 11 twelve month ago.

Immediately after the stock panic there was a rather general effort among the most powerful corporations to take helpful dividend action, with the idea of checking panicky sentiment. November brought a greater number of enlarged dividends than any earlier month; December announcements far eclipsed all records. January, too, maintained a very encouraging pace, with 172 changes for the better against only 120 the first month of last year.

This abnormal influence has ceased. A rational measure of confidence in the future of both business and securities has been established. Therefore, no artificial stimulus is now considered necessary.

IT IS improbable that the current year will bring as many increased dividends as last year did. Not only was the business pace distinctly better then than it is now, but the unexampled advance in stocks naturally had an influence upon many boards of directors. The general disposition now is to operate cautiously. Buying in almost every direction is strictly hand-to-mouth. Except for carrying out pledged building programs, there is no widespread disposition to spend large sums which can be husbanded. Consequently, conservatism probably will be exercised in the matter of enlarging disbursements to stockholders during coming months.

The total of initial dividends last year was greatly swelled by the advent of investment trusts. Since stocks collapsed, the organizing of such companies has practically ceased. Indeed, the total amount of capital invested in them today has decreased rather than increased because numbers of companies have reduced their capital obligations through purchases in the open market, which have since been retired.

AMONG the better-known companies that declared extra dividends during February were: Standard Oil of New Jersey, Standard Oil of Nebraska, Eastman Kodak, National Lead, Atlantic Refining, Curtis Publishing, Mergenthaler Linotype, Wagner Electric, Chesebrough, South Penn Oil, Quaker Oats, Budd Wheel, Prairie Pipe Line.

Increased disbursements were announced by such well-known companies as Burroughs Adding Machine, Pacific Fire Insurance, Paramount-Famous-Lasky, Bush Terminal, Matson Navigation, Coca Cola, American Writing Paper, Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies S. S.

APRIL 1 dividend payments always are relatively heavy, entailing abnormal demands on the money market. Money is now so plentiful, however, that the effect at the end of this month is likely to be light.

Commission Opens New R. R. Test Case

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Its first attempt to apply the "excess earnings" clause of the transportation act overthrown by the Supreme Court, the Interstate Commerce Commission today made a new approach to its problem of collecting from the railroads the "excess earnings" as defined by law.

The commission today tentatively ordered the Brimstone Railroad and Canal Company, a small line in Louisiana built by the Union Sulphur Company and now no longer in operation, to pay $260,345.61 to the treasury as excess profits for the years 1920 to 1925, inclusive. The Brimstone Company has voluntarily paid in $42,642.21 on this account, and will be given opportunity to protest against the extra charge.

New York Building Gains in February

NEW YORK, March 4.—Construction contracts awarded in metropolitan area of New York during February totaled $76,072,000, against $69,220,500 in January, up 10 per cent, according to F. W. Dodge Corporation. This compares with total of $63,147,700 in February, 1929. Increase is 20 per cent.

For first two months of year total is $145,292,900, against $154,066,900 in 1929 period, off 6 per cent.

Nation Producing Too Much Gasoline

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The nation is producing too much gasoline and there is great danger of waste in increasing gasoline stocks, the Federal Oil Conservation Board announced today.

The board suggested as a method of curtailment that the petroleum refining industry work six days instead of seven.

Governors of the three great oil producing states—Texas, Oklahoma and California—were asked to call attention to the danger of waste that lies in increasing gasoline stocks.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 4.—Price trends on the Curb Market generally turned upward after confused and irregular movements during the early hours of trading today. Some of the oil and natural gas stocks were in strong demand, but shares in other sections of the list were mostly inclined to drift without decided direction.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

NICKEL PROFITS HIGHER

NEW YORK, March 4.—The International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., reported net profit for 1929 of $22,235,996, compared with $12,375,703 for the previous year. The figures for 1928 do not reflect the inclusion of the Mond Nickel Company. The 1929 net, after preferred dividends, was equivalent to $1.47 per share of common stock, issued or issuable, totaling 13,758,208 shares, as compared with $1.05 per share for 1928 on 11,258,208 shares.

The International Nickel report was notable in that it disclosed for the first time the extent of the proven ore reserves of this company, which controls more than 90 per cent of the known supply in the world. Proven reserves total 202,620,000 short tons of ore. The high grade ore at the present annual rate of consumption indicates a supply to last for 25 years.

Reymer's Nets $1.44 A Share for 1929

Reymer & Bros., Inc., reports for 12 months ended December 31, 1929, net profit after expenses, depreciation, reserve for federal income taxes, etc., of $144,583, equal to $1.44 a share on 100,000 shares no par value stock.

PAGES OF SALESMANSHIP

It is said that the first advertisers were the Kings of ancient civilizations who exploited themselves by means of picture writing on the walls of their palaces. In later ages, heralds, town criers and "sandwich men" became the media of advertising. Thus, with all its modern accoutrements, advertising is a heritage of ancient practices.

The pages of magazines and newspapers are replete with the advertising of household products . . . Each advertisement is a sales message reaching into thousands and even millions of homes, a task practically impossible were the advertiser dependent upon the personal calls of salesmen.

American industry owes much to advertising, for mass production is practicable only where there is mass demand and mass demand is created by advertising.

Pittsburgh can point with pride to its advertising agencies. Professionally, they are equal to the best, and capable of performing any advertising task required of them. Pittsburgh industries are thus fortunate in having excellent advertising service at their very doors, an advantage advertisers cannot afford to overlook.

BARNSDALL CORPORATION

1929 — Eleventh Annual Report — 1929

To the Stockholders:

The Eleventh Annual Report of Barnsdall Corporation and its Subsidiary Companies covering the year ending December 31, 1929 is submitted herewith.

CAPITAL STRUCTURE: There have been no material changes in the capital structure of the Corporation since the last annual report. All of the bonds of Barnsdall Corporation have been retired.

OPERATIONS: Overproduction of petroleum in the industry continued and stocks increased at a rapid rate throughout the year. Conservation efforts encountered serious resistance during the early part of the year. Toward the end of the year, however, production of crude petroleum was approximately balanced with consumption. The Refining Division of the oil industry is in an unsatisfactory condition, prices for refined products at the refineries being generally unfavorable. Because of the conditions existing in the refined oil markets, the Corporation's Refineries were operated during the past year at only about 50% of their capacity.

As a result of unstable conditions, operations of the Corporation have been carried on in harmony with "proration" programs in effect in various fields. As an instance of the Corporation's co-operation in this movement, the Barnsdall-Rio Grande properties at Elwood Terrace, Santa Barbara, California, have an actual flow of 45,000 barrels per day, but under the proration agreement only 20,667 barrels are being produced. Operations in other fields were also reduced to a great extent.

Competent engineers report the proven oil reserves under the properties of the Corporation to be greatly in excess of any heretofore reported.

Realizing the growing importance of retail and wholesale marketing outlets for the refined products of the Corporation, the distributing division facilities have been increased through purchase of an 81% interest in The Brownell Corporation, with headquarters at Sioux Falls, South Dakota. This unit operates twenty-nine bulk stations and thirty-six retail service stations in Iowa and South Dakota and is gradually extending its operations in line with the general policy of the Corporation. The Corporation has also added six bulk stations and twenty-eight service stations to its distributing system in the States in which it has heretofore operated, the total facilities in this department being as follows:

State	Bulk Stations	Service Stations—Owned	Service Stations—Leased	Total Stations
Arkansas	22	12	23	57
Illinois	6	5	5	16
Kansas	17	17	103	137
Missouri	40	11	120	171
Oklahoma	10	69	31	110
Total (Barnsdall) Stations	115	94	282	491
Brownell Corporation	29	28	4	61
Grand Total	182	122	286	590

The Land and Geological Department has been active in protecting future operations of the Company. Due to expiration of leases, or as a result of drilling having indicated that the area would be unproductive, a total of 56,000 acres was surrendered. Carefully selected leases were purchased through the various prospective fields, aggregating 140,000 acres, with a net increase in unoperated acreage of over 80,000 acres as compared with that at the end of 1928.

During the year, subsidiary companies completed 111 wells, of which 70 were oil wells, 3 were gas wells and 38, unproductive. The daily average net production during the year 1929 was 27,581 barrels, compared with 25,919 barrels in 1928. Of the 1929 production, less than 1% was in the heavy oil class.

A summary of acreage and wells in which the Corporation and its subsidiaries owned interests on December 31, 1929, follows:

	Oil & Gas Wells	ACREAGE—Operated	ACREAGE—Unoperated
Arkansas	174	3,301.26	1,020.00
California	13	172.00	4,330.49
Indiana	72	170.00	80.00
Kansas	136	2,692.00	130,326.37
Louisiana			215.00
New Mexico			29,771.00
Oklahoma	1,705	34,880.10	80,848.72
Ohio	184	3,301.04	826.00
Pennsylvania	751	4,353.50	139.75
Texas	177	4,519.00	91,583.84
West Virginia	114	22,327.93	4,810.74
	3,053	75,866.91	333,174.41

The several subsidiary companies produced the following products during the year:

Natural Gas (M Cu. Ft.)	8,851,810
Crude Oil—Net Barrels	10,094,105
Casinghead Gasoline—Gallons	21,736,632
Refined Petroleum Products—Gallons	322,324,704
Refined Petroleum Products (Coke—Tons)	7,776
Tripoli Sales (Tons)	47,123

Gross sales of all products for the year amounted to $31,285,004.14, an increase of $2,200,172.95. Net Income for the year after all expenses, including interest and taxes, amounted to $14,327,501.91, as compared with $10,717,092.47 in the preceding year. After deducting depreciation, depletion and development charges of $7,123,177.73 and adjusting losses applicable to minority interests, the balance applicable to the outstanding stock of the Corporation was $7,205,161.56, as compared with $4,039,861.00 for the preceding year. The net earnings for 1929 were equivalent to $3.20 per share on 2,247,602 shares (including 31,100 shares purchased by the Corporation during the latter part of the year), as compared with $1.13 per share on an average number of shares outstanding during the preceding year of 1,288,592 shares. All drilling and intangible development costs incurred during the year, amounting to $2,686,704.50, were charged against earnings.

Attention is called to the fact that reserves set aside out of earnings for the year for depletion and depreciation have been more than sufficient to cover all additions to property account during the year. The ratio of net current assets to net current liabilities on December 31, 1929, was 4.36 to 1.

The average price received by the Corporation for its crude production in 1929 was $1.42 per barrel, compared to $1.38 in 1928 and 1927.

Other statistical data on the operations of Barnsdall which may be of interest follow:

Number of Employees	2,421
Number of Tank Cars Owned or on Purchase Contract	1,081
Autos, Trucks and Tractors Owned	618
Miles of Pipeline	618
Number of Pump Stations	19
Crude Storage Capacity (Barrels)	2,317,900
Refined Oil Storage Capacity (Barrels)	1,039,711

Stockholders of the Corporation increased during the last quarter of 1929 from 8,433 to 11,018—a gain of 38%.

Consolidated Balance Sheet and Statement of Income of Barnsdall Corporation, including all of its subsidiary companies fully owned or controlled, are appended.

E. B. REAGAN, President

By order of the Board of Directors,
M. C. BRUSH, Chairman.

Ward's February Sales Show Decrease of 1.3 Per Cent.

FEBRUARY sales of Montgomery Ward could hardly have been fully up to expectations if recent strength in the stock was based, as reported, on the showing which was anticipated. Actual sales last month totaled $18,405,885, a drop of $250,000, or 1.3 per cent as compared with February, 1929, while for the two months sales were almost identical, totaling $36,736,998 this year, or 0.13 per cent under the same period last year. The decline in February sales marked the first interruption to a steady upward trend since March and April of 1928, when sales then fell below the same months of 1927.

Conditions in the oil industry generally speaking, may not be all that the leaders would desire. Yet the fact remains that well managed companies do not appear to be finding it difficult to make both ends meet. At least that is the impression one would draw from the showing of Humble Oil and Refining Company controlled by Standard Oil of New Jersey. The Humble statement for last year disclosed a profit of $32,535,000, which is only half the story, the company having made deductions from earnings of approximately the same amount, about $32,000,000 to cover intangible costs, depletion and depreciation. Moreover, dividend payments at the rate of $2 a share, called for barely $6,000,000 so that some $26,000,000 was carried to surplus, bringing that item to around $97,000,000 of the equivalent of $131 for every $100 of capital stock outstanding.

THE leading oils and the utilities having large natural gas resources were bid up rather strenuously during the day on the growing theory that such companies will have much in common as the use of natural gas expands. The air was full of gossip concerning the possibilities of this company and that in consequence of the growing trend toward greater utilization of natural gas. This line of reasoning apparently has its basis in the huge natural gas project reported under negotiation which it is believed will bring closer affiliation between such large organizations as the Electric Bond and Share Company and the Standard Oil interests. Electric Bond and Share enters the picture through the Electric Power and Light Corporation, with which it is affiliated, and Standard Oil of New York, through the Magnolia Gas Company, subsidiary of Magnolia Petroleum.

Wall street is already estimating the first quarter earnings of the United States Steel Corporation at around $3.25 a share, but interests in the organization are not willing to make a prediction. January made a satisfactory showing, but February is not expected to be as good when final returns have come in for there were three less working days. Much depends upon the current month, and it is yet too early to estimate the results.

DESPITE the Fox difficulties, other leading motion picture stocks continue to move gradually forward. This is particularly true of Warner Bros. and Paramount. The bulk of the buying in Warner Bros. is attributed to a group headed by a former automobile "giant," while another report is that a large public utility corporation is taking an interest in the market movements of the stock. These reasons advanced for the strength in the shares, although far-fetched, may have some basis in fact.

Abandonment of the plan for a merger of American Rolling Mill and Gulf States might bring some selling into the latter because there was speculative buying in the issue recently on the theory that competition to accumulate the stock was in progress. Interests identified with the company are uncertain as to the outcome of the plan of the Republic Steel to get control of Gulf States.

Studebaker Earns $5.53 on Common

NEW YORK, March 4.—The report of Studebaker Corporation and subsidiaries, including Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, for year ended December 31, 1929, shows net profit of $11,928,261 after depreciation, interest and federal taxes, equivalent after deduction of Pierce-Arrow class "A" minority interest and preferred dividends on the Studebaker and Pierce-Arrow preferred stocks to $5.53 a share on 1,961,358 no par shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the year.

Net profit in the previous year, excluding Pierce-Arrow, amounted to $13,947,181, or $7.16 per share on 1,875,000 shares outstanding.

Montgomery Ward's Feb. Sales Decline

CHICAGO, March 4.—(AP.)—Montgomery Ward & Co., sales for the month of February were $18,405,885, a decrease of $249,385, or 1.34 per cent from the corresponding month of 1929.

Sales for the first two months of 1930 were $36,736,998, compared with $36,784,106, in the same period of 1929. This was a decrease for the two months of $47,108, or .13 per cent.

Montgomery Ward has 550 retail stores in operation, while a year ago the chain comprised about 200 stores.

Low Costs Predicted For Loree Line

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad, which L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, is seeking to build from Pittsburgh to Easton, will be the first long distance piece of railroad construction ever placed through a dense traffic section with modern equipment sufficient to handle the traffic of a major trunk line from the start.

All the existing eastern trunk lines have been formed by the consolidation of many small railroad units. These were built years ago to handle a small volume of local traffic. They were designed without any appreciation of the part they would some day play in large scale, long distance transportation. Enormous sums are constantly being spent on modernization of these lines, but they are still hampered by the fact that they pass over routes surveyed before anyone realized the future of American transportation.

But the proposed new line is to be built through 283 miles of highly developed territory. It will have connections with most of the trunk lines in the eastern region. The engineers plan to build a transportation machine which will be modern in every respect and they will not be hampered by any heritages of antiquated lines or equipment.

To Have Low Grades

THE new line will have maximum grades of only 0.3 per cent, which are lower than over any other route. It will be from 75 to 120 miles shorter than other lines when used for traffic between New York and Chicago. Its curves will be more moderate than on the other routes. It will start with the most modern equipment.

All this will mean operating costs unparalleled by any other major American railroad system. Engineers have estimated that the ratio of expenses to gross income will be in the neighborhood of 40.47 per cent. The nearest approaches to this are found in the Virginian Railway, with a 1928 ratio of 54.67 per cent, and in the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, with a ratio of 56 per cent.

Among the ratios of other carriers in 1928 were the Pennsylvania with 73.80 per cent, New York Central with 75.60 per cent, Baltimore and Ohio with 72.90 per cent, Delaware, Lackawana and Western with 71.40 per cent and Lehigh Valley with 74.83 per cent.

Fight for Permission

IN spite of the engineering advantages of the line, Loree will have a long uphill fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission before he can start building his $177,740,373 project.

The other trunk lines will oppose his renewed application just as they fought when the case was before the commission in the past. While the application maintains that many of the existing trunk lines can save money by using parts of the new system, it seems quite probable that they are afraid of having the present balance of power in the railroad field upset and also it is very likely that they are afraid that the new line might cause a downward revision in rates.

Rejected in Past

THE Interstate Commerce Commission once before dismissed the application to build the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago Railroad, but did not give unqualified disapproval. It ruled that "the application should be denied, but without prejudice to resubmission with additional support and upon a record that will give broader consideration to the public interest."

The brief filed yesterday takes the stand that the past objections have been answered. In reference to the consolidation program it proposes to make the new line complementary to the other systems. In reaching New York it could go over the tracks of either the Central of New Jersey or the Lehigh Valley. To the west it could use tracks of the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio or other lines.

ROADS PROTEST LOREE PLAN

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A group of eastern railroads today renewed their attack on the application of the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago (L. F. Loree's road), for authority to construct 284 miles of new line across Pennsylvania from Easton to Pittsburgh.

In a brief filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission counsel for the protesting roads said "manifestly a road nearly 300 miles long, having no prospect of originating any substantial tonnage represents an anomaly in the transportation world."

The brief said:

"The applicant has built its case on the theory that traffic in the United States shows a constant tendency to increase and that this tendency justifies the construction of the proposed road.

"Of course, everyone is familiar with the fact that the motor truck has become a serious factor as a competitor of the railroad. The fact that statistics do not indicate the tendency of railroad service to increase as rapidly as it has increased in the past only reflect what one would naturally expect to find in view of the development of competitive methods of transportation and the change in industrial practices."

The protesting roads include the B. & O., Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Reading.

Exports of Grain Larger for Week

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP.)—Exports of grain from United States during the week ended March 1 totaled 1,347,000 bushels as compared with 618,000 in the previous week, and 3,259,000 in the corresponding week of last year.

The Department of Commerce report today showed wheat exports for the week totaled 734,000 bushels against 273,000 bushels in the preceding week; barley 376,000 bushels against 68,000 bushels; corn 164,000 bushels against 129,000 bushels; oats 66,000 against 41,000; rye 7,000 against 7,000.

Canadian grains in transit shipped from United States Atlantic ports totaled 901,000 bushels against 1,172,000 in the preceding week.

Wheat flour exports from the United States totaled 237,000 barrels against 157,000 barrels and Canadian wheat flour shipped from United States ports totaled 28,000 barrels against 27,000 barrels.

Welders Make Big Wages,

YOU CAN LEARN

We have been in the welding business 16 years. Even so, we don't know all about welding but all we do know is welding. That knowledge can be yours.

We don't make a set of lessons and then refer them to you. Each lesson we give is especially prepared to fit your needs.

We teach acetylene sheet metal, pipe, electric arc and aircraft welding.

We will try your best to give instructions at a price that will fit your pocketbook.

We will write you if you can call and discuss the matter with us. We will tailor your proposition as though it were our own, and we will be just as helpful as we know how.

Salaries are high in the welding business. An inquiry from you and we'll do the rest.

CHARLES H. KLINE, MAYOR.
EDWARD G. LANG, DIRECTOR DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

NO. 46.

AN ORDINANCE—Making appropriations to pay the expenses of conducting the public business of the City of Pittsburgh and for meeting the debt charges thereof for the fiscal year beginning March 1, 1930, and ending December 31, 1930.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh in Council assembled and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the revenues of said City derived from taxes and other sources for that portion of the fiscal year beginning March 1, 1930, for a period of ten months, ending December 31, 1930, as further appropriated in the sum of $22,647,634.22 to pay the expenses of conducting the public business of the City of Pittsburgh and meeting the debt charges thereof during the said period beginning March 1, 1930, for a period of ten months ending December 31, 1930, and all unencumbered balances of appropriations remaining open upon the books of the City Controller at the close of the fiscal year shall be and the same are hereby ordered to be carried forward to the credit of the appropriations for the next succeeding year, except such as shall be especially required by letter from the Director or Chairman of the special activity having the matter in charge certifying that the amounts requested are required for the purpose for which appropriated, and such balances as shall be directed to be carried over to the fiscal year 1931 by resolution of ordinance of Council.

SECTION 2. No liability shall be incurred against any appropriation item in excess of the unencumbered balance thereof, and said appropriation items shall be administered subject to and in conformity with the following terms and conditions:

(a) The heads of the several departments shall prepare their several payrolls for audit by the Controller in accordance with the items of the ordinance establishing the respective positions and rates of compensation, and no payroll shall be approved for payment by the Controller unless the incumbents and the rates of compensation agree with the items of said ordinance, and unless the payroll shows the appropriation amount of accounts chargeable with the compensation of each employee included thereon.

(b) There shall be affixed to all payrolls a certificate made by the person preparing such payrolls to the effect that there is a time record on file in said department certifying that a person or persons having knowledge of the facts, showing the character of service and exact time of employment of each person named in the payroll, and that the distribution of time as shown on the payroll is in accordance with such time record.

(c) No transfer shall be made from one appropriation item to another except by resolution or ordinance of Council, and such resolution or ordinance shall in each case set forth the reasons for such request and be accompanied by a certification from the Controller stating that there is a sufficient balance unencumbered and available in the appropriation item from which the transfer is to be made.

SECTION 3. No obligation shall be incurred by any department of the City government, other than for salaries or wages, or for necessary expenses of employees when engaged upon City business except through the issue of order stating the service to be rendered, work performed, or supplies, materials or equipment to be furnished together with the estimated cost of the same. The Director of the Department of Supplies is hereby authorized and directed to provide upon requisition by the head of any department all necessary supplies, materials, equipment and machinery for such department; provided, however, that no requisition of any department shall be filled by the Director of the Department of Supplies in excess of the unencumbered balance of the appropriation properly chargeable, and that no order shall be issued by the Director of the Department of Supplies, or by the head of any other department of the City government until it has been approved by the City Controller. Payments on account of direct purchases shall be made from the amounts hereinafter appropriated therefor upon requisitions. Purchases made by the Director of the Department of Supplies to go into stores shall be paid for from the fund provided for such purpose and when and as directed by the City Controller said fund shall be reimbursed from other appropriations to be selected and otherwise made from stores.

SECTION 4. For purposes of administration and accounting control the code symbols indicated herein shall be considered as part of the appropriation titles:

DAILY TRUE STORY

MR. H. TITHERINGTON BARKER was inclined at times to be somewhat snooty, especially about his wife's relatives.

Mr. Barker was a building contractor, and quite successful in the small but flourishing inland city where he lived.

His household consisted of himself—he was the sort who would say it that way—his wife, little Polly, their small daughter, and Janice, his wife's sister.

"Might as well add that pest Nick Curtis," Barker said on more than one occasion, "he's here most of the time."

Nick Curtis longed to marry Janice.

Janice hoped he would.

Mr. Barker frequently voiced his opinion to the effect that a handsome girl like Janice could find a much more desirable husband than Nick Curtis.

Mrs. Barker seldom opposed her husband in argument. She was in love with him. She loved him as much, probably, as he loved himself. What more could he desire?

But Mrs. Barker often wondered, as did Janice, why Nick continued to make violent and apparently sincere love to the girl and yet declined asking the great question.

And Mrs. Barker quite approved of young Mr. Curtis.

Finally Nick did propose.

How Janice reacted to this marital proposition was not difficult to learn. The really handsome solitaire that sparkled suddenly on her finger was the answer.

Mr. H. Titherington Barker noticed it at luncheon.

He came home for luncheon as his office was but a short drive from his pretty home with its trim lawn and rather too geometrically arranged shrubbery.

"Ha!" he exclaimed. "What effulgence."

"It's a perfect blue-white, Harley," his wife said. Much as she loved him, she could never bring herself to call him "Titherington."

Sophisticated

Mr. Barker reached out and drew the hand of Janice toward him. He adjusted his glasses. He twisted her slim and pretty hand this way and that. His object was to give the impression that he was a keen judge of gems. Barker had a weakness for posing as being perfect in a great many things.

"Odd looking facets," he said.

"The stone is perfect," Janice said. She hoped she could keep her temper. Her right hand was ready to slap him if he pulled any cracks about it being pressed glass.

"I meant that while it's pretty, er—superficially pretty, I don't think it is so valuable as it seems—more flashy—"

"Look here, you most adorable man," said Janice, and anyone except Barker would have noted the sarcasm, "I selected that stone myself. Nick told me to do so. The price of the stone before it was in a setting was forty-two hundred dollars. The setting cost a hundred and fifty. The ring cost Nick forty-three hundred and fifty dollars, which makes it more valuable by three thousand dollars than any gem you ever gave my sister."

Loves Nick

"But what gets me is how that young Curtis can afford it," Mr. Barker said. He doesn't seem to do much. He has no trade, no profession. He pretends to dabble a little in real estate, but as he spends most of his time hanging around you, I can't see for the life of me how he gets away with it. His office is a little two by twice in the old Ferguson block—and lord knows what he'll do for an office soon, as that old block is coming down. I hope to build the 20-story block that's to take its place. I'm working on specifications and getting my bids ready. In fact, the company's plans for this new block are already out."

"You should worry about getting that contract H. Titherington, and not about Nick's future office," Janice said.

"Tut-tut, always interested in your future. Want you to get a man who is up and coming, a doer, not a loafer."

"What you don't know about Nick is plenty," Janice said, and then, "Oh, well, I love him—it's my affair. What's the name they are going to call this new 20-story block?"

"I suppose the stockholders will decide on that later. I certainly want to get the contract—I'm figuring low enough, but at that, with my stock in the brick and tile company, I can get materials cheap enough to clean up 30 or 40 thousand clean profit. Now that's the sort of a man you ought to get, Janice—a man who does big business in a big way."

"I hope you get the contract, Titherington, for Polly's sake."

"Huh? What, Auntie Jan?" asked little Polly.

"I meant your mama, big Polly," Janice said, giving the handsome child a pinch on her chubby cheek.

Papers Missing

The time was almost due for putting in bids for this new block. Barker had his bids all in readiness. He worked on them nights at home in his library, as he wouldn't trust any one in his office. One glance might reveal some figures and a man could go to a rival and get a goodly price for just that information.

Barker planned to wait until the last day and personally deliver his estimate to Judge Harwood, in charge of awarding the contract, along with the building committee.

After breakfast he went to his library and opened the lower drawer of his desk.

It was empty!

H. Titherington Barker stared in amazement. He was a methodical man. He never misplaced anything.

Yesterday his papers were all in that drawer along with private cost sheets and data he wouldn't have anyone else see.

He went methodically through his desk. No trace of the valuable papers.

He called in his wife.

No, she hadn't been near his desk.

H. Titherington Barker suddenly remembered that Nick Curtis had been at his home last night. Barker and his wife were entertaining friends in the living room and Janice and Nick had gone into the library.

He called Janice.

She knew nothing about the missing papers. She denied that either of them had opened any drawer in the desk.

"But you left Curtis here alone to go and get refreshments and stuff!"

"Of course."

"There you are! I always suspected him—"

"You are crazy!" Janice snapped the words like one snapping the whip. "I won't discuss it. You probably took them to bed with you or—or mailed them or something."

"We'll see," Barker said.

Those papers had to be delivered to Judge Harwood's office by 6 that night.

Barker went directly to the little office of Nick Curtis.

"A joke is a joke, Curtis, but it's no joke to take my papers—estimates and bid on the new block," Barker said, sharply.

"I didn't take them—I know nothing about them, Mr. Barker—but of course you have duplicates—"

Barker Angry

"The duplicates are in no form to be turned in as a bid. I had hoped you'd at least say you did it for a joke. I'm losing a small fortune and a business reputation."

"I'm sorry, sincerely sorry—make a big search. I can only say that I didn't even know you kept such papers in your home . . . they should have been in your office safe."

"Don't advise me, you young upstart—" Barker quieted down again, "and listen to me. I'll break you, I'll drive you out of the city—and you cannot marry my sister-in-law!"

"Be your age, H. Titherington—run around the block and cool off—well, I'm sorry—if I can help you—I suppose I'd be rattled and lose my temper. Remember, if I can help—"

"Shut up! I'm a bad man to monkey with. I'll do everything to you that I just said!"

Barker went home.

A telephone call came. It was from Judge Harwood.

"We've postponed the date another week—no need to rush your bid in today, Mr. Barker," the judge said.

H. Titherington telephoned the big city and talked with Mr. Archibald Gillis. Mr. Gillis listened and said he would come over himself instead of sending any of his staff detectives.

Mr. Gillis arrived at 2 p. m. There wasn't a hint of Sherlock Holmes about him. He walked up from the station, looked the Barker house over, strolled through the grounds for a moment and then went to the door and pushed the button.

Hat Box Doll's Bed

Barker took him into his library. Over the telephone he had simply told Gillis that he had lost valuable papers and suspected a certain party.

"I'll tell you about the young man I suspect stole my papers—"

Mr. Gillis raised his hand and shook his head.

"Your little daughter wants a baby carriage for her doll," he said.

"Wha—what—"Barker almost choked. "Godfrey. She's been teasing for one for weeks. How did you know?"

"You will probably find your silk hat on some dusty closet floor—"

"Don't be funny. I keep it in my hat box!"

"Nevertheless, it is probably on a closet floor. You will find your missing papers in your hat box—you will find your hat box under a rhododendron bush in your yard, with a doll sitting on the papers—"

Barker rushed out. Gillis followed him. The hat box was found as described. Barker started to babble about miracle-workers. Gillis laughed.

"I happened to see it there as I was walking about your lawn. The string around the hat box and the doll inside meant that your little girl used it in lieu of a doll carriage. The papers, I suspect, the child stuffed into the box to give padding so dolly's head could stick over the rim."

Barker, to do him justice, telephoned for Nick Curtis.

"I'm sorry—I made a fool of myself, Curtis," he said, when that young man arrived.

"Nature did that," snapped Janice, "and you don't know how! It was Nick who had the opening of the bids postponed—you see he could do that because the building company was phoney—he's the whole works, it's going to be called the Curtis block and you'll get the bid anyway!"

"Didn't I always tell you, Janice," said Barker, impressively, "that Mr. Curtis was a brilliant young man!"

YOU ALWAYS HIRE LAWYERS IN THE SAME WAY YOU BUY FAKE OIL STOCKS. GOOD SALESMANSHIP.
YOU DIDN'T NEED A LAWYER, ANYHOW. FOR TWO REASONS. THE FIRST IS THAT ONE SUIT MORE OR LESS MEANS NOTHING TO PEOPLE SUED AS OFTEN AS LOUIE AND CLARYCE. THE OTHER IS THAT YOU STILL DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'D SUE THEM FOR.
ALL I ASK IS JUSTICE. NOTHING MORE. THE ONLY DIFFERENCE I CAN SEE BETWEEN GRABBING A RICH RELATIVE AND MY WATCH IS THAT I COULD GET ANOTHER WATCH.

Boy Scouts' Exposition Should Be Big Success

Beginning today in Syria Mosque, Boy Scouts will hold an exposition throughout the remainder of the week. The show is planned to be an extensive affair, under the auspices of Allegheny Council, Boy Scouts of America. Among the features will be a demonstration of the work on which boys are awarded merit badges. There will be 1,000 participants in the 50 sections of the demonstration. A pageant on the stage will depict scouting activities the world around.

It is estimated that 100,000 persons will have attended when closing time arrives Saturday night. Unless that is the capacity of the Mosque for five days the total attendance should be more. We ought to have enough interest in our boys and their work to encourage them in their activities. Attendance will indicate that interest in no uncertain way.

The boy of today is the man of tomorrow, and the kind of training he receives as a Boy Scout tends to develop characteristics that will make him self-reliant, just, considerate. The exposition is his show. Help him to make it a success.

Quick Disposal of Snow Keeps State Roads Open

Motorists who had occasion to travel the state highways yesterday, and even on Sunday, were agreeably surprised to find little or no obstruction despite the fall of snow. One reports having driven more than 250 miles Sunday without having found a place where a highway department crew had not been at work with snowplow. Many roads had been cindered. It is reported that as soon as the snow made its appearance, with a fall of two to five inches throughout the western part of the state, approximately 500 road crews grappled with the task of keeping the roads open.

From appearances, this is one of the best organized and most efficiently operated of the state's services to the public. The crews are prepared to get to work at any time of night or day, and do so as soon as one inch of snow that is likely to drift has fallen or when there is moist snow to the depth of two inches. Their task is to keep the roads open or to reopen them as quickly as possible in case of a severe storm. And they do it, according to all reports.

Bulls and Bull-fighters

And a Few Other Animals.

Spain's bull-fight season opens early this year, if that is of any interest.

The new Madrid arena will seat 22,000. Not as many as the Yale bowl, but a fair number. King Alfonso, Queen Victoria, and the royal family will attend the "corridas" whenever the business of state permits.

A disagreeable feature of the fights, which shocks our prize ring crowds when they read about it, will now be less disagreeable. The horses ridden by the picadors and disembowelled by the bull's horns will wear pads. These will give them some protection, allow them to be gored oftener but less painfully, until they are eventually killed.

Picadors will also wear pads, but the bulls will not.

"arcial Lalanda, ace of "toreadors," who killed 200 bulls ar, will try to beat his record. He has kept in trim this by playing football. Perhaps bull-fighting will seem vacation to him now.

Little Spanish boys and girls of fourteen or less will not be allowed to watch the fights. They are barred already from boxing contests, which Spaniards consider REALLY brutal.

You are interested to hear that many brilliant bull-fighters spent the off-season at the ranches where bulls are bred. There they fought informally with the cows. If the cow was sufficiently enraged, she was kept to become the mother of gallant bull sons. If she lacked spirit, she was marked for the slaughter house.

In the bovine circles, apparently, it is NOT the meek that inherit the earth.

Spain breeds bulls with great care, as England and Amer. breed race horses or prize pigs.

Fine, healthy animals are wanted.

All countries leave the breeding of healthy children to chance or whim. Little attention or none at all is paid to the heredity of the parents. The diseased, the morons, the incompetents are free to bring children into the world, and oddly enough, they bring MORE than do the men and women who are healthy, wealthy and wise.

That seems strange when you think about it.

Still, animals are important.

Bargains in Jails

Slightly Used, But Still Serviceable.

While enlightened America is raising millions for bigger and better prisons, read this dispatch from darkest England:

"Britain's prison population is declining so rapidly that more jails are to be closed and sold under a reorganization scheme, according to an announcement made by Home Secretary J. R. Clynes. Twenty-seven English jails have been closed since 1911."

And whatever may be the reason for the popularity of jails in this country, there is no doubt that it is a Godsend to the prison builders. A few years more and the jail building industry will be more profitable even than bootlegging in the United States. Maybe that is what the financial experts mean when they talk about the business cycle. Anyway, it is in line with the President's plan to relieve unemployment by speeding necessary public works.

But admitting the merits of this program to tide us over the period of depression, perhaps it would be truer economy to buy England's cast off jails and set them up here. We can get them in bargain lots. And there's the war debt to pay for them.

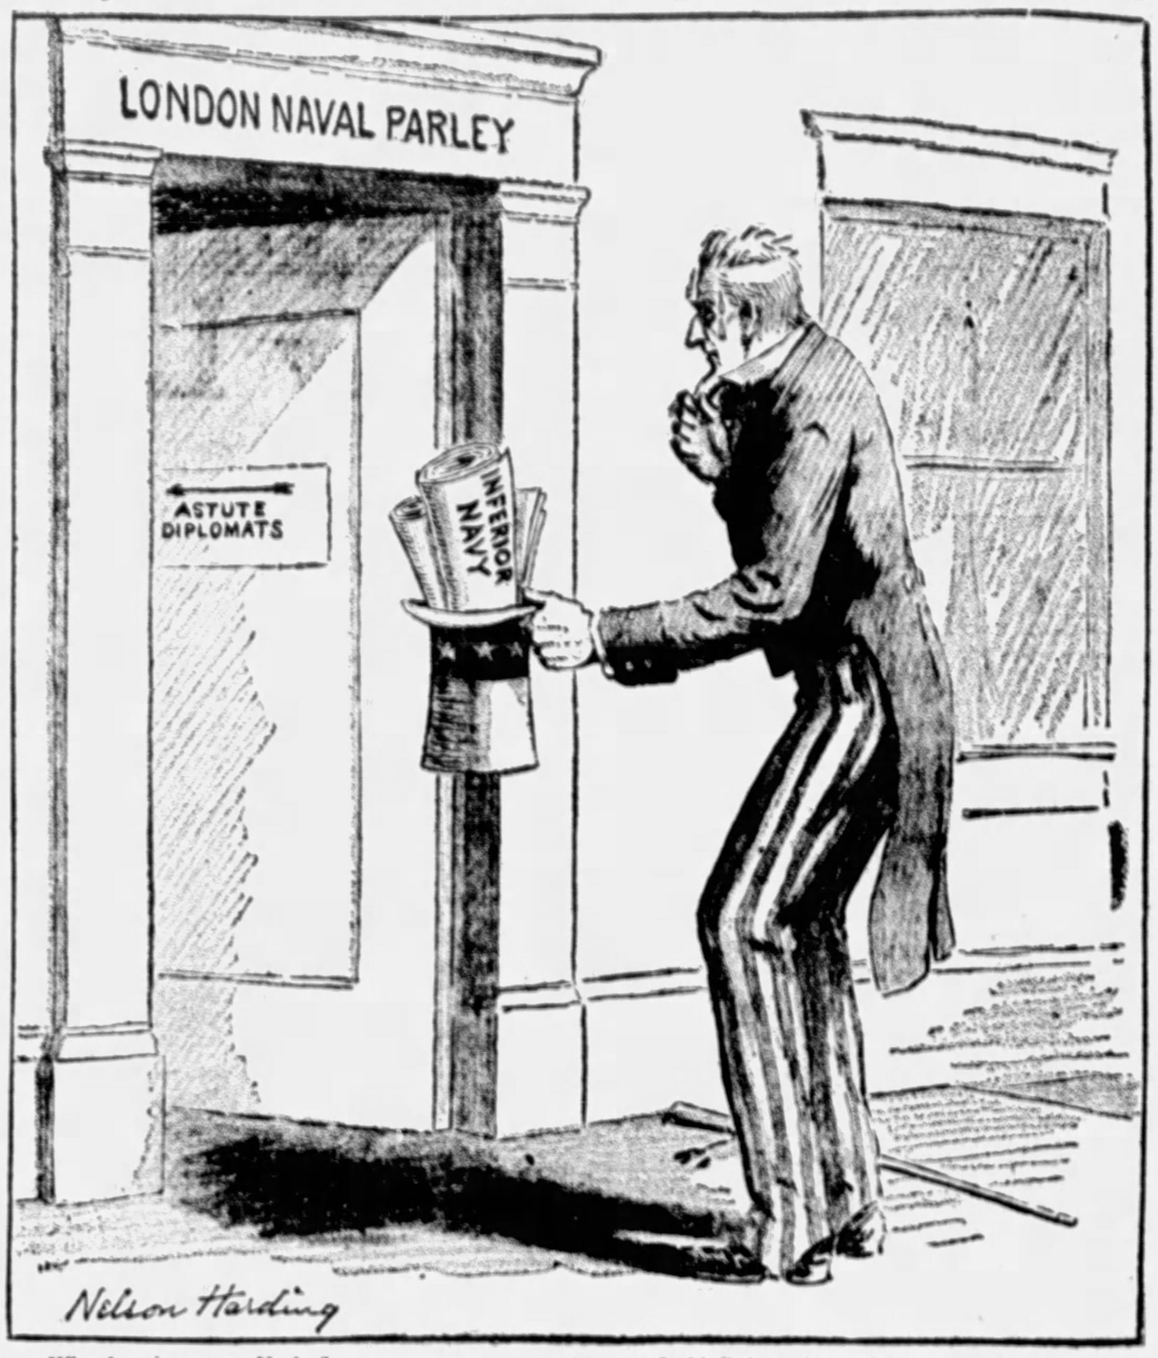
Why the Inferiority Complex?

Drawn by Nelson Harding



Why does important Uncle Sam
Behave like any awkward child,
And why does he permit himself
To be so easily beguiled,

Or bluffed by clever diplomats,
Whenever he confers abroad?
Perhaps he'd better come back home
To have his confidence restored. —N. H.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

A Few Questions

THE annual questionnaire among college seniors indicates that the consensus of opinion is unnecessary.

Who are the greatest figures in history? Seven and eleven.

How many hugs do you get to the gallon? One and a slap.

What is your favorite film star? The guy who gets choked by George Bancroft.

Do you consider Ramsay MacDonald a greater man than Lady Astor?

Did you earn your varsity football letter at the junior prom?

Are you in favor of prohibition? On sober second thought we are.

Is there more gold in the United States Treasury than there is silver in hip flasks?

Did Columbus give that jewelry back to Isabella or did she have to sue?

Name three great reformers. Name two. Name one. We'll drop the subject.

Are you one of those students who goes to a barber shop to have his raccoon coat marcelled?

If you had your choice of marrying Peggy Hopkins or being deported what boat would you take?

Do you think that education improves the mind?

Did you get a salary for playing football in college or were you in the glee club?

Did you know that Napoleon, Lincoln, Alexander and some of the most famous men in history never autographed a banjo?

How many decimals are there in a polka dot necktie?

Do you like our first or second Constitution the best?

If you entered the diplomatic service which nation would you pick the first fight with?

If oil and water could be mixed what would it be worth a quart?

(Copyright, 1930.)

Isn't It So?

Fault finding never mended a fault.

Patience is a virtue. Suspicion generally finds what it is looking for if it looks long enough.

Knowledge comes with years. The longer a man lives, the more he realizes what he might have done.

It would probably be just as easy to fall in love with a rich girl as with a poor one if there wasn't so much competition.

TELL IT TO PHARAOH!

By Herbert Kaufman

NURSERY rhyme illustrators, formerly compelled to draw entirely upon imagination, may now at least present an authoritative portrait of Little Miss Muffet.

Thanks to research by Lloyd Riggs, at the Rutgers College of Pharmacy, we are assured that Mr. Muffet's charming daughter was an exceedingly sturdy child, with straight back, unbowed legs, knobless knees, and sound, even teeth.

And all because she was so fond of whey.

Dr. Riggs has been conducting a series of experiments which indicate that the by-product liquor of cheese-making remarkably supplies the system with a balanced mineral ration, to lack of which are traced rickety bones, soft teeth and tubercular susceptibility.

These, preliminary tests confirm that whey-salts are more effective and economical than when partaken in whole milk — two quarts of which are required to furnish the equivalents in a mere pinch of the eliminated elements.

BAD news for the dentist and milkman. But a fifty-fifty break for the new Kraft-National Dairies consolidation, which can offset potential losses for one end of the combine with unexpected profits at the other.

Not to be outdone by a mere whey-bowl, the great American desert suddenly decides it's high time to remind science we might have enjoyed thousands of current cures and comforts aeons ago, if investigation hadn't been so slow to look beyond its nose.

Prospectors, there, have just located carbon-dioxide wells capable of refrigerating all the food products traversing America.

By separating its inflammable content, power can be obtained on the spot to compress and tank dry-ice in its gas form for broadcast shipment.

If this sort of thing keeps up, we'll soon be building air-cooled summer hotels all over Death Valley. And Atlantic City will find itself in competition with the Sahara as a hot-weather resort.

EVEN geology can't guess half of what's still tucked among the sands and in the rocks. Hardly a year passes but some bright, young laboratory-furnace detects another unheard-of metal from the conglomerate with which it was fused during the melting-pot season of creation.

Your grandfather hadn't the faintest notion of titanium, or beryllium, or molybdenum, or vanadium.

And, until last week, the state of Georgia wasn't aware that its native springs are charged heavier with radium than the famous seepings at Joachimstall, whose source is the world's primary deposit of pitchblende.

Prof. Hootman, of Emory University, is authority for the statement that Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, alone holds more than 35,000 curies of radio-activity—double the verified impregnation of the German spring. He hasn't yet trailed the actual radium bed that feeds these precious waters, but time will finally smoke the secret out of hiding.

THE bloodhound methods of chemistry, once on the scent can never be foiled of their quarry.

Their baying is even heard along the Jordan and on the shores of the Dead Sea, where the full resources of entomology are now massed against the direst plague that ever impended over the Palestine area. Two hundred and fifty thousand acres of crops, yonder, are being snatched from total destruction by a forehanded spray-gun and torch attack upon districts where the insects are incubating. Tell it to Pharaoh!

Dearths, blights, discomforts and disease aren't visitations of providence, but indications of human indifference and improvidence.

Specifics for all the tribulations and shortages that infest the universe are cached in rock, water, air and soil—and in the exhaustless remedy chest above your collar.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

DO you want to stay young, active, eager and magnetic?

Want to keep your enthusiasms and your place in the Big Parade? Want to be as vital at 60 as you were at 16?

It can be done. It has been done. There's one way of doing it. . . and only one:

Make life hard for yourself!
Keep life hard for yourself!
Choose a job that hurts!

This, of course, isn't the sort of a job most of us are looking for. Anything but! We want a soft snap. . . easy hours . . . good pay. . . no interference or difficult demands. We are trained to desire that sort of a job when we're youngsters. Constantly we hear of "lucky people" who have jobs like that. If, eventually, we land such a job for ourselves, we think we're sitting pretty. But as a matter of fact, we couldn't be sitting worse.

There's nothing that will put you out of the running quicker than a soft snap.

Minds need difficulty in their schedules just as bodies need roughage in their diets.

You can't keep physically fit without exercise, fresh air, cold water, coarse, wholesome food. You can't keep mentally fit, without conflict, criticism, danger, disappointment, failure, humiliation and constant, everlasting pressure. Grit in your food keeps fat off your waistline . . . grief in your work keeps it off your brain.

If you want to keep young and fit, pick a program that hurts.

And this applies to marriage as well as any other career. We have an idiotic theory that marriage, to be successful, should be perfectly happy. But nothing could be worse for the average human than to find a mate who always adores and protects.

An easy life is never a happy nor a healthy one. It has no perspective . . . nothing to stimulate it . . . nothing to make it proud. The most petted and protected people are always the most peevish.

Keep hustling . . . that's the first law of life for every living thing. Don't let yourself be comfortable. Don't let yourself feel safe. Constantly set up more difficult and dangerous tasks for yourself. Never let yourself say: "Well, now I can take things easy." The minute you begin to take things easy, that minute you're cooked! When you stop doing you start dying.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

BUT most bacteria are more conventional than this; they burn fuel and need oxygen and nourish themselves, like animals or fungi, on the living or dead bodies of other creatures.

We noted in an earlier section how difficult it is to classify micro-organisms into categories. The separation of bacteria from animals and plants is another example of this difficulty; here, again, there are border forms.

H. G. Wells

There are, for example, the so-called filamentous bacteria, which are very like the humbler blue-green algae, except that they are not blue-green. And there are the spirochates, a group which includes the parasites responsible for syphilis, that are in many respects intermediate between bacteria and the flagellate protozoa; it is still uncertain whether they are most nearly related to the former or to the latter.

Moreover, in some ways bacteria are very like yeasts. The bacteria, then merge into the simpler animals and plants, just as the latter two groups merge into each other.

Usually they are regarded as being less animal-like than vegetable like (they are described, for example, in standard textbooks of botany, but not of zoology), but this again is a nice question; there are bacteria that wriggle very much like animals and nourish themselves on organic food not at all after the typical plant manner.

Indeed, the line between animal and plant is such a vague one that the question has little meaning. At this level of being the distinction of plant and animal, like the distinction of sex, has practically disappeared.

It would be difficult to overstate the practical importance of these creatures — invisibly small, but swarming in incalculable multitudes.

There is hardly a human activity that is not affected in some way by bacteria, acting either as friends or as enemies. There is hardly a nook or cranny on the surface of the earth that they do not inhabit.

They are found in the air, in the soil, in the waters.

The bacteria in the air are chiefly carried on particles of dust; the air of an assembly hall in Paris was found to contain nearly ten thousand bacteria and two thousand five hundred mould spores per cubic yard. The decay of dead things is in large measure due to bacteria.

They penetrate into the bodies of living creatures and there behave in various ways, some being harmful to their hosts and some, as we shall learn, doing good.

They teem in the soil, and especially in the upper few inches of it; the smell of a newly-tilled field is due to the products of countless soil bacteria.

A lifeless world, we may note, would be completely odorless except perhaps for such cold unemotional scents as chlorine and ozone and the oxides of nitrogen. And most of the odors in this world are due to microscopic creatures.

There are, of course, many flowers and animals with characteristic smells for which they are directly responsible, but the smells of decaying things (not really a sign of death, but a sign of teeming bacterial life), the smell of a sea beach, the smell of a wood in winter, the smell of a stable, the smell of the earth after rain—these are all bacterial odors, produced by creatures too small to be seen.

The most subtle and complicated and delicate perfumes that we know are produced in this way.

The bouquet of a wine is due to the swarms of micro-organisms that have thrived in it, and it is at least possible that the subtler flavors of choice cigars are due to bacteria that have lived on the heaps of tobacco leaves when they were put out to dry.

The bacteria, indeed, are on the whole a much-abused group. They are usually spoken of simply as creatures which cause disease; their more beneficial activities are less widely noised.

It is, of course, true that there are disease-producing bacteria, and very important ones—cholera, typhoid, diphtheria, plague, pneumonia, tuberculosis — these are only a few of the major disorders for which bacteria are responsible.

It is no exaggeration to say that without bacteria, life on this world would be quite impossible.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 4.—Few business ventures in New York have such unstable popularity as the restaurant. One night it may be blazing with light and the next deserted. And once the shutters are closed, it is rare that interest is revived.

When I came to the big town, the crowded eating places were Rector's, the Knickerbocker, Churchill's, Shanley's and Martin's. Not one is open today. In each instance the high class service had been maintained. But crowds began to drift elsewhere.

Restaurant popularity is at the mercy of a public whim. Sometimes this is the head-waiter, the orchestra, the decorations or special dishes. But mostly a cafe clientele is like sheep, blindly following the bell wether. In New York people dine out chiefly to be seen.

Many restaurants—the Casino in the park is an example—have attained a sudden prosperity largely through exploitation of very high prices. Yet the appeal of swank is uncertain. Every restaurant insisting upon full evening dress has been invariably short lived.

A conspicuous example of the rise and fall of a restaurant was noted in the closing of the restaurant Quan in the East Fifties. It was opened by Ping Quan, former steward on the presidential yacht Mayflower, and was decorated in the manner of a yacht deck.

Quan had won nation-wide notice as a cook for Coolidge and Harding, and a number of his dishes were named for them. The place got away to a flying start and the food was highly bespoke by gourmands. Yet just as suddenly trade fell away and Quan waited hopefully amid his empty tables.

Several years ago a cafe called The Flotilla was fitted up like a ship at the cost of a million dollars. It engaged the celebrated Theodore as Maitre de hotel, but languished only a short while. One explanation was that its marine trappings suggested seasickness. And maybe that is what happened at Quan's.

The power of suggestion does not always, however, effect appetites. For many years a lunch room patronized by seamen on West street did a thriving business although it displayed a poisonous live snake in its window.

And San Francisco has—or did have last summer—a prosperous restaurant called The Fly Trap.

One meets strange people at those afternoon teas curiously tagged as "literary." A bobbed, soulful lady—you know, a Countess with a bandeau—was explaining she and her writer husband occupied separate apartments. "It is the only way," she gurgled, "for him to feel free to express himself." Diligent inquiry developed that up to date his sole literary activity was to write an occasional review of a book for an obscure quarterly.

Yet it is not quite fair to class all these attic dreamers as poseurs. There are any number quite willing to gnaw at crusts for their ideal. A young poet whose poems lack the bounce has a knack for writing bright advertising slogans. He has been offered $8,000 a year for his talents by an advertising concern. He returned the letter with a penciled notation: "I am not a literary prostitute."

* * *

For more than 20 years I have eaten but two meals a day—breakfast and dinner—with not a bite between. Recently I decided to have a light breakfast, a heavy lunch and light dinner. After six days of it I could neither eat, sleep nor work. Habit is strong. News is scarce. And how have you been?

I sat with Will Rogers through one act at the opening of his friend Fred Stone's play and turned suddenly to find the big stiff crying like a baby.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

IF you would realize how little there is to the obstacles you see ahead—try to remember the things over which you worried yesterday, that never came to pass.

It is the trifles we worry about.

It is a blessing that one cannot see or comprehend difficulties of great moment before they come.

Thinking is done in a small way, little by little.

Little worries accumulate till one feels powerless to meet them.

But the actual things that mean a crisis in life come too suddenly to be able to worry about them, ahead of time.

Often the troubles might be dissipated by careful thought and planning.

Instead you lose confidence in self and merely worry.

As a normal human being you should be able to meet the little baffling conditions as they arise in your life as in the lives of nearly every person.

But perhaps you avoid difficult things—you have gone around them instead of fighting them out in a face to face manner.

Naturally, if you try to evade hard things, you will be ever fearful.

You need trying things to develop yourself.
